PERIL FACES FARMERS

Decision Menaces California

Supreme Court Ruling Lets Down Bars Designed to Guard Agriculture

Action Causes Sensation in Ranks of Cotton Men and Fruit Growers Here

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The farmers of California are face to face with one of the greatest menaces that ever threatened them. By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the California state quarantine laws designed to protect the fruit growers, the alfalfa growers and all others of the state engaged in agriculture or horticulture against the insect pests that infest the Eastern and Southern States, are knocked into a cocked hat and the State is left open to the invasion of pests unless the United States government shall step in.

A decision handed down by the Supreme Court a few days ago in a case involving the Washington state quarantine law, held that the state has no authority to adopt a quarantine against another state in cases where the Federal government has jurisdiction.

The Washington case involved a shipment of alfalfa. A quarantine was placed against outside shipments to keep out the alfalfa weevil. The Oregon-Washington railroad brought suit to prevent the imposition of the quarantine as it interfered with shipments on the railroad.

Under the decision, California's state law that quarantines the Mediterranean fruit growers against pests such as the dangers of pests on the orange and grapefruit of Florida, is null and void. Not only is California affected by the decision, but every other State.

The news of the decision did not become general until today, but it has caused a tremendous sensation. The cotton men of the South, after making a magnificent fight and under protection of the state laws that have saved the South from the boll weevil that annually ruins 50 per cent of the Southern cotton crop, now feel that they are threatened by extinction. Fruit men and alfalfa growers are especially exercised, as they see all protection against the insects, plant pests and diseases swept away and the growers set here dependent upon the government alone, which has all it can do to protect the international boundary lines of the country.

NEW YORK AND LONDON CHAT OVER TELEPHONE

Voices Clearly Heard at Both Ends of Long Land and Sea Circuit; Weather Favored Topic

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 7.—New York and London held their first telephone conversation today, the fiftieth anniversary of the day Alexander Graham Bell obtained the original patent for the instrument. As part of the program, a news dispatch was telephoned from London to the Associated Press in New York, the first news story ever thus to be transmitted across the ocean.

Across more than 3500 miles of land and sea, voices in London came clearly to listeners in New York, and were answered without difficulty. Reception at both ends was pronounced clearer even than on average local calls.

The first message transmitted was to a reporter for the Associated Press, relaying an interview with Ambassador A. B. Houghton by a reporter for outer's Telegraphic Agency, British news bureau.

The London talkers were at the British General Postoffice. Their words were carried by wire to the broadcasting station at Rugby, and thence broadcast 2900 miles across the Atlantic to a receiving station at Houlton, Me. From Houlton they came by wire 600 miles to the listeners in the American Telephone and Telegraph office in New York.

DIFFERENT ROUTE USED

The replies went from the New York office by wire to the broadcasting station at Rocky Point, L. I., across the Atlantic—3300 miles by this route—to a receiving station at Wroughton, Eng., and thence by wire to London.

Coincidence of these first public conversations with the anniversary with the patenting of the first telephone was an accident, discovered only after arrangements had been made.

It only missed by days coinciding with two other anniversaries in the history of the instrument. On March 10, 1876, Alexander Graham Bell spoke into the telephone in his garret in Boston to an assistant in the same building. That was the first telephone conversation. On March 12, 1916, he spoke by telephone again to the same assistant, but this time the assistant was in San Francisco and the telephone had conquered the continent.

WEATHER FAVORED TOPIC

Today's conversation concerned the news of the moment, the weather, . . . and persiflage. It began at 8 o'clock this morning in New York, which was 1 o'clock this afternoon in London.

An American newspaper woman opened the conversation. She said

SAFEGUARD EXPLOSIVES SHIPMENTS

Canadian and American Lines Haul 500,000,000 Pounds Without Accident

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Without death or injury to a single person, the American Railway Association announced tonight, American and Canadian railroads during 1925 handled more than 500,000,000 pounds of commercial explosives—approximately 375,000 carloads.

Explosions of toy torpedoes, the association's bureau of explosives said, were responsible for twenty-four of twenty-six accidents in transporting fireworks, none of which, however, proved fatal or injurious. Only thirteen were killed and fifty-seven injured, the bureau asserted, in the railroads' handling of millions of pounds of inflammable liquids, compressed gases, poisonous liquids and similar articles.

Ten of these deaths and fifteen of the injuries were due to explosions of gasoline and, the bureau added, "one-half the deaths and more than one-half of the injuries due to such accidents were the direct consequences of trespassers entering empty tank cars."

Benzoil and inflammable crude oil, next to gasoline, caused the heaviest damage, said the bureau's report, placing the property loss for the year from the causes considered at $1,000,000.

SANTA ROSA PAYS HONOR TO BURBANK

Wizard's Home Celebrates Anniversary of Birth as World Congratulates

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA ROSA, March 7.—While congratulatory telegrams were pouring in from al lparts of the nation virtually the whole city of Santa Rosa turned out today to honor Luther Burbank and help him celebrate his seventy-seventh birthday. Messages also were received from many foreign countries, all expressing hearty greeting to the venerable scientist who has devoted his life to making nature yield her ubundance to mankind.

The local festivities wre held at Burbank Memorial Park, where a party of American Legion men, assisted by other citizens, gave the park its annual Arbor Day cleaning, which this year fell on the plant wisard's birthday.

A huge birthday cake, fifteen inches high and covered with the full quota of seventy-seven candles, was cut by Burbank and distributed to the volnuteer workers. He appeared to be in the best of health and said he was looking forward to another year of hard work in his experimental garden.

England Gives Up Betting Tax Plan for Year

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, March 7.—Although the government decided against a tax on betting, at least for the current year, Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill has not allowed the idea to drop, and has, with the aid of a commission, been making further exhaustive investigations.

As a result, a memorandum dealing with all the aspects and possibilities of such a tax has been presented to the Cabinet for consideration. It is estimated that a betting tax might easily produce £16,000,000 yearly, and the Chancellor is loath to allow such a sum to escape him.

It is understood that Premier Baldwin and other Ministers are yet to be converted to the idea, which might offend the moral feelings of the country. Mr. Churchill, however, may attempt to introduce the tax next year.

"I Wonder if This is a Dud"

HIS POEM FIELD'S REQUIEM

Body of Poet Laid in Permanent Tomb to Simple Rites, Ending With "Little Boy Blue"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—With the last stanza of his famous poem, "Little Boy Blue," sounding as his requiem, the body of Eugene Field, the children's poet, was today simply, yet beautifully enshrined for posterity in a specially built tomb of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth.

Grown children who read and wept over the joys and sorrows of Field's host of characters almost a generation ago, even as children of today, were included in the scores of prominent literary and journalistic personages who followed the body of the children's poet from an obscure grave in Graceland Cemetery to the cloister in Holy Comforter Church. There, as Field himself would have wished, scores of little children mingled with the throngs.

Judge Jesse Holdom of the Cook County Superior Court, a personal friend of Field's for many years, delivered the eulogy and at its close he recited the immorial "Little Boy Blue," concluding:

"LITTLE BOY BLUE"

"Ay, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand,
Each in the same old place
Awaiting the touch of a little hand
And the smile of a little face
And they wonder, as waiting these long years through,
In the dust of that little chair
What has become of our Little Boy Blue
Since he kissed them and put them there."

With these words, the body was lowered to the tomb built to receive it, and as the marble slab with its plain inscription, "Eugene Field, 1850-1895, the Children's Poet," was lowered into place, Rev. Leland Hobart Danforth, rector of the church, pronounced a blessing.

Expressions of appreciation for the memorial and enshrinement came from all parts of the country.

WIDOW IN TRIBUTE

"I am deeply touched," Field's widow wrote, "with the unfolding of your plan to enshrine forever my husband's memory in this picturesque spot, made dear to my children and myself in the honoring of the little boy we could not keep, and whose memorial window will look out upon his grandfather's grave."

She referred to a memorial window to be in the cloister proper, a few feet from the poet's grave and dedicated to Field's grandson, William C. Englar, Jr.

Expressions of appreciation were read not only from Mrs. Field, but from Mrs. William C. Englar of Los Angeles, the post's daughter, and from Roswell Field, his son.

"TRIAL BETROTHAL" AMUSES

Announcement of Valentino-Pola Negri Engagement Leaves Former Mrs. Rudy Rather Cold

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 7.—Pola Negri's declaration that she has agreed to a "trial betrothal" to Rudolph Valentino, "my supreme man" leaves the recently divorced Mrs. Rudy rather cold. She arrived here today from New York and is at the Blackstone during her engagement at the Palace Theater this week.

"It sounds just as press agency to me," she commented, with an amused gleam in her almond-shaped eyes, "as Mr. Valentino's explanation of our break up. It is good stuff, really, this trial engagement business but I don't think it's quite as good as Mr. Valentino's tear-wrenching story of his great yearning for children and home, sweet home, and my utter antipathy to both.

"And isn't it droll to think of his singling out Pola of all people to be his better half in this domestic idyll?" she asked, "and smiled with her lips while her gray-green eyes glittered.

When, with a gallant little toss of her head she granted that "they are both very charming people" and hoped they'd be happy.

As for herself, "I'm through with love and marriage for a long, long time. Work is my only interest and my favorite phase of it is in the decorative end of the motion-picture business. I'd rather design sets and costumes than anything else. I never was very keen about acting for the screen and my last picture, which was perfectly terrible, hasn't changed my mind."

Mrs. Valentino, who is also billed as Natacha Rambova, was wearing a sable coat and the inevitable swathed head-dress—this time of lilac crepe—and beaucoup pomegranate lipstick.

EFFORT TO BLAST ICE JAM FAILS

Charges Planted in River Gorge to Avert Flood at Oil City Do Not Explode

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OIL CITY (Pa.,) March 7.—Failure marked the efforts of Dr. Howard T. Barnes, Montreal scientist, to discharge more shells of thermite in the Allegheny River gorge here today in an attempt to dislodge the ice jam which threatens to create a flood menace. Should the waters suddenly rise. Two containers placed in the ice at the southern end of the gorge failed to explode because of defective fuses. The shells were salvaged and work suspended for the day.

To date two containers of thermite have been exploded, one Friday and the other Saturday. Neither charge, to the observer, has had any pronounced effect on the ice. Dr. Barnes, however, said both "shots" were working satisfactorily, and that the one on Saturday "shook the ice considerably."

Dr. Barnes, armed with electrical squibs, which he said would eliminated the fuse trouble encountered today, will renew his attack tomorrow. Dynamiting, it was decided today, will be resumed at the southern end of the gorge at Brandon tomorrow. The local committee has joined forces with the Pennsylvania Railroad in the purchase of 6000 pounds of explosives.

Court's Ban on News of Murder Hearing Ignored

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BAY ST. LOUIS (Miss.) March 7. — Newspapers appeared in Bay St. Louis, county seat of Hancock county, today containing portions of the testimony introduced yesterday in the trial of Jesse Favre, charged with murder. An order was issued by Judge White February 27 that newspapers "having a circulation in Hancock county" refrain from publishing such testimony.

At the opening of the trial Judge White had his order read from the minutes of the court and emphasized it in remarks from the bench. He explained that the order was based on the presumption that other cases probably will be tried on the same facts to be developed in the Favre trial and publication of the testimony will handicap the court in its efforts to procure a fair and impartial jury for trial of these later cases.

Tomorrow's session will be the first since the judicial order has been violated.

Favre is being tried on a charge of murder resulting from the deaths of J. A. McLemore and W. M. Mingee, Federal entomologists, slain February 13, near Picayune, Miss.

GENEVA DEADLOCK PERILS LOCARNO AND LEAGUE

First Day of Meeting Ends With No Agreement Reached on Council Membership

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, March 7.—Locarno and the League of Nations, with th ehopes of mankind they embody, stand imperiled, for tonight Europe's leading statesmen separated without reaching an accord on the conditions under which Germany will enter the League.

These statesmen have gathered in Geneva to attend the meeting of the League Assembly and Council, opening tomorrow, the chief business of which is to consider Germany's entry and the possible enlargement of the Council. No agrement was reached on the problem of the reconstruction of the Council created by the demand of various nations for permanent seats. Germany was inflexible in refusing to accept any binding obligations in advance as to what she would do when she was elected to the Council.

France and Great Britain, particularly France, presented an argument to admit Spain to a permanent seat and all the more insistently as the Spanish delegation had announced during the day that if Spain were not elected to a permanent place concurrently with Germany she will resign her League membership.

FRENZIED CONFERENCES

M. Briand, the retiring French Premier; Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary; Count Skrzynski of Poland and an imposing Spanish delegation all arrived at an early hour from Paris. They had hardly time to locate their hotel rooms before there was launched an almost frenzied series of conversations and consultations. Speed was deemed a great essential because M. Briand announced that he was returning to Paris tonight to confer with President Doumergue tomorrow in an effort to solve the French Ministerial crisis.

Geneva streets were primarily dominated by swarms of journalists representing all sections of the globe. Germany alone sending 100. They moved swiftly between the various hotels trying to keep in touch with official Europe, which, with seven Premiers, thirteen Foreign Ministers, scores of Ambassadors and other diplomats, was virtually concentrated today in Geneva, momentarily the world's capital.

They were told by the Spanish leader that Spain was certain to obtain a permanent seat immediately; they saw M. Briand, smiling and indefatigable, calling on Dr. Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, to get the view of the Little Entente on the thorny problem of the Council reorganization. They observed M. Briand, also, hurriedly returning to his hotel and, according a precious half-hour to Count Skrzynski relative to the Polish candidacy for a permanent chair.

GERMANS GAY

They found Signor Scialoia of Italy hastily conferring with both Sir Austen Chamberlain and Dr. Benes, driving home Premier Mussolini's directions. They learned on good authority that Chancellor Luther and Dr. Stresemann had talked with Viscount Ishii, and deduced from this that Japan, shut out from Locarno by force of circumstances, was deftly playing no unimportant hand at Geneva.

The German Chancellor, Dr. Luther, and Foreign Minister Stresemann, who arrived here last evening, confronted the gloomy morning almost gayly. It was soon evident from the declaration of the German spokesmen that the developments in the situation, notably the French political crisis, had induced a stiffening of the German attitude and insistence by Germany that she alone should enter the Council by virtue of the law of Locarno.

In the meantime, the Chamberlain headquarters on the opposite shore of Lake Leman developed something concrete. The British spokesman said:

"All this misunderstanding about the Council has arisen from Locarno; hence it is necessary that the Locarno statesmen smooth out the difficulties. We have, therefore, decided to convoke a new Locarnist meeting."

The spokesman took occasion to

MEXICAN MINISTER RELEASED

Calles's Aide Freed on Bail Continues on Way to New York

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 7. J. M. Puig Casaurane, Mexican Minister of Public Instruction, arrested at San Benito, Tex., last night, was released on $500 bond and continued on his way to New York. The arrest was based on an indictment returned several months ago at Laredo charging libel. Bail was signed by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman from Texas. The Minister crossed the border at Brownsville yesterday on his way to lecture at Columbia University on the progress of education in Mexico.

The indictment against Casaurane was returned in 1925 following publication in El Democrata, Mexico City daily, of which Casaurane is editor, of an article bitterly attacking John A. Valls, District Attorney of Webb county, Texas, a former resident of Mexico, and one time confidential adviser to former President Diaz.

Valls said the article imputed a long list of crimes to him, including one assassination in 1894. It further stated that both the Mexican and American residents of Webb county were combining to effect his ejection from the United States.

MEXICO TO HAVE AIR FORCE

Army Aviators Will Spend 1,000,000 Pesos for Equipment in United States

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—Mexico hopes by the end of 1926 to possess military aviation corps comparable with that of any country of equal army strength, if not better, army officers here state.

To attain this end President Calles has authorized the War Department to select a number of the present Mexican aviation officers to visit the United States in an official capacity as purchasing agents for the government in the matter of up-to-date aviation equipment, for the government's airplane manufacturing plant established several years ago on the outskirts of Mexico City.

The officers will leave here with authority to spend 1,000,000 pesos in the United States for the purchase of airplane building machinery. This amount does not include the actual motors and parts which will also be bought by the commission.

A complete reorganization of the military aviation corps was begun by the War Department several months ago. New instructors have been employed, among them one American and several Europeans, and many of the "land flyers" attached to the aviation corps have been weeded out.

The primary necessities are supplies and airplane building machinery and equipment, and once these have been obtained, officers state, work will go ahead at the Valbuena aviation camp here without delay. There is a corps of Mexican pilots, who have already been trained by American and European instructors, but who are kept idle a great deal of the time owing to the lack of proper equipment, the planes now being used having been hurriedly bought during the De la Huerta revolution of December 1923 and are now proclaimed unsafe. For these reasons pilots, although they may be seen in action above Mexico City almost every morning, have been forced to curb much of their flying practice especially long distances and cross-country flights as, with the majority of the present planes, the risk is not considered worth the results by officers in charge of the field.

Gen. Miguel B. Gonzalez, chief of the Mexican army aviation corps, states he is convinced that with proper equipment Mexican pilots can establish a name for themselves.

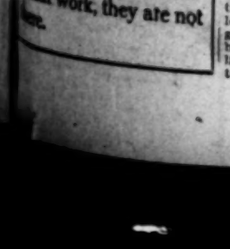
German Mine's Belated Blast Disturbs Dead

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, March 7.—With a roar heard for six miles, a German mine exploded in the center of a British military cemetery at Thiepval, near Amiens this afternoon, when laborers in a neighboring field pulled a wire they chanced to find.

The abandoned engine of death, thus aroused, broke the sleep of some hundreds of England's dead, hurling crosses and tombs and their contents high in the air and leaving a huge crater in the ground. The mine is supposed to be one planted near the British lines, but for some reason never touched off.



DOUMERGUE TO PICK NEW FRENCH PREMIER TODAY

Union Ministry Urged but Prospects That Caillaux Will Succeed Briand Increase

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 7.—A quiet Sunday undisturbed by serious political assemblies served to clarify to some extent the problems involved in the latest Cabinet crisis. But as yet there is little to indicate what leader President Doumergue will select when he calls them to him tomorrow to choose a successor for Aristide Briand in the Premier's place.

There is not a political group nor leader but admits that the President's task is a hard one since he became Chief Executive. He has been faced by constant depreciation of the franc and urgent demands for financial equilibrium. Successive premiers have been seeking some road that would lead from chaos to safety, but all efforts have ended in vain, and M. Briand's desperate attempts to hold his Ministry together and enact some solution for the financial problems have made that problem even graver, for the fall of his Cabinet now throws the solution even farther into the future.

How President Doumergue will go about to restore order can only be a matter of conjecture. On the one hand there are calls for dissolution and the summoning of a new Parliament, where a cohesive majority might be given to one party or group; on the other a dozen or more combinations in the present Chamber are suggested, if only a leader can be found who can bind them together and hold them in line. The names mentioned range from former Premier Herriot to Raymond Poincare, who has held both the Presidency and the Premiership, with Joseph Caillaux, former Finance Minister, and Aroul Peret, former President of the Chamber of Deputies, spoken of as most likely to be able to succeed. There is even a demand from some quarters for a Herriot-Poincare leadership of a "Sacred Union" Ministry, such as existed in war time, and the suggestion has found a certain amount of favor among the friends of the two, who, it is pointed out, have remained close friends through all political strife, and command a wide range of political support.

Dissolution is still looked upon only as a last resort, and it is certain that M. Doumergue will exhaust every other means to form a Ministry before he consents to it.

The possibility that M. Caillaux will be called upon appeared to increase today, political experts basing their forecasts upon the word that he had already been closeted with M. Briand before the latter's departure for Geneva, and that M. Briand had agreed to remain in the government as Foreign Minister, so as to carry through to a conclusion the important external affairs now pending.

Such a Cabinet, it was averred, could command most of the support which M. Briand received in the closing hours of his Ministry, in addition to receiving sufficient adhesion from the Center and Right to obtain a majority.

BRIAND DEEPLY ANGERED BY FAILURE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, March 7.—French circles close to M. Briand depicted him today as disinclined to accept any offer to form a new Cabinet, or accept the portfolio of Foreign Minister in a new combination, so keenly did he interpret the Chamber's refusal of confidence as a personal slight to his capacity as a statesman to conduct affairs in the present difficult situation in his country.

M. Briand was described by friends as especially annoyed over what he regarded as a coalition in the Chamber of Deputies of high commercial interests as a means of obtaining the rejection of taxes urgently needed to balance the budget and restore the franc. These friends labored with him, begging him not to lose patience and beseeching him to continue the struggle for the international rehabilitation of France, thus supplementing his previous victorious foreign policy by contributing to domestic progress.

add: "Yes, all Locarnists, even Poland and Czecho-Slovakia."

When this announcement reached the German camp it caused consternation, one of the Germans saying: "We have not been convoked for an all-Locarno meeting, but merely to consult with the British, French, Italian and Belgian Ministers. This must be a mistake."

CHAMBERLAIN'S STATEMENT

Sir Austen Chamberlain made a statement to the correspondents this evening.

"We had a full and free talk as at Locarano," he said, "covering the whole ground, but did not find an immediate solution of our troubles. Nothing could have been decided today, as we were unable to bind anybody but ourselves.

"We have cleared up some misapprehensions and suspicions which no longer affect our minds. That sums up the conference so far. We hope before meeting again to find some method of smoothing out the difficulties.

"What we are seeking is to make the entry of Germany absolutely noncontroversial, and that would be worth waiting a day or two to attain.

"I am concealing nothing. I base my faith on the fact that this is too big a thing to spoil at the last moment, for too much hangs upon it."

Receiving the correspondent of the Associated Press just before his departure for Paris, Mr. Briand said:

"We have reached no accord, it is true, yet I remain hopeful. At least we have all frankly outlined our respective viewpoints and know wherein we differ. I hope and expect to return within forty-eight hours and pursue the negotiations."

With M. Briand gone, leaving M. Paul-Boncour to replace him, the situation remains obscure and disquieting, for no one knows what attitude France will adopt when the council takes up the question of electing Germany. The French themselves seem in a quandary, for with France without a government, M. Briand apparently hesitates to authorize M. Paul-Boncour to vote for Germany, until he is in power again or can assume full responsibility.

The German delegation in a statement tonight made known that it considered the situation very grave, with everything hinging on the next conversation with M. Briand and others.

GERMANS STAND PAT

The Germans have decided to adhere to their original program not to accept membership in the League until the controversy over Council seats is clarified in the sense that Germany alone is elected to a permanent seat at the present time so as to have an opportunity to consult the wishes of the whole League concerning enlargement of the Council.

The representatives of the Latin-American powers followed the dramatic events at Geneva today as closely as they could from the side lines. They seemed especially moved by reports emanating from Spanish circles that Spain would endeavor to induce the Spanish-speaking nations of Latin-America to resign from the League with her in case the Spanish claim for a permanent seat is not acceded to.

The general opinion heard was that the Latin-Americans would act independently without regard to the decision on Spain. Prof. Guani, the Uruguayan member of the council, said he would throw his support in the crisis to the best interests as a whole.

Dr. Franco of Brazil still awaits a favorable opportunity to press the Brazilian demand for a permanent chair if the Council is enlarged, and if it is not enlarged, Rio Janeiro's desire is to fill the permanent seat held for the United States until such time as the United States decides to come to Geneva.

Kentucky Child Suddenly Finds Himself Blind

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DANVILLE (Ky.) March 7.—J. T. Parks, Jr., 3½ years of age, son of J. T. Parks, hotel man here, has become the victim of a peculiar affliction, one which has no parallel in this section, so far as is known. The boy was walking with his little sister about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when suddenly he complained he could not see.

When the children reached a millinery store, the lad called to his aunt, Miss Mary Noel, one of the proprietors, saying: "Come to me, Aunty, I can't see." It was then discovered that the boy was blind. Local physicians were summoned, but could not determine the cause of the trouble. The parents took the little fellow to Lexington specialists who could do nothing to benefit him. Specialists elsewhere will be visited.

There is nothing in the appearance of the child's eyes to indicate he is sightless, and he has begun to learn to play all over again, seemingly as happy as when his eyes were as strong as they are bright. The boy had never suffered from any trouble with his eyes and has always been in excellent health. He has had no accident of any sort.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 7. The trial of Mabel Longworth Sheridan, charged with the murder of Mrs. Ada McCobb in Hardale, several months ago, which had been set for the 2nd inst., was postponed until the 29th inst. Judge W. W. McCrory of the Ninety-fourth District Court announced the new trial date.

BUSINESS BODY FIGHTS ADVERTISING FRAUDS

PORTLAND BUSINESS MEN AND PUBLIC VICTIMIZED BY "SLICKERS"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 7.—Doing away with solicitation for the sale of tickets to benefits and for worthless advertising is the object of a campaign opened up by the Better Business Bureau of the Portland Advertising Club. The bureau contends that business men and the public generally are being victimized out of huge sums through the activities of professional "slickers."

Telephone solicitation is the special object of the bureau's attack. Sale of tickets and worthless advertising in "fly-by-night" publications by the use of the telephone is increasing, the bureau holds.

"Prominent business men would receive a decided shock if they could see the card index system of the professional solicitors and see the notations appearing after the names of otherwise cautious, intelligent men," reads a letter sent out by the bureau. "On a card filler for one of the larger concerns of the city in the files of a certain telephone solicitor, appears this statement:

"'Talk to Mr. A.; will flop easily for any charity; patriotic appeal always lands him; don't try to sell him advertising.'"

Bullet Cuts Short Secret Marriage

Principals in Tragic Love Match

DEATH ENDS LONG ROMANCE

Victim of Hold-up Leaves College Bride of Eight Days; Match Began on School Playground

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, March 7.—The tragic end of a romance that had its inception on the schoolhouse playground, bloomed on the college campus and culminated in a marriage just eight days before the groom was killed, has been brought to light here with the investigation into the murder by robbers of Alexander Elder soon after midnight, February 21, last. Elder was on his way home when he was accosted by the hold-ups and lost his life.

It develops that Elder had married Mary Helen Francis in Santa Ana, February 13, last. The ceremony was performed in the Episcopal chapel by the rector of the parish with the clergyman's wife and sister as witnesses.

The bride and groom had known each other since childhood, in Phoenix schools, and in the University of Arizona, where both had been students. They had been engaged for a year and the wedding ring had been purchased last December. But the young woman would not have been graduated until next June.

LOVERS REBEL

The university authorities, in an "antiqueening" campaign, had decreed against student marriages. The lovers rebelled. With the assent of their parents, determination was reached to marry in California and to withhold announcement till the bride had received her sheepskin. Elder, an engineer employed by the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association, obtained a brief leave of absence, went to Tucson, joined his fiancee, and telegraphed his brother in Los Angeles to be prepared to act as best man. But the brother, a member of the Orange Grove Theater stock company, was held by a rehearsal, and the trip into Orange county was unattended.

The newlyweds attended the theater that evening and at once returned to Arizona, the bride to her studies and the groom to his duties in Phoenix. The wedding ring was placed in the keeping of the groom's widowed mother, Mrs. W. G. Elder, who had been a sympathizing confidante.

Then came the assassin's shot. The young wife hurried from Tucson to be at her husband's bedside and to proclaim her wifehood. Elder's condition within a few days was so encouraging that his surgeons sent his wife back to her studies. But peritonitis set in and the bride returned to Phoenix a widow.

BRIDE SUSPENDED

About that time the university authorities woke up to realisation that one of their regulations had been shattered. When again she sought to resume her studies she was advised of suspension. This action is understood to be still effective, though Mrs. Elder remains in Tucson, hopeful of reinstatement. Within the college she has many supporting friends. She is president of the Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. She is 21 years of age, daughter of Daniel M. Francis, one of the leading pioneer stockmen of Northern Arizona, with a handsome home on North Central avenue. Her mother died about six years ago.

The bridegroom was 24 years of age. He graduated in science last year at the University of Arizona, following a year in Annapolis, from which he was dropped for eye defects. He saw naval service in wartime along the Atlantic Coast. The Los Angeles brother, Allan, also was a student at the University of Arizona, but finished a course in law at the University of Southern California.

SEEK USE OF ANEROID TO BEAT FROST

Federal Authorities Plan Belt of Barometers About State Orange Groves

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STOCKHOLM, March 7.—Negotiations are being carried on between the United States Department of Agriculture and a Swedish company concerning the use of the Pauline aneroid barometer both as a frost warner for California orchard owners and a tornado warner for the districts of the United States which are subject to such disturbances.

Paulin, a young Swedish inventor and civil engineer, has made it possible to register on the aneroid barometer the slightest changes in pressure of the atmosphere. The instrument denotes a difference in atmospheric pressure when it is removed from a table and placed on the floor. For years it has been used on airplanes of the American and Swedish armies, enabling the flyer to see his height by a dial on which is mounted an indicating needle.

Now the United States authorities have requested the inventor to construct a special apparatus intended for use as a frost warner for California. The plan is to build a number of frost-warning stations with the Paulin aneroids all around the California mountains. The Paulin instrument, it is asserted, registers atmospheric changes indicating frost quicker than other known barometers. The pressure of the atmosphere rises swiftly when a frost is coming.

Likewise, the Paulin instrument will register a swift decrease in atmospheric pressure, indicating the probable approach of a tornado. The intention is to build up a series of storm-warning stations, equipped with Paulin aneroids, in the whole area menaced by tornadoes.

Gang Murders While Chicago Wrangles Crime

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—While city officials and reform organizations disputed with each other over the seriousness of crime in Chicago, detective squads tonight went into the Italian gangland district to try to prevent a fresh outburst of gunplay.

The detectives were sent into the district to do patrol duty after the police decided that a shooting yesterday in which one man was killed and two others wounded had been a mistake on the part of the assailants, and that the bullets were really intended for another.

The man who was killed and thrown from an automobile, was identified as Joseph Calabreese, but the police believe the bullets which killed him were intended for an enemy of the Genna gangsters in whose automobile Calabreese was riding when slain. Two others in the car with Callabreese were wounded.

OPERA STAR WRITING JAZZ MUSICAL PLAY

TITO SCHIPA SEES SAXOPHONE AS MEDIUM OF REAL HARMONY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TAMPA (Fla.) March 7.—Occasionally a grand opera star places the stamp of approval upon jazz. Tito Schipa, one of the greatest tenors, has gone a step further. He is writing a musical comedy in which syncopation runs riot.

A tentative score of this comedy, said Schipa while on a concert stop here, is now in the hands of Gene Buck, impresario of Ziegfeld's Follies. Its title is to be "Mimi."

Schipa was careful to explain that he does not consider jazz the highest type of music. However, he looks upon devotees of jazz as true followers of Pan and sees in the saxophone a medium for interpretation of real harmony.

"The saxophone in grand opera, why not?" he asked. "Have you heard the saxophone in interpretations of the score of "Madame Butterfly?" Was it not beautiful, colorful, harmonious, stirring? Yes. Were there not one, two, three, maybe, saxophones contributing to a theme of exquisite beauty?

"I will tell you something. Music. What is it? It is harmony and any instrument that blends into a perfect symphony of sound cannot be less than beautiful."

LONDON CHATS WITH NEW YORK

First Telephone Conversation Commemorates Patent

Voices Heard Clearly at Both Ends of Long Circuit

It was raining and so early in the morning the men hadn't appeared yet. The voices from London answered that it was gloomy there, but not raining, and added that her voice was so cheery they didn't care whether the men arrived or not.

Then came the news story concerning Ambassador Houghton, who had just sailed for this country from Southampton. Sir Roderic Jones, chairman of the Reuter Agency, sent a message to Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press. Another English newspaper man told of the way London received the news of last week's fall in stocks on the New York exchange.

PUBLIC SERVICE UNLIKELY BEFORE FALL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, March 7.—British listeners-in were treated today to a radio-telephone chat across the Atlantic between a group of British newspaper men in the general postoffice in London and a group of Americans in New York. The conversations across 3000 miles were heard distinctly.

Experiments in telephonic communication between London and New York have been in progress several weeks, but today for the first time a definite schedule of communication between two distant cities was carried out with large groups of men participating in the outgoing and listening to the responsive incoming conversation.

The engineers conducting the tests on behalf of the government were reticent about making prophesies, but as there is much more experimentation necessary before regular commercial service between England and America can be established, it seems likely that nothing in the nature of a public service between the two continents can be effected before autumn at the earliest.

Atmospheric conditions were ideal today for the experiments, which extended over several hours.

TELEPHONE PATENTED JUST FIFTY YEARS AGO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, March 7.—"Watson come here! I want you."

It was not Sherlock Holmes speaking, but Alexander Graham Bell delivering the first telephone message ever heard. And he got the right number, partly because there were no others to be had.

It was fifty years ago today that a patent was granted for the instrument which was looked upon as amusing and interesting, but a "worthless" toy. That original instrument, made in Boston in a dingy electrical shop, now has some 27,000,000 descendants in the world, 17,000,000 of which are connected with virtually every village and hamlet in the United States.

Bell's first message was delivered to Thomas A. Watson, still living in Boston, who at the time was an electrician's apprentice.

It was on June 2, 1875, that Bell made his first fundamental discovery, quite by accident. Watson let a spring slip while the two were adjusting instruments at each end of a copper wire strung between two rooms in the shop. The spring touched the sensitive wire. Bell heard a humming sound, perhaps not unlike those sometimes heard on a stormy night, and he knew success was near.

A few weeks later Bell and Watson moved their apparatus to two rooms on the top floor of an inexpensive boarding-house. On March 10, 1876, three days after they had been granted their patent for an "improved telegraph," Watson heard the faint and scarcely audible voice of Prof. Bell calling him over the wire.

HOUGHTON DENIES HE WILL REPLACE KELLOGG

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 7.—The first news story ever transmitted across the Atlantic Ocean by wireless telephone, received by the Associated Press today, follows:

LONDON, March 7.—(By radiophone to the Association Press.) Ambassador Houghton, before sailing this morning on the steamer President Roosevelt, disavowed persistent rumors to the effect that he is returning to the United States to take the place of Secretary of State Kellogg. He declared there is no truth in the rumors.

He refused to comment upon the purpose of his visit, although admitting that he expects to confer with the Secretary of State in Washington.

PASTOR FORECASTS AMERICAN DEBACLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STOCKTON, March 7.—In future history there will be recorded as great a fall as that of the Roman Empire unless America mends its ways, according to Rev. Guy F. Quinan of the Paulist fathers in a sermon before the men's mission in St. Mary's Church. The corruption and inward decay that led to the fall of Rome, are all manifested in America today, he declared. The evils that finally ended the rule of Rome are parallel with those of America, said Father Quinan. These evils, he said, are pagan voluptuousness, worship of materialism, pantheism, worship of self, disregard of the laws of God and country and nature, filth, degradation, indecency on the stage, divorce, race suicide.

LONG-TERM BONDS ISSUED

Treasury Offers Half-Billion Thirty-Year Loan at Lowest Interest Since World War

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—An offering of $500,000,000 in thirty-year bonds was announced today by Secretary Mellon in connection with the regular March financing program of the Treasury. The bonds will bear interest at 3¾ per cent and are intended, with balances already on hand and the March tax receipts, to fund the retirement of almost $750,000,000 in outstanding government securities on March 15 and cover the Treasury's further cash requirements until June, when further financing will be necessary.

This is the first issue of long-term securities offered by the Treasury in a year, and the interest rate is lower than on any government bond issue since before the war, with the exception of the Liberty bonds, which were wholly exempt from taxation.

The new bond issue will be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from Federal, State and municipal taxation, except as to estate or inheritance taxes and the Federal income surtaxes. Applications for the bonds will be received at Federal reserve banks.

Commenting on the low interest rate, Treasury officials pointed said it reflected merely the general market rates. It was pointed out that the rates of government bonds always have been fixed at a level.

The bonds will bear interest from March 15, maturing March 15, 1955, and are redeemable after March 15, 1946. They will be offered at 100 1-2, and the $500,000,000 in Treasury notes of series A, 1926, maturing March 15, will be accepted in part payment, but will not receive preferred allotment. The Treasury also will purchase $100,000,000 in the Liberty Loan bonds March 15.

RESCUES FOUR CHILDREN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STOCKTON, March 7.—The life of four small children was saved through the heroic efforts of the mother, Mrs. Chris Knitel, who rushed into her smoke-filled and flaming home and carried them to safety. The fire is believed to have started from a spark from the kitchen stove which fell in a baby's crib near the stove.

RULING PERILS STATE FARMS

the decision had been rendered by the Supreme Court, went into conferences with Senator Jones of Washington and others and a new law that will plug up the hole made by the decision, is expected to be introduced in Congress today. Either Jones or Shortridge will present the bill.

Senator Jones is floor leader in the absence of Senator Curtiss and will speed the bill to passage. Little opposition to the proposed law is expected as Senators and Congressmen from the farming States are expected to be unanimous for the bill.

WARNING ISSUED

Dr. G. H. Hecke, State Director of the California Department of Agriculture, received word of the decision today and at once issued warning to all of the inspectors of the department. In commenting on the situation, he said:

"California will go right ahead enforcing her laws. We will have a conference early next week, at which the plan of action to fight and correct the threatened evil will be considered and prompt action taken.

"The decision comes at an opportune time, one might say, as this season is the least dangerous of any in the year.

"I am sure, however, that if we keep cool, the situation will not be serious, for it is certain that the government will do all it can to protect the State. California's enormous shipments of fruits, vegetables, dairy products and other farm products are too important in the national food budget to have them menaced.

"Besides, I believe we can rely upon the railroads to help in every way. The biggest end of the railroad haul business is the farm products, and the companies are not going to kill the goose that lays the golden egg."

Dr. Hecke sent a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Jardine late today asking for a full text of the decision, and Jardine's opinion as to the effects of the decision. Hecke also arranged to have a conference with the State legal advisers either today or tomorrow, and it is probable that a rehearing on the Washington decision will be asked.

Hundreds Seek British Court Presentation

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, March 7. — There is such a scramble this year to attend the three courts the King and Queen will hold at Buckingham Palace, that applicants may be forced to "draw straws" to see who are the lucky individuals. An unprecedented number of applications has been made to the Lord Chamberlain, among them several hundred Americans who have filed their requests through Ambassador Houghton.

Each court is usually attended by approximately 1000 persons, but for the first court alone in May, there is nearly double that number desiring to make their bow before their majesties. There is such an enormous supplementary list for the other courts as well that the Lord Chamberlain has decided that some sort of a "gamble" be resorted to for the final selections.

CHILDREN CHEER WHEN FIRE DAMAGES SCHOOL

NEW YORK FIREMEN UNABLE TO CHECK FLAMES UNTIL WOODWORK IS DESTROYED

NEW YORK, March 7.—While more than 100 children cheered, flames seriously damaged Public School No. 35, an old-fashioned, three-story brick structure at Jamaica avenue and One Hundred and Ninety-first street, Hollis, Queens.

Fire of unknown origin was discovered in the rear of the building, previously known as the Woodhull School, in honor of Gen. Nathaniel Woodhull, by Rev. Arthur Hardy, who lives opposite the school. Deputy Chief Daven and Battalion Chiefs Stone and Kane responded, on the fourth alarm, but firemen were unable to check the flames until the interior woodwork virtually had been destroyed. The damage was estimated at more than $10,000.

Industrial Conference Board Issues Report

Declares Attitude Reflects Serious Condition

Broad Study of Agricultural Problems Urged

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
NEW YORK, March 7.—Radical tendencies among farmers — once the backbone of American conservatism—reflect a serious economic maladjustment, which, unless checked, must eventually adversely affect the national business structure, says the National Industrial Conference Board in a report issued today. The report, based on a year's investigation, declared the contrast between the Agrarian swing toward the left to be "one of the most significant reversals in the political life of the United States" and "curiously contrast with the increasing conservative trend of our urban population."

The board, which is supported by manufacturing, mining, transportation and public utility industries, asserted that it's sponsors must study and understand the problem of the farmer because farm production is closely woven in the national economic structure.

RESORT TO PRESSURE

Diffusion of corporate ownership among city dwellers has increased materially the interest in and understanding of industrial problems, the board said, while the average farm represents a capital of about $12,000, usually individually owned, and the farmers, to a large degree unorganized and isolated, "naturally have tended more and more to resort to political pressure to obtain relief."

"But the agricultural problem," the report says, "is to no greater extent a question of what will be the consequences for our entire economic and business life if American agriculture continues to lag behind in comparison with the general economic developments of the country."

Reviewing the decline of farm production as compared with urban population growth, the report said this trend has been steady since 1880, the reduction since 1900 being estimated at 20 per cent. All the facts indicate, the board found, that since the beginning of the present century "the cost of agricultural production prices and markets have not been such as to make it pay to maintain the same rate of increase of farming production as existed before that time."

FARM COSTS RISE

The farmer's weakened position in meeting foreign competition was attributed to the tendency of his expenses to rise more rapidly than the prices of his produce. Overhead capital costs, labor and operating costs rose 300 per cent in the last quarter-century, the report said, while wholesale prices of farm products increased only 120 per cent.

Actual earnings of the average farmer in 1924 were computed at $730, as against average earnings of $1572 in transportations, $2141 in clerical lines and $1650 by government employees. The per capita income of the farming population in 1921 was given as $186, against $701 for urban dwellers.

DOBLE PLAN DROPPED

Sentencing of Promoters Brings End of Restitution Scheme

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Restitution plans of Abner Roble, convicted president of the Doble Steam Motors Corporation, will not be carried any further. The plan proposed by Doble and his attorneys to the Commissioner of Corporation, in which Doble offered to turn over all of his share in the company, 50,000 shares, to the stockholders who had purchased the overissue stock will not be carried out.

Doble, who was sentenced Saturday to serve one to five years in San Quentin prison for violation of the State Corporate Securities Act it is said, expected that his offer of restitution would commend itself to the court and be taken into consideration in sentencing him.

Superior Judge Roche, however, declared that all interests had been fully represented to the court and that he could only go by the record. He denounced Doble and his fellow-defendants, also convicted but given heavy fines, saying that the sale of stock has proven more profitable than making automobiles.

New Rupture Truss Invented by Doctor

Rupture Sufferers Freed From Torture of Leg Straps and Cruel Springs

Kansas City, Mo.—(Special). Now it is no longer necessary for ruptured people to wear leg straps or torturing truss according to the announcement of a Kansas City Doctor. His recent invention does away with leg straps, galling elastic bands, plugging pads and cruel binding and pinching springs. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away their old trusses and declare their freedom from truss torture. Many of these had double ruptures from which they had suffered for years. The inventor, Dr. Andrew Kaiser, 1811 Koch Building, Kansas City, Mo., wishes every ruptured person to enjoy the quick relief, comfort and benefit of his invention and has advised The Times that he will send one on trial to any reader who, being ruptured, will write him. Take advantage of his generous offer by writing today.—[Advertisement.

PROTECTION OF FORESTS ADVOCATED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
STOCKTON, March 7.—In an address before the Stockton Realtors' Association, Prof. W. Metcalf of the University of California, stressed the importance of valley counties giving consideration to watershed problems of the foothills and mountains and pointed out that more is being done toward forest protection and reforestation in Southern California than in the northern part of the State.

"Los Angeles county alone is spending $250,000 on its brush covered watershed and the government is being asked for $1,000,000 for Southern California forest fire prevention and reforestation. We, in Northern California however, are sitting by, content with $30,000 annually from the Federal government and $20,000 from the State," he said.

The trouble with California, said Metcalf, is that the agricultural districts are too far removed from the forest regions which lie two vital problems of the State—water and timber. Too many people from the East attach little or no value to water and foresight is needed with reference to the timber situation, he said, as he pointed out that the entire fabric of permanency of California prosperity is wrapped up in these two problems.

Metcalf advocated the teaching of forestry in high schools and the conducting of county reforestation programs as planned by this county for its foothill districts, as a means of awakening interest in the State's watersheds.

Both Americans and British Bid on Sugar Rights

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
MEXICO CITY, March 7.—American and British interests are both bidding for the concession to rehabilitate the State of Morelos sugar industry, which for a number of years has been at a standstill, having been destroyed during the revolutionary activities. The odds seem to favor the Britishers who are ready to invest £750,000 in the venture, while Americans are showing timidity on account of the recent land legislation.

The Britishers offer to pay the Morelos landowners 500 pesos for each two acres planted with cane, the owners to turn over to them all crops, with which the original indebtedness will also be covered, the promoters committing themselves to build two large sugar mills in Morelos replacing those destroyed.

Among other large American investments withdrawn for the moment from Mexico on account of the government's legislative program are the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and the United States Rubber Company. They had virtually agreed to invest in rubber plantations in Southern Mexico.

LAST ROYALIST IN MEXICO DIES

Mme. Degollado Was Member of Maximilian's Court

Belle of Aristocracy in Virginia as Girl

Mad Empress Carlotta Only Survivor of Group

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
MEXICO CITY, March 7.—Mrs. Otilia Jordan de Degollado, only American member of the court of Emperor Maximilian and last surviving member of the ill-fated household of the Mexican Emperor, except the mad Empress Carlotta, has died here at the age of 97 years.

With her death, the American colony in Mexico loses one of its most remarkable figures, whose life was filled with adventure such as few women of today could recount. Madam Degollado, as she was known to her friends here, retained all the imperial glamor to her last moments, and perhaps was the last faithful royalist in Mexico, retaining a vain but secret hope that Empire days might some day return to Mexico.

WAS MISS JORDAN

History records that in her youth Miss Otilia Jordan, member of one of the aristocracy of Virginia, created a furore in Washington society. Later, in the bloom of her career, when she was the only American belonging to Emperor Maximilian and Empress Carlotta's suite, and lady-in-waiting to the Empress, she was considered the most beautiful girl of the period.

In washington she married Mariano Degollado, later a member of Maximilian's diplomatic corps, and son of Gen. Santos Degollado, Mexican patriot. He was the true type of Hidalgo Don, now a scarcity rather than the commonplace among the Latin peoples. Mariano Degollado died fifteen years ago. His widow closeted herself in a small but luxurious apartment here and up to the time of her death retained about her "a court," all her own consisting of a hairless Chihuahua midget dog and two faithful servants. All who called went through a formula of court etiquette, much like Madam Degollado herself had lived during the brief three years of the Mexican Empire.

NEVER IN POVERTY

Mme. Degollado never lived in proverty as did many of the Emperor's followers later in life. She was at one time a wealthy property owner in Mexico City and the rentals and gradual sale of all her interests here kept her supplied with all the necessary funds to maintain her own court in her declining years. She and her husband possessed at one time one of the finest collections of keepsakes of the Emperor. These she gradually gave away to friends or disposed of after the death of Don Mariano.

When Maximilian was executed in 1867 and his wife became ill in Europe, all their followers were decidedly persona non grata in Mexico. Don Mariano and Mme. Degollado were forced to flee the country, their lives imperiled, until, disguised as farmers, they crossed the border and found refuge in Guatemala City, where they lived for four years. A pardon was extended by President Juarez and they returned here to reside until their deaths. They made one trip to Europe to visit the Empress.

WANTED NO FLOWERS

Mme. Degollado seemed never to tire of relating narratives of the thrilling life of Empress Carlotta. "Poor Carlotta," were the words she favored in all her recounts of the days when, as she once said, "She held off a band of highwaymen single handed when they attacked the stage coach in which I was traveling," as the bearer of secret documents the Emperor had confided in her, believing that a woman would be less likely to arouse suspicion than a man.

She was buried in the French cemetery here next to her husband. "Tell my friends to send no flowers," she told her attending physician a few minutes before she died. A pyramid of floral wealth accompanied her, nevertheless, to the grave. She indicated in expressing her wish, that her end need not be softened by flowers, for her life, which started with such brilliancy in Washington, had been a disappointment and a failure, as, in fact, everything connected with the court of Franz Joseph's brother and Carlotta.

SCHOOL BOY BLAMED FOR KNIFE CUTS

Wounded Teacher Asserts Class Discipline Cause of Difficulty

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
DANVILLE (Ky.) March 7.—J. S. Reed, principal of the East Texas High School in Washington county, was stabbed and dangerously wounded, it is charged by Charles Holderman, 14 years of age, student.

A deep-knife wound was inflicted in Reed's right side. He was brought to the hospital here. The boy was placed under bond of $1500 on a charge of malicious cutting and wounding, the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Holderman signing the papers which kept their son at liberty.

At the hospital, Reed is quoted as having made the following statement: "Holderman and another boy had a habit of being late at recess. I told them to remain in school and make up the time. I took a note from Holderman which read: 'I am not going to take any sass from him this afternoon, are you?' I took this note as they came in from recess.

"I have had a lot of trouble with Holderman. After taking the note I told Holderman: 'You will take all of my sass and you will obey me while you remain in school.'

"The boy asked to be excused during the afternoon and I excused him."

"Did you chastise the boys?" Reed was asked. He replied: "I went to his desk and slapped him. He had a knife open at the time and stabbed me as I slapped him. It seemed to paralyze me and I staggered toward the auditorium. I started out of the door and it was not until then that I realized what had happened. Young Holderman started at me with a club as I went toward the door. Another teacher and the other boy called to the boy to stop the attack."

The knife penetrated Prof. Reed's right lung and he suffered a hemorrhage after arrival at the hospital.

REPUBLICANS SERENE AS FOES FAIL TO FIND ISSUES

Prosperity, Nonpartisan Tax Bill, and Aluminum Inquiry Collapse Leave Democrats Lifeless

BY KYLE D. PALMER
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Although more than two months remain in which foes of the Coolidge administration may discover or manufacture a good campaign issue for the spring and summer primaries and the final elections next autumn, present indications are that this session of Congress will be almost unique in the small opportunity it has offered for partisanship or partisan advantage.

This, of course, is not essentially due to lack of effort to find an issue. Many an irate voice has been raised, and many an eager ear has been strained to catch a possible approving response from the country at large but the fact is that aside from the World Court, the Italian debt settlement, farm relief and Muscle Shoals, the little amount of so-called campaign material that has been developed is almost exclusively local in character.

SENATOR HEFLIN

The collapse of the aluminum muckraking expedition proposed by Senator Walsh of Montana, who enjoys the role of prosecutor and who is, undoubtedly, looking around for another issue to exploit; the nonpartisan nature of the tax reduction program; the virtual rout of the faction determined to inflame public opinion with the Mitchell Air Service tirades, and the uniformity of prosperous conditions throughout the nation have conspired, it might seem, to disappoint the administration's foes.

It is a fact, too, that such important differences as have developed in the Senate and the House have been, as one observer describes it, "of a horizontal character;" that is, not between Democrats and Republicans so much as between opposing coalitions of the two parties.

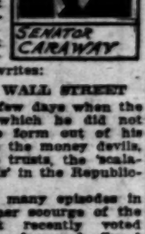
SHOALS FIGHT SIMILAR

This was signally true in the World Court and tax reduction fights, where a sufficient number of Democrats joined with the Republican majorities in each house to assure overwhelming victory for the administration's plans. A similar division is developing in the present debate on Muscle Shoals.

So much so, it is true, that a number of mournful plaints have been made to the effect that the administration has wiped out the Democratic party and destroyed the fighting spirit of some of the party's most pronounced fire-eaters and Republican-baiters.

The veteran Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, Frank R. Kent, calls attention to this condition, singling out as a shining example the sonorous, picturesque and frequently vitriolic Senator Heflin of Alabama.

Referring to Mr. Heflin's former staunch fealty to the style of democracy that demanded frequent excoriation of all that was Republican, Mr. Kent writes:



SENATOR CARAWAY

WALLOPED WALL STREET

"There were few days when the Senate sat in which he did not heave his large form out of his seat and wallop the money devils, Wall street, the trusts, the 'scalawags and rascals' in the Republican party."

And, reciting many episodes in which this former scourge of the Republicans but recently voted with his one-time foes and offered helpful suggestions on the World Court fight and the tax bill contest, Mr. Kent adds:

"And now, the tax fight over, Senator Heflin is found not only lined up with the administration on the Muscle Shoals resolution, but actually steering the measure through the Senate, floor managing it with Coolidge leaders; appealing for its passage on the ground that 'the President is for this resolution and does not want it changed.' Observers marvel as they listen. It is another indication of the scrambled condition of parties."

The debate on Saturday between Senator Heflin and his Democratic colleagues, Senator Caraway of Arkansas, Senator George of Georgia, Senator Smith of South Carolina and Senator Copeland of New York, not only created a sort of field day for complacent Republican Senators, but aroused so much levity in the galleries that Vice-President Dawes threatened to eject the amused spectators.

A quotation from the Congressional Record reflects the tenor of this debate, which was prolonged.

From the Record:

FROM THE RECORD

Mr. Caraway: "Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Alabama a question?"

Mr. Heflin: "Yes; I yield."

Mr. Caraway: "Would the Senator from Alabama mind indicating when he would be willing to yield the floor and let some others of us have a minute of time? The Senator may take another hour or two. I do not want to hurry him at all."—(Laughter.)

Mr. Heflin: "I spoke the other day, Mr. President—"

Mr. Caraway: "For five hours."

Mr. Heflin: "And I yielded to interruptions. Probably I was on the floor two hours altogether, and the interruptions amounted to forty-five minutes of that time. I did not intend to speak as long as I did."

Mr. Caraway: "When is the Senator going to quit? That is what I want to know."

Mr. Heflin: "The Senator from Georgia—Mr. George—has put himself in the attitude of denying to whomsoever gets this dam the right to recoup out of the power if he should sell fertilizer to the farmer so cheaply that he cannot make money out of it."

WOULD PAY FROM TREASURY

Mr. George: "No, Mr. President: I have said that if we want to pay the fertilizer trust a subsidy let us be honest and pay it out of the money in the Treasury, and know what we are paying them."

Mr. Heflin: "Yes."

Mr. George: "That is all I insist on."

Mr. Heflin: "I hope I will understand the Senator and I think I will before we get through."

Mr. George: "I doubt that, Mr. President."—(Laughter.)

Mr. Heflin: "Mr. President, the Senator is probably right about that."

Mr. George: "Yes; I think it is true."

Mr. Heflin: "The Senator knows his capacity to make people understand him better than I do."

Mr. George: "And I know the capacity of the Senator from Alabama to understand what is perfectly plain to everybody."

OFFERS TO REPEAT

Mr. Heflin: "No, Mr. President; the thing that hurts some Senators is that I am making this situation too plain. I will again make it plain—"

Mr. Caraway: "Do not do that—" Laughter in the galleries.

Mr. Heflin: "That the farmer is being deserted here."

The presiding officer: "If occupants of the galleries persist in laughing, the chair will have the sergeant at arms clear the galleries. We are here for business and not for pleasure."

Mr. Caraway: "Oh, Mr. President, do not do that."

Mr. Heflin: "Mr. President, I decline to yield to the Senator from Arkansas to carry on his walking conversation."

The presiding officer: "Senators will take their seats. The Senator from Alabama will not proceed until there is order in the chamber."

Mr. Heflin: "There are some strange things going on around here."

Mr. Smith: "There are."

Mr. Heflin: "The power trust is in action and the fertilizer trust is looking on."

Mr. Caraway: "We have heard them."

Mr. Heflin: "I can see their tracks. There is something wrong around here, Mr. President."

Mr. Smith: "There is no doubt about it."

JOURNAL TOO DRY

It is some times to be regretted that the Congressional Record is such a matter of fact journal, as its prosaic style fails to convey, for instance, in the foregoing expressions the elaborate sarcasm, the heated countenances, the restrained fury, the angry eye, and the painfully plain references of an unflattering nature.

In any event, there is an amazing amount of uncertainty and confusion among those who might be expected to forget personal differences in making common cause against the party in power. Washington has seen a parallel of a condition which, in a political year finds the administration serene and the "opposition" confounded.

Such political fair weather may not be expected to last but the business of conjuring a storm when political skies are persistently clear is difficult and no Democrat or insurgent with the optimism and propensities of the noted Mr. Hatfield has appeared to guarantee the right kind of rain.

Bavaria Asked to Repay Loan of Century Ago

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, March 7. — The Bavarian government has been asked by Frau Anna Gerbig of Munich, to repay a loan of $8800, advanced by her great-grandfather to King Ludwig I of Bavaria, a century ago.

Petitioning the diet, Frau Gerbig insists that, since the government confiscated the ruler's property, it is responsible for payment of his bad debts. She asserts that he squandered the loan in entertaining the beautiful dancer, Lola Montez, whose relations with the King aroused the populace and forced his abdication. The dancer fled to New York, where she died in 1861.

LOVE FOR GRANDMA FATAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—The romance of Mrs. Eliza Nusbaum, a grandmother, and John Walter Winn, her ex-convict sweetheart, has led one to the gallows and the other to prison for life.

A jury last night reached the conclusion that they, with three others, plotted the death of Albert Nusbaum, "grandma's" invalid husband, so she might marry Winn.

The jurors pledged at the beginning of the trial to hang a woman if they believed her guilty of murder, fixed Winn's punishment at death but let "grandma" off with life in the penitentiary.

The 61-year-old woman and her 47-year-old suitor sat next to each other when the jury filed in. "Grandma" heard her verdict and fainted.

As soon as she could be revived she asked bailiffs to "find Winn's lawyer, I must do something for Jack." Winn had no statement until he had been taken back to the County Jail. Then he said, "Gee, I wish they'd given it all to me and let 'grandma' off."

Edwin Goff, Marion Stringham and Mrs. Delilah Martin, who were also charged with the murder and pleaded guilty, said that Nusbaum was lured to Mrs. Martin's home where Winn beat him to death. The three said they had hoped to share in Nusbaum's estate.

Men—This Sacrifice demands immediate attention!

Some things may be done any old time, or within a reasonable time, but this event is very emphatically a NOW proposition. In plain, unvarnished English we are up against the biggest job that has ever been tackled by any concern in the whole history of the CUSTOM TAILORING business on the Pacific Coast ---and we have remaining a mighty limited time in which to put it across. The combined stocks of our St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, and Los Angeles shops---in full Easter completeness---have been rolled up here and, without any ifs or ands, they simply must be moved. Consequently, we have adopted the one and only COMPELLING METHOD of accomplishing this definite purpose.

An Explanation Not an Apology

So many mercantile announcements nowadays are made in extravagant language that we feel obligated to give chapter and verse on this tremendous undertaking of our own.

When we entered the woolen business in America, more than twenty years ago, we faced a brick wall of almost impossible competition. We were completely barred from most of the Metropolitan centers by "Trust" and "Combine" control of the tailoring business, a condition which, happily, does not exist today.

With a product of demonstrated international reputation, worming our way to an outlet appeared a hopeless undertaking. We tried every approach known to legitimate salesmanship and made every concession consistent with honest business principles, but we were scarcely given a chance to get our product before the consumer.

By a bold stroke, born of desperate necessity, we opened our own tailoring shops throughout the country and literally put our woolens on the backs of the citizens of the United States. And, frankly, we are proud of the fact that we did the job thoroughly and well.

But that act of justifiable rebellion has served its purpose, and we are now in the difficult position of competing with our own best customers. This is untenable and we admit it.

Our retirement from the tailoring business, long in contemplation, was planned for 1927, but the way to quit is to QUIT! The expiration of some of our leases and completed arrangements by which we will dispose of those remaining have persuaded us of the wisdom of taking one big loss and giving up the tailoring business immediately.

A REAL Chance at an OPPORTUNE Time!

Frequently—and in fact, generally—opportunities to enjoy special economies carry a handicap of some sort, such as questionable quality or obsolete styles. But there is no ambiguity in this offer, it calls for no apology, and is made without any mental reservation whatsoever. It means just this: The biggest stock of fine woolens ever assembled in the West, comprising not only the choicest picking of the product of our own great mills, but also the discriminating selections from others of the world's greatest weavers, made by the most expert wool buyers in the United States. It means stocks that were selected for THIS SPRING SEASON and for THIS EASTER SELLING, in which you will find included the latest conceits and the most ultra-fashionable novelties to be shown in New York, Boston and Philadelphia by the most Aristocratic of the fancy price tailors. Without fear of even serious contradiction, we say to you that there never was a more comprehensive showing of Class "A" strictly all-woolen fabrics made in America by any ONE concern. This is a mighty big claim, but it will be made good absolutely.

Regular $50, $60, and $65 Men's Suits $28

made to your individual order— —With Extra Pants Absolutely—FREE!

Do YOU belong to the aristocracy of commonsense?

If you measure the value of a Suit of Clothes by the price you pay for it, this RECORD-BREAKING offer of ours will mean nothing to you. But if with thousands of other sensible men, you are breaking away from the FOUR-FLUSH attitude that was formerly considered "class," and have joined the Aristocracy of Commonsense—if you exercise as much judgment in spending your dollars as you are required to expend hard work in earning them, in such case, you are reading an invitation of vital importance to YOU. Of course, if you actually get a kick out of paying FANCY PRICES for a pretty label and—perhaps—a little mercantile entertainment, this special proposition of ours is a dud, so far as you are concerned. BUT IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN THE FINEST WOOLENS THAT MONEY CAN BUY, TAILORED AS ONLY MASTER CRAFTSMEN CAN DO THE JOB—AND THIS COMBINATION AT A RIDICULOUSLY LOW PRICE—THIS IS YOUR CHANCE AND NOW IS THE TIME!

In this great CLOSING EVENT—the last of our retail business experience—only our prices will be cut—there will be no falling down in our service, no lowering of standards in our workmanship—and positively no discounting of our crystal-clear business principles. The same painstaking attention to detail, the same artistic designing, and the same MASTER TAILORING will go into every suit AS IF SOLD AT REGULAR PRICE. For over twenty years we have been tailoring clothes for the critical men of Los Angeles, and in that time we have established a REPUTATION which has survived the acid test of even the most unscrupulous competition. This much is certain: Our performance always goes beyond our promise; we always make good on a full 100 per cent basis. Your neighbor knows!

BOBBY JONES LOSES MATCH

National Champion Victor in 72-Hole Contest

Beats Rival on Florida Links by 12-and-11 Score

Biggest Purse Ever Pocketed Annexed by Winner

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) March 7.—Walter Hagen, national professional golf champion, today continued his winning streak over Bobby Jones, national amateur champion, taking their 72-hole match 12 up and 11 to go.

The match, which was heralded as for the unofficial golf championship of the United States, began last Sunday when 36 holes were played over the Whitfield Estates course at Sarasota. Hagen leading, 1 up, at the end of that round. The final 36 holes were played today over the Pasadena course and ended with Hagen, 4 up and 3 to play.

The contestants quit their match play on the twenty-fifth hole as Jones was willing to yield to his opponent, as they finished the course to please the gallery.

In his work on both links Jones showed occasional flashes of the form which carried him to the top of the amateur list, but Hagen's steady and relentless game and his fine demeanor in the most trying situations resulted in his overwhelming victory. Hagen's performance today was considered by experts to be one of the finest ex-

Bob Hasty Slams Home Run for Siwashes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE BASEBALL TRAINING CAMP (Hermosa Beach) March 7.—The Seattle Indians have a pair of light but mighty effective left-hand hurlers for use this year if the work of Harry Lee and Cliff Best during the last two days is any criterion.

Lee pitched three innings against the crack Shell Oil Company team here today and while the Indians lost a 6-to-4 decision the work of both Lee and John Gillespie, the latter an Oakland right-hander, was to be commended.

Lee, like Best, who worked successfully against the Oilers, was seldom in the hole, but kept the ball low on his hitters most of the time and looked very good.

Big Bob Hasty did the hurling at the start of the game. Bob, fresh from a winter in Georgia, was giving them nothing but fast balls. Two solidly-hit singles and a pair of scratches cost big Bob two runs in the first inning.

In the third Bob evened that count by busting a home run, a long well-hit ball that bounced over the left garden wall on the first hop. Clarence Brooks was on base from a base on balls when Hasty cut loose with his prodigious wallop.

Bob retired after three innings, Killefer hitting for him and helping in the ultimate retirement of the left-handed Mr. Fredie Schupp by coaxing a base on balls.

Lee worked the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. He was scored on three times in the fourth, but Young Ellsworth dropped a line

HELEN WILLS VANQUISHES SPANISH TENNIS CHAMPION

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MENTONE (France) March 7.—Helen Wills, the American champion, took temporary possession of the Mentone challenge cup today by defeating Senorita De Alvarez, the Spanish champion, in the finals of the women's singles of the Mentone tennis tournament. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

In the afternoon Miss Wills and J. H. Van Alen of Brooklyn were defeated by Henri Cochet and Mlle. Vlasto of France, 6-2, 6-2, in the international mixed doubles for the cup of the nations.

The California girl played a somewhat slow and listless game against Senorita De Alvarez, who made Miss Wills race about the court in an effort to return well-placed drives. Helen contented herself with a baseline game and declined to go the net.

MORHARDT WINS CUP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

POMONA COLLEGE, March 7. Emil Morhardt, star Pomona College golfer, won possession of the Desmond Cup for one year by defeating Capt. Dick Armour one up on the nineteenth hole in the final round of the tourney yesterday. The trophy was donated by the Los Angeles clothing house and the tournament for its possession is an annual affair with Sagehen golfers.

TITLE HOPES LOST?

Here's John Kuck of Kansas State College, whose shot put of 50 ft. 9¾ inches at an indoor meet put him in line for the world's title until Herbert Schwarze of Wisconsin bettered the mark last Saturday night in Chicago, heaving 50 feet 7⅝ inches.

BRUINS' SIX-RUN RALLY IN SEVENTH WINS GAME

Piercy and Root Hold Locals Safe Until Cubs Get to Mulcahy for Big Inning; Molloy Features

BY ROBERT RAY

For six and one-half innings the debut of Bill Jones's Hollywood Bees was a success, but in the last half of the seventh frame Phil Mulcahy blew up higher than the Wrigley Field tower and the Chicago Cubs scored six runs, which, added to the four that they had picked up in the first frame, was enough to give them a 10-to-5 verdict yesterday at the Forty-first and South Park basehit emporium.

A crowd of 6000 fans scattered themselves throughout the spacious confines of Wrigley Field and witnessed the contest, but it took a 17-year-old Bee rookie, Master John Joseph Molloy, to provide them the thrill of the day. Molloy, who hails from up around the bay section, hurled three innings against the Cubs, during which they did not hit a ball hard off him, much less get a hit. Molloy was recommended to Bill Lane by Tim Harrington, who also coaxed the Bees into signing Tony Lazzeri, last year's home-run sensation, whom the Yankees bought for a flock of dough and ball players. Harrington passed the word along to Lane that Molloy was a better prospect than Lazzeri ever was, and the youngster certainly looked impressive yesterday.

Joe McCarthy shot Bill Piercy and Charley Root, both ex-Coast Leaguers, who are in fine shape after twirling a lot of winter ball, and the Cubs got good pitching for the first time. It was a tough break for Oscar Vitt's players to have to look at such good hurling when they were trying to make their debut with a victory, but the Bees put up a good battle, considering the fact that they had been in training only five days. The pair of ex-Coasters yielded a total of eight hits, the Bees getting five in five innings off their former playmate, and three off of Root's fast ones. Both were given ragged support, errors figuring in four of the Hollywood markers.

SPLIT HONORS

Johnny Kerr and "Sparky" Adams, rival second-sackers, divided honors, both experiencing perfect days at the plate by banching walks with two basehits apiece.

Skipper Oscar Vitt used four Hollywood twirlers, starting with the veteran Ralph Stroud, with Molloy, Mulcahy, and Hollerson, the latter another 17-year-old comer, taking the rubber in the order named. Strange as it may seem, the Cubs scored all ten of their runs off the two regulars.

For some unknown reason the Cubs were the home team yesterday. Probably somebody flipped up a coin and the Bruins club won the honor despite the fact that

Mercuries to Face H.A.C. for Soccer Title

Hollywood A. C. and the Los Angeles Athletic Club soccer teams will clash in the final of the challenge cup competition, these teams having won that right yesterday at Loyola Field, when Hollywood defeated the Scots, 3 to 2, and the Mercuries downed the Sons, 2 to 0.

Both games were fast and keenly contested, the results being in doubt until the final whistle. In the preliminary Scots were first to score when Elder netted in one minute from kickoff. Ten minutes later Parkinson equalized and slipped another one under the bar shortly before the half ended. Ramsay added the third goal for Hollywood late in the second half after Smith made the opening. Scots staged a rally toward the close of the game, which provided one goal, Wadsley being the medium. Outstanding players for the Scots were Elder and McKenzie, while Ramsay and Parkinson were the stars for the winners.

The Clubmen entered the final by virtue of one earned goal, the second counter being a present on the part of Wright and Southern of the Sons. These players got their signals crossed, and when Wright kicked back to Southern, the goalie was caught well out of goal, the ball trickling over the line.

The first half was barren of goals, and the second half had almost run its course before Allan sent home a grass cutter for the first goal. A few minutes later the faux pas of the Sons' goalie put the game on ice for the Clubmen.

But after bouncing around a bit, Gardener managed to get out of his car and pulled a "Ralph De Palma" before the crowd, smiling, etc.

Midwick Polo Team Defeats Santa Barbara

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, March 7.—Despite spectacular riding by Fred Roe, the Midwick polo team defeated Santa Barbara, 12 to 10, in an exhibition high-goal match here this afternoon. Eric Pedley, aided and abetted by Jim Spalding and Capt. Carleton Burke, ran wild in the eighth chukker to tie the score at 10 all and after a foul had been called on Santa Barbara, Spalding and Burke scored two goals which proved to be the winning margin.

Although Midwick's team rated twenty-four goals to Santa Barbara's twenty, the game was played without handicap on a "dare." The handicap would have given Santa Barbara a victory.

Roe was by far the most spectacular player of the day, scoring seven of his team's ten goals. Poor playing on the part of George Moore at No. 1 was really responsible for the defeat of Santa Barbara for he declined to take chances and failed utterly to ride his opponent off the ball as a good player should.

Lord Jack Wodehouse, ranking British polo player, made his first appearance in Santa Barbara and displayed all the fire and hard riding which his reputation brought before him.

CALIFORNIA GRID ATHLETES OUT TODAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, March 7.—Candidates for University of California's football team turn out tomorrow for annual spring practice. Between fifty and sixty aspiring football luggers are expected to heed Coach C. M. (Nibs) Price's call.

Practice this spring, Price says, will not be only of the passing and kicking variety, but instead will include the running off of plays and formations with a dash of scrimmage to top it off.

Bill Edwards Made Head of Grange League

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 7.—William H. (Big Bill) Edwards, football captain and linesman in his days at Princeton, and widely known gridiron referee, today was named president of the newly formed American League of Professional Football Players, the organization sponsored by Harold (Red) Grange and his manager, C. C. Pyle.

Edwards, who retired in 1921 from the post of Collector of Internal Revenue at the port of New York, and who was made a special deputy police commissioner last year, has been appointed to this post for three years and will receive an annual salary of $25,000, the league announced at its meeting here.

Pyle was elected temporary vice-president, William Coughlin of Newark, N. J., treasurer, and Col. William Hayward, former United States District Attorney, general counsel.

Four clubs already have obtained franchises in the new circuit—New York, Newark, N. J., Milwaukee and Boston—and it is expected that six more cities will be received into the league at a meeting in this city late this month.

One of the president's first moves—he has been voted a virtual dictatorship—was to have inserted in the by-laws a clause prohibiting any member club accepting the services of any high school or college player until after his class has been graduated from high school or college.

Edwards said that with such a stringent ruling there would be no loopholes for promoters. He explained that if a football star left his university in his freshman year he would not be eligible for professional play for three years.

HOFF STILL GOING STRONG

Soaring Viking Sets Fourth World's Record of 13 Ft. 6¾ In.; Schwarze Busts Shot Mark

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—Charley Hoff has again defeated his most persistent aspirant to his world's indoor pole-vault crown. The vaulting Viking will have to make better than 13ft. 6⅝in. to win from himself again.

When the timber began to topple at a bit over twelve feet in the National A.A.U. games last night, Hoff slipped out of his flannels and joined the competitors. Two or three easy vaults and he had the bar raised to just above his record height of 13ft. 5½in., made in the East a week ago.

Taking off perfectly, Hoff, four times breaker of the international record in the event, went up and over and flung his body fully four inches clear of the crossbar. The standards showed the Norwegian had passed his previous record by three-eighths of an inch.

Then, while the applause still lingered, officials rechecked the height for the records and found that Hoff had cleared 13ft. 6 3-4in. by the tape line.

The meet saw another world mark broken by an unheralded champion, Herbert Schwarze of the Mrs. L. B. Elliott of the Brentwood Club, fast shaping up as one of the best women golfers in Southern California, and C. E. Kenyon, also of Brentwood, were home with a fine 85 to win low gross honors in the two-ball mixed foursome tourney for members of Wee Willie Hunter, Santa Monica Club, yesterday.

Mrs. Grace Denio and Harry J. Borde, with 90-10-80, won low net in the monthly club feature that drew more than two-score couples yesterday.

As usual, Brentwood was in fine condition, offering a test of golf second to none in this vicinity. Some of the best players in this vicinity have found Wee Willie's layout the hardest course to score on, over the circuit, and the recent rains have done wonders for both fairways and greens.

WOMEN PLAY TOMORROW

More than thirty women members of Brentwood are expected to play in the regular tin whistle sweepstakes tourney tomorrow. The play will be in two classes, with suitable prizes to all winners.

MRS. HARRIS AND DELEOT WIN EVENT

Mrs. F. B. Harris and Frank Deleot finished with an 85-11-74 for first prize in the selective drive two-ball mixed foursome tourney for Wilshire members, yesterday. Mrs. H. H. Beldin and Louis Beldan were second with 86-11-75.

MRS. HERBERTS, JACK KEMP COP AT HOLLYWOOD

Mrs. C. A. Herberts and Jack Kemp, with 97-23-74, won first prize in the two-ball mixed foursome tourney, arranged by Bill Amor, professional, for more than three-score Hollywood Club members yesterday. Bill has been doing a lot of work with his playing membership and scoring is getting better, accordingly.

Mrs. A. C. Lillie and S. W. Reddin, with 94-13-81, tied Mrs. Wallie Lohman and Gordon Chelew, who had a 91-10-81, for second trophy in the medley event.

While caring for the foursome field, Whispering Will Amor did not forget to arrange a blind-bogey event that drew more than fifty entrants. Harry Maxwell, G. R. Dozier, J. E. Elliott and R. C. Spencer cracked the mythical numerals with 75s.

CANTERBURY SCORING WELL AT HACIENDA

E. R. Canterbury, who has been playing some mighty fine golf for the past several months, continued his winning streak with a gratifying 4-and-3 victory over A. R. McGregor in a club championship tilt at Hacienda yesterday. Canterbury finished over Harry Pressler fine course in 78, while McGregor was home with 78. Other semifinal championship results were as follows:

Championship Eight—E. R. Canterbury defeated A. R. McGregor, 4 and 3; H. E. Tebbetts defeated V. M. Rider, 2 up; J. H. Dimmitt defeated W. J. Cox, 7 up; G. W. Flack defeated L. A. Lynch, 6 and 4.

DEL MONTE, March 7.—Joe Hegeman of the Automobile Club of Southern California, today won the annual golf championship of the California Auto Dealers at Del Monte, defeating C. E. TAYLOR AND BROWN READY

Bud is Favored to Win Over Rival in Tomorrow Night's Fistic Treat at Vernon

When is Bud Taylor going to lose a fight in California—if ever? By the law of averages the Terre Haute bantam is about due to have an off night and do everything wrong. So far Bud, outside the McLarnin foul, has walked over the cobblestones of victory so regularly it approaches the monotonous. Taylor has beaten the local field and all importations. Nobody has been found to take his measure.

Tomorrow night Taylor meets a boy—comparatively unknown in ring circles of this country. He is Johnny Brown, bantamweight champion of England and of Europe. And camp followers have been unable to get much of an estimate of the British champion since his arrival here last week because he has trained in private.

Those who have seen Brown box behind closed doors credit him with being a clever boxer. And his record shows that he has knocked out fourteen out of twenty-one of his own countrymen since he won the Lord Lonsdale belt and the championship. Brown has never been knocked out. He has been on the floor, but has never yet failed to finish.

Charley Harvey, who has brought all the great English fighters to this country to do their stuff, says his new Briton is as good a fighter as Joe Burman was in his prime.

Two years ago Brown boxed Burman in a no-decision fight and held him even. Since then Brown returned to England and won the title. He should be an improved fighter.

The semi-wind-up to the Taylor-Brown battle should be one of the best the Vernon club has had in months. Billy Alger of San Francisco meets Paul DeHate. They are two of the hard hitters.

Alger gave Tommy O'Brien one of his toughest battles here a few weeks ago. At that time Alger was suffering from overwork. Charley White is the only man who ever stopped Alger.

DeHate has been winning consistently. He stopped his last opponent at Vernon.

MICHAELS GETS CHANCE

Young Wrestling Phenom to Be Seen in Action on Daro's Next Bill at Olympic Auditorium

There will be an ambitious young fellow wrestling on Lou Daro's card at the Olympic Auditorium, the 15th inst., in one of the preliminaries to the Kotsonaros-London battle, whom the local promoter believes is destined to be another edition of Frank Gotch.

His name is Chris Michaels, a 22-year-old grappler, weighing 197 pounds. Michaels lives in Hollywood and when he is not on the mat he is working in pictures as a "rough-neck" or strong man.

Daro has been connected with the wrestling game for twenty-five years, and he is not usually enthusiastic about a youngster. However, Lou is broadcasting to the world at large that Michaels is destined to make many of the smart top-notchers sit up and take notice in a short time.

The draw with Anderson is the one flaw in Michaels's record which he expects to erase Monday night. If he wins he will be in line for bigger shots while, if Anderson gets the nod the latter will be given a semi-wind-up bout by Daro.

George Kotsonaros is doing his training for his bout with London at the Manhattan gymnasium. The Montana grappler is spending most of his time endeavoring to perfect a bar for the reverse headlock of London. Kotsonaros believes if he can do this he will have half of the battle won.

LA BARBA AFTER TITLE

Fidel After Championship of Australia in Bout With Vic King at Hollywood Friday Night

Fidel La Barba, holder of two championships, the world's flyweight championship and the Pacific Coast bantamweight crown, will make an effort to win the bantamweight championship of Australia at the Hollywood Legion Stadium when he fights Vic King at 118 pounds.

The match means more than the winning of the Australian bantamweight title to La Barba. He is fighting a boy from a foreign land for the first time since he turned professional. Should La Barba be beaten by Vic King he will not be the favorite when he fights Clever Sencio a few weeks later.

Fidel La Barba is a greater fighter than his hometown folks think. He has a manager in George Blake who has never let the little flyweight champion extend himself since the night he beat Frankie Genaro at Ascot. That night the real La Barba was seen for the first time and this Friday night Blake guarantees that La Barba will not fight under wraps but he will go out and give Vic King one beautiful trouncing and win his third title within a year.

The Hollywood fight fans like La Barba. They have seen him in action under all conditions and believe that when George Blake wants Fidel to open up he can do everything a world's title-holder is supposed to do.

The card:

Fidel La Barba vs. Vic King, 118 pounds, ten rounds.

Ad Allegrini vs. Harry Rupcan, 155 pounds, six rounds.

Jackie Carr vs. Willie O'Brien, 133 pounds, six rounds.

Mickey Biss vs. Kid Frayo, 132 pounds, four rounds.

Kid Lucero vs. Mickey Arno, 108 pounds, four rounds.

Hollywood is a couple of miles closer to Wrigley Field than Chicago.

The Bees started off in front by gathering one run in the opening inning when Kerr drew one of his two walks, stole second, and counted on Johnny Frederick's triple to right. Frederick was nailed at the plate on Les Sheehan's fielder's choice to Adams, while Leslie fanned to end the inning.

PICK UP FOUR

The Cubs came back with four runs in their half of the initial frame by bunching two walks and three hits off "Sailor" Stroud. Adams drew a walk for a starter, but was forced at second by Heathcote. Freigau singled to left and Mandy Brooks drew a walk, filling the sacks. That brought "Senator" Tolson, a power in Cub political baseball circles, and the Senator socked out a triple to right, bringing in Heathcote, Freigau and Brooks.

Fitzgerald singled Tolson across the plate for the final run of the inning. Michaels, who played short for the Cubs, and had a terrible time doing same, and Hartnett, were disposed of for the other two necessary outs.

Hollywood picked up a couple of runs in the fourth on Sheehan's single, Leslie's double, a walk to Fernandes and Michael's error of Les Cook's roller, that allowed both Sheehan and Leslie to score. The Bees might have gotten some more runs, but when Lindimore, batting for Stroud, flied to Brooks, Fernandes forgot how many outs there were and was doubled off second to end the inning.

The Bees forged to the front by putting over another two markers in the sixth, a temporary mental lapse on the part of Michaels and an error by Freigau being responsible for the only runs scored off Charley Root. After Gooch had been retired Fernandes walked. Cook was safe at first and Fernandez managed to reach second on Freigau's wild heave to Tolson. Lindimore singled to right, filling the sacks, although Fernandez could have scored easily had he been on his toes.

While in the act of striking out Molloy, one of Root's curves broke too much for Gonzales and got away from the Cub catcher for a passed ball, Fernandes scoring, the other runners advancing a base. After Molloy had finished striking out, Kerr hit to Michaels, who fielded the ball cleanly, but started to throw to second for a force-out, he thinking there was a Bee player on first. When Michaels came to life, it was too late for him to get Kerr at first, and Cook was scored. Frederick popped to Michaels for the third out.

TWELVE BATTERS

The next bit of importance took place in the seventh when the Cubs lit on Mr. Mulcahy for the avalanche of runs that smothered the Bees' chances. Twelve Cubs came to the bat in this frame, Adams getting a single and a double in his two seventh-inning attempts at the plate. Brooks, Tolson and Fitzgerald also got hits in this stanza, while Mulcahy added to the carnage by issuing four walks.

The Cubs go back to Catalina Island this morning to resume spring training at Avalon, while the Bees, a sadder if not wiser swarm, went back to the Hotel Dupont in Hollywood last night to sleep off their woes. The Cubs and Bees resume their exhibition feud at Wrigley Field next Friday and Saturday, when they are scheduled for two more clashes. Score:

GIRLS PLAY FOR TITLE

Basketball Championships to be Decided Here Month; Fast Teams in Practice

After a strenuous month of practice games the Pasadena and Country Club girl cagers will start the elimination games for the senior national basketball championship at the Los Angeles Athletic Club April 16 and 17. The championship will be held under the auspices of the local club.

On the 12th inst. the P.A.C.C. team will play the Anaheim Athletic Club on the court at the Pasadena High School. This team has won all its games through the orange belt and are rated as one of the fastest aggregations among girls' teams playing boys' rules.

Irma Young, who is captain, was formerly captain of the Anaheim High School squad and this year filled the same position with the Fullerton Junior College. She is a topnotcher in basketball circles. The return game will be played on the 20th inst. on the court at Fullerton Junior High School.

In the meantime the local girls will take on teams from the Los Angeles Church League and teams from the Industrial League. The Church League and the Industrial League will finish their schedule and play either the Anaheim Athletic Club or the Pasadena Athletic Club for the finals before the national.

Coach Eddie Lawrensen who has had the P.A.C.C. team under his wing feels confident he has a splendid team. They will see keen competition in any selection of girl cagers.

FINE FIELD AT HOLLYWOOD

More Than 100 Players Qualify Well in Spring Handicap Tourney at Movie City Club

Whispering Will Amor, one of the most popular members of the local Professional Golfers' Association, dropped the starting flag for more than 100 members of his Hollywood club, who will start match play in the annual spring handicap tourney, this week, after a qualifying round that found scores of club aces shooting well down to their handicaps.

Amor has worked hard with an enjoyable layout and the Hollywood course today is in the finest possible shape. W. H. Richards, president, one of the most popular and hospitable down-State executives, has worked out a golfing and social program that would be a credit to even the sterling efforts of Harry Blythe and other club officials.

Scoring in the event starting tomorrow should be very good. Complete pairs for first-round matches that must be played this week, are as follows:

Pros Star in International Golf Matches

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MIAMI (Fla.,) March 7.—Favorites in all matches with one exception survived the first day's play in the international four ball golf tournament which began today over the Miami Country Club course.

Contrary to expectations Mike Brady and Eddie Williams, his club partner, succumbed to the slashing offensive launched by Cyril Walker, former national open champion, and Pat Doyle, former Irish titleholder, one up. Doyle substituted for Jack Hutchison after the latter had announced his inability to participate on account of a quarantine ban retaining him in Nassau, Bahamas.

The largest gallery of the day trailed Gene Sarazen, former national open champion, and Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, who defeated John Golden and Joe Boyd, four and three. Sarazen was erratic at times during the morning play, but played orthodox golf during the afternoon. MacDonald Smith and "Wild Bill," Mehlhorn had little difficulty in downing Jack Rogers and Leonard Schmutte, six and five. The Smith-Mehlhorn team annexed the international tourney title here several years ago, and is favored in the subsequent matches.

The Chicago team of Bobby Cruickshank and Al Espinosa took an early lead and maintained the advantage during the greater part of the play in defeating Bill Damen and Larry Nabholtz

SPRINTS EVEN

Keough and Morrison of Poly each finish one, two in the half-mile, with Morrison of Los Angeles second, while Morrison finishes first in both heats. Lombardi of Los Angeles and Sullivan are picked to take first two places in the century with Capt. Gantt of Poly taking third. The Roman star has showed to 10.1 this season and should be good enough to win. Gantt of Poly and Lombardi of Los Angeles have both run the 220 in 22.1s, but Gantt should nose out his competitor in the race. Keough and Plant of Los Angeles will probably battle for third place.

The 440 looks like Los Angeles all the way, with the exception of Kenyon, Poly star, in the money only third. Stock and Plant should win the first two places. Powers of Poly is picked to cop firsts in both the 880 and mile, tearing second and third places for the Romans in the two events. Powers finished second to Jimmy Meeks of Hollywood in their meet, when Meeks ran the loops in 25 flat, while Smith of Los Angeles was caught in 2 3-10 against Jefferson. Cromwell should finish ahead in the high hurdles.

FAVOR MOSES

Ben Moses of Los Angeles is accredited first place in the shot put, although he finished second to Moses of Jefferson, who only negotiated the shot 44ft. 1 3-4in. Lauson of Poly put the shot 45ft. 2in. on the Hollywood meet, Moses finished with better than 46ft. in practice, but he will have to make his best Lauterman. Griffiths of Poly should take third place.

The pole vault should bring a plenty of competition. Stewart of Los Angeles is favored, but Smith should have plenty of trouble from Collins of Poly. Stamness of Poly is favored to cop third place. Hall of Los Angeles is almost certain to win the broad jump. Smith of Los Angeles will probably fight it out for the high jump, with the latter favored.

Cromwell should finish ahead in the high hurdles.

FAVOR MOSES

Ben Moses of Los Angeles is accredited first place in the shot put, although he finished second to Moses of Jefferson, who only negotiated the shot 44ft. 1 3-4in. Lauson of Poly put the shot 45ft. 2in. on the Hollywood meet, Moses finished with better than 46ft. in practice, but he will have to make his best Lauterman. Griffiths of Poly should take third place.

The pole vault should bring a plenty of competition. Stewart of Los Angeles is favored, but Smith should have plenty of trouble from Collins of Poly. Stamness of Poly is favored to cop third place. Hall of Los Angeles is almost certain to win the broad jump. Smith of Los Angeles will probably fight it out for the high jump, with the latter favored.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

ONE of the greatest race duels in the history of the California-Stanford track series is in sight when Capt. Richardson of the Cards, and Elmer Boyden of the Bears meet over the 880-yard route at Palo Alto next month. It will be the third and final collegiate meeting of the pair. Though Richardson was favored in each of their previous clashes, it was Boyden who won. In 1923 he captured the freshman race—a thriller in which he won by a great sprint down the stretch. In 1924 he was out of school, but last year he defeated Richardson in the Coast record time of 1m. 54 1-10s., beating the long-legged Cardinal by three yards in a heart-breaking race.

This record supplanted one of eleven years' standing—1m. 54 6-10s.—made by Bonnett of Stanford back in 1914. Of course, Richardson redeemed himself by running the last lap of the relay and walking away from Boyden in the stretch. This won the meet for Stanford, but it is the 880 that Richardson would give an eye to beat Boyden in. However, it has always seemed to us that Richardson's best forte is the quarter, although he never runs it except in a relay race. This fact was re-emphasized in the Stanford interclass meet this year when he and Miller, the Stanford quarter star, traded races—Richardson ran the 440 and Miller the 880. Richardson's time was 49 2-5s., which is just one fifth of a second shy of the new Big Meet record Miller established in the big meet last year. In the relay, when Richardson and Boyden ran the final laps, Richardson left Boyden as if he were standing still, although they started on even terms.

Just as we were prepared to write that it appeared as if the Scotch welterweight, Tommy Milligan, had tossed off his chance to meet Mickey Walker for the world's welterweight crown word came from New York that the Gotham Boxing Commission did not hold his defeat at the hands of George Levine the other night against him.

In fact, the commission insists that Walker go through with the match early in May or suffer the punishment of being barred from New York rings. That this will make a great deal of difference to Walker with legalized boxing opening up in Chicago next month is not likely, but at any rate the New York commission deserves three cheers for giving Milligan the chance he lost when Walker developed a sore toe.

Our good friend Charley Harvey, who is out here with his English fighter, Johnny Brown, for that Taylor fight at Vernon tomorrow night says Milligan is a mighty fine two-handed fighter, who has been mismatched in this country.

Harvey declares Milligan lacks the experience and the fine points of cunning possessed by two of the veterans he has been sent against since his arrival in America—Jack Zivic and Georgie Levine—but is a splendid prospect, and should be heard from in the future.

Eddie Long seems confident that his boy Taylor is finally to get his chance at Phil Rosenberg and the bantamweight title. It is likely the match will be held in Chicago in May, and it will be the first big open-air titular shot staged under the rules of the new Illinois boxing law.

And if Taylor wins the 118-pound title, as he is a cinch to, watch the astute Mister Long give New York and its Boxing Commission the merry go-by. Mister Long has twice posted forfeits with the Gotham commission, but the forfeits have been returned to him with the information that two other contenders had been given the preference—Bushy Graham and Chick Suggs (colored.) In fact, Mr. Long was told that before Taylor could be considered he would have to meet Suggs. As Graham was ranked ahead of Suggs by the commission and as Taylor and Graham have an even score in their two fights Mister Long couldn't figure out anything but favoritism. Wherefore he intends to shun New York as the plague and make all of Taylor's matches in Chicago and Los Angeles.

Small hope is held for another Taylor-McLarnin match. Long won't permit Taylor to fight featherweights and unless "Pop" Foster will let McLarnin make weight it's all off. "Pop" insists upon catchweights, and Long says nothing doing. McLarnin scaled 128½ pounds for the Sangor match, which, Long says, is one and one-half pounds more than he can pack if he wants another fight with Taylor.

TIGER-GRIZZLY MEET SATURDAY

Rival Track Squads Clash at Patterson Field

Little to Choose Between Two Aggregations

Dope Favors Branch; Marks Give Oxy Edge

BY BRAVEN DYER

Saturday afternoon the only track team in the southern conference that has not been either tied or defeated this year goes into action at Patterson Field, Eagle Rock. The team is Harry Trotter's local University of California outfit and pitted against them will be Joe Pipal's Occidental College athletes—who until last Saturday were heavy favorites to cop the conference championship. The Tigers are favorites no longer, however, for Fox Stanton's California Tech charges rose up in all their manly glory and tied the Bengals in one of the biggest upsets in conference track history.

Our memory goes back to last fall when Bill Spaulding's Grizzly footballers were slated to meet Occidental on the gridiron. All the dope pointed to a Tiger triumph—in fact, the Vermont-avenue athletes were supposed to emerge on the short end of something like a 21-to-0 score. What happened is history. The Grizzlies won, 9 to 3. Occidental was overconfident and as a result was outfought.

The memory of that defeat ought to do the Tigers a lot of good in preparation for this Saturday's meet. Undoubtedly, the narrow escape from a thumping at the hands of Caltech will also tend to wipe out whatever feeling of superiority the Bengals may barbor in this instance.

Dope is of little or no value in predicting a track meet—or any other athletic encounter, for that matter. If it were the Grizzlies would be favored to trim Occidental this time. Caltech tied Pomona and Occ. The Grizzlies beat Pomona, 74 to 66. Therefore, according to dope, they should also bowl the Bengals over.

However, in this case it is exceedingly doubtful if the Grizzlies consider themselves favorites to win. It's a cinch that Coach Harry Trotter harbors no such thought. In the first place, Occidental is especially strong just where Pomona was woefully weak Saturday—in the long races and field events. Goodheart and Scovel promise to give Pearcy, Drake and Miller—the three men who showed Pomona up in the mile and two-mile—all sorts of trouble. Goodheart and Pearcy should battle it out on about even terms in the four-lap event, while Scovel will be favored to take the two-mile grind.

In addition Occidental can put in the field men with better records than Pomona did in three of the six first places which the Sagehens copped from the Grizzlies. Pomona took first in the 220-yard dash, low hurdles and relay, and Occidental can offer better marks in all three of these events. Also the Tigers figure to annex the broad jump, discus and shot—three events which Pomona did not win. On the other hand, Occidental is weaker than Pomona in the high jump, pole vault and javelin. This weakness will hurt in the first-named event, where Huber and Keefer should take the first two places and in the pole vault, where Dees will probably cop first. Pomona tied for first in these two events against the Grizzlies. The javelin will not make so much difference, the Grizzly's best man being about on a par with Oxy's.

Giving the Grizzlies the benefit of the doubt by awarding them first places in the half-mile, mile and javelin—which events they are by no means sure of winning—we arrive at a 77 to 63 score in favor of Occidental. On the basis of last week's upsets the above arrival is probably worth about as much as your last year's straw hat—or less.

time, and apparently was all right. They would take turns wiggling their fingers at Bob, and then he'd salute them with a flag. Very interesting.

Dan Tobey evidently had a new supercharger on his voice as his announcing was quite audible when he called the first competitive event—the one-lap dash for the Ascot Helmet, which was won by Ted Simpson in his Chrysler Special. Time, 37.2s. The second event was five laps, won by Bill Bundy. Time, 3m. 16 2-5s. Third event, five laps, won by Dick Jackman in his "Dizzy 100." Fourth event, ten laps, won by Al Hopp in his El Monte Special. Time, 7m. 2 2-5s.

Next came the seven-lap final invitational won by Bill Bundy in 4m. 4-5s. The final event, championship sweepstakes, was won by Ted Simpson in his Chrysler Special, but no time was made after Gardener and Williams hooked on the fifth lap.

Gentlemen of color in the racing coterie are to wage battle for their racial championship in the final event next Sunday at Ascot, the promoters announced last night, with a program of races and other features starting at 1:30 p.m.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER. BILL HENRY

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA appears to have another real prospect on the track in Ittle Murray Schultz of Caltech, for his performances in the meet against Occidental last Saturday will go down in history as well up with the best. He ran the century in 9.8 and the 220 in the astounding time of 21.4, on top of which he turned in a lap in the relay in very close to 50 seconds. A lot of other performances made in that meet were well worth recording, but those of Schultz seem to indicate that the diminutive youngster from Pasadena has Olympic possibilities. Incidentally the record of Caltech in scoring a 70-to-70 tie with Pomona and with Occidental on two successive Saturdays ought to constitute some kind of a new world's record in itself. A tie score in a track meet is unusual in the extreme and two of them in a row is even more so.

While old Fox Stanton has been tossing a suprise or so into Pomona and Occidental, who should bob up but our old college chum Harry Trotter and pull the biggest surprise of the year with his victory over Pomona, which puts him in the lead for the Conference title. Harry has been fussing along here for a couple of years without saying very much, but he has been accumulating a little material here and there and now it has suddenly burst out into full bloom and Occidental and Caltech find themselves in the position of having to whip the battling Grizzlies in order to win the championship. And from all appearances, whipping the Grizzlies is not going to be anything like an easy job.

How track and field performances have come along in the last year or two. Here are all kinds of "unknowns" from the local conference colleges running the half in about two minutes, the mile in well under four-forty, the two-mile in close to ten minutes and everybody in sight running the high hurdles in 15.5 and the lows in somewhere around 25 seconds. Without any question whatsoever the track and field prospects here in Southern California are the best this year that they have ever been, and it is doubtful if there is another community in the world that can equal the wealth of top-notch material to be found here.

drive which would have meant the third out without a score. The Indians drove Schupp from the mound in the fifth when two singled and a base on balls filled the bags. Pug Covet, Atlanta's veteran southpaw, relieved him and retired the side without a run.

A base on balls issued by Gillespie and a pair of singles scored the last run of the Oilers in the eighth.

OSBORN STRONG FOE FOR HOFF

Septathlon Will Decide All-Around Honors

Norwegian Declared Greatest Athlete by Expert

Visitor Handicapped by Short Preparation Period

[BY A. P. RIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 7. — Although Charley Hoff, Norwegian athletic star now touring this country stands in a class by himself as a pole-vaulter, he has a keen rival for all-around athletic honors in Harold M. Osborn of the Illinois Athletic Club.

The contest between these two in a seven-event duel featuring the Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden the 16th inst., promises to furnish one of the high spots of the indoor season as well as to help settle the question of versatile supremacy.

SAID GREATEST

While specializing in the vault, Hoff has developed his aptitude for other events to an unusual degree, so much so that prior to the Olympic Games of 1924 at Paris, Lawson Robertson, head coach of the American team, classified the Norwegian as the "greatest all-around athlete in the world."

Robertson delivered this verdict prior to Osborn's victory in the Olympic decathlon, emblematic of the world's all-around title. Hoff was unable to compete in that event, because of a foot injury, so that the relative merits of the two stars has remained in doubt.

Hoff's performances in outdoor competition give him a slight edge over Osborn, based on a decathlon or ten-event comparison. But conditions will be somewhat different in a seven-event indoor program which will comprise a sixty-yard dash, sixty-yard hurdles, shot-put, pole vault, running high jump, running broad jump and 440-yard run.

Hoff himself believes his duel with Osborn will be close, with the outcome likely to hinge upon the broad jump. Each has an outstanding specialty in which to roll up big point totals, Hoff in the vault and Osborn in the high jump. The Norwegian also concedes his rival an advantage in the hurdles and shotput but considers his own chances of victory favorable in the dash and quarter-mile run.

The following table records the best outdoor marks of Hoff and Osborn in the regular decathlon events:

100-meter dash — Hoff, 10 3-10s; Osborn, 11 2-10s.
400-meter run—Hoff, 48 3-10s; Osborn, 52 9-10s.
1500-meter run—Hoff, 4m. 15s; Osborn, 4m. 40s.
Broad jump—Hoff, 24ft. 6in.; Osborn, 23ft. 9½in.
High jump—Hoff, 5ft. 10in.; Osborn, 6ft. 4¼in.
Pole vault—Hoff, 13ft. 11 13-16in.; Osborn, 12ft. 6in.
Shot-put—Hoff, 42ft. 4in.; Osborn, 40ft. 4¼in.
Discus throw—Hoff, 126ft. 8in.; Osborn, 126ft.
Javelin throw—Hoff, 160ft.; Osborn, 170 ft.
110-meter hurdles — Hoff, 16 2-10s.; Osborn, 15 3-10s.

Hockey Loop Schedule is Announced

Following the completion of the organization of the senior league of the Southern California Amateur Hockey Association, the official schedule of games was issued last night.

Sixteen games in all will be played by the amateur league, all contests to be staged at the new Glacier Ice Palace, the first game to be staged Tuesday evening, the 16th inst., with the Hollywood Fawnskins meeting the University Branch club, the latter team being made up of students of the University of California in Los Angeles.

All contests are to begin at 7:45 o'clock, so that they will be completed by 9:30 to permit a full hour and a half of public skating at the close of each game.

Interest in the new league is mounting rapidly, particularly as a result of the official recognition given ice hockey as a college sport by the University of Southern California and Occidental College. The schedule of popular prices established by E. C. Hopkins, manager of the Glacier Palace for hockey at the new rink, will prevail for all the amateur-league contests.

Following is the complete schedule:

March 16—Hollywood Fawnskins vs. U.S.L.A.
March 18—U.S.C. vs. Auto Club.
March 23—Occidental vs. Auto Club.
March 25—U.S.C. vs. Fawnskins.

MEETING FLAYS MEXICO POLICY

"Religious Persecutions" Are Protested

Constitution Denounced as Communistic

Washington Gathering in Radical Mood

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—A mass meeting at Poli's Theater today under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus of the District of Columbia adopted resolutions protesting against "the policy of religious persecution being followed by the present government of Mexico."

Representative Boylan, Democrat, New York, one of the principal speakers, who demanded in the House last week that the United States sever diplomatic relations with Mexico, announced that he will introduce a bill asking that the United States "withdraw its recognition from this Bolshevik and robber republic to the south until it amends its Communistic constitution on the grounds of decency, righteousness and justice." American recognition, he said, "should no more be extended to Mexico than it should be offered to soviet Russia."

The meeting, which was attended by persons of various religious faiths, was told by Rabbi Abram Simon of the Washington Hebrew congregation, that "the Mexican constitution had apparently been written overnight" and showed signs of "constitutional delirium tremens." He declared that the Mexican constitution "bristles with fear—fear that churches will obtain too much power, and hold too many lands."

"Actuated by this fear," he continued, "it has made the state a veritable towering giant and the church a mere suppliant pigmy."

The resolutions adopted at the mass meeting denounced the provisions of the Mexican constitution under which foreign religious teachers are being expelled from that country, "as endangering the progress of human liberty, and as unworthy of a nation otherwise entitled to an honored place in the family of nations." Copies of the resolutions were ordered sent to Secretary Kellogg, Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

WHEREABOUTS OF FIVE MISSIONARIES UNKNOWN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SALT LAKE CITY, March 7.—Present whereabouts of the five missionaries of the Church of Latter Day Saints, ordered out of Mexico, is unknown to officials of the church here. Heber J. Grant, president of the church, when Associated Press dispatches quoting Secretary Kellogg as saying he had been advised these men had been ordered out of the country, were read to him, said he had heard nothing from them for several days.

"Our only word," President Grant said, "was a telegram from the head of the church organization at El Paso, who was then in Mexico City. He advised us that the Mexican officials had ordered the schools closed and the American members of the faculty to leave the country at once. Subsequently we received a letter, but it was written before the telegram.

"Since then we have learned through press dispatches that the schools were permitted to reopen, but we have received no word direct."

GAMBLERS NETTED IN VICE RAIDS

Thirty of Seventy-seven Arrests Are Made Under Liquor Law

Vice-squad raids in widely separated parts of the city Saturday night and early yesterday brought in seventy-seven prisoners, most of whom were charged with gambling with cards or dice. Thirty of the arrests were for various violations of the Wright Act, made by the antiliquor detail of the vice squad.

The gambling raids were made by a large force of officers commanded by Detective Lieutenants Sheffield and Hoy. According to the police records, the raids were made at 1403 East Twenty-first street, where eight were arrested; at 554 Gladys avenue, six prisoners; at 415 East Washington street, five prisoners; at 614½ West Pico street, seven prisoners; at 221½ East Fourth street, seven prisoners, and at 1606 East Twenty-third street, fourteen prisoners.

Wealthy Woman Complainant in Oil Stock Deal

Mrs. Catherine Bayne Stephens, wealthy Pasadena matron, today will take the witness stand before Judge Hahn to continue her testimony against Floyd C. White, Arthur Brown and A. R. Chandler, charged with defrauding Mrs. Stephens and another woman of approximately $544,000 in an oil-stock deal.

According to previous testimony, the three men persuaded Mrs. Stephens to invest in Interstate Oil Company stock. She bought more than 300,000 shares of the stock, she testified, on their representations that the stock would produce her more than a $0 per cent return.

Dept. Dist.-Atty Van Cott is prosecuting the case before Judge Hahn.

WU CONTROLS HONAN FRONT

Gains of Combined Armies Against Government Forces Confined to This Front

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PEKING, March 7.—Such gains as were made by the combined armies operating against the government forces during the past week are confined to the province of Honan where Gen. Wu Pei-Fu and his ally, Chin Yun-Ao appear to have extended their control to virtually the whole province.

On the Machang front, where Gens. Li Ching-Ling and Chang Tsung-Chang are facing the formidable first Kuominchun, or national people's army, under Gen. Lu Chung-Lin, there is a stalemate.

MACHANG REOCCUPIED

The combined Shantung armies after retiring from Machang, which is thirty miles south of Tient-sin, reoccupied it and the town is now under attack by the Kouminchun, according to today's advices.

After having invested the city for several weeks, Gen. Wu is reported to have occupied Singyang-chow. Gen. Chin, having taken Keifeng, pushed on to Chengchow. He encountered little opposition, the second Kuominchun army having retreated northward, cutting the railroad at the Yellow River bridge, thus evacuating the entire Province south of the river.

The gunboats and transports which arrived the 3rd inst., at Taku have made no attempts at landing forces. Fighting is reported on the Shanhaikwan front in the vicinity of Lanchow, where the Fengtien troops attempted to cross the Lan River in face of the Kuominchun fire. Details of the engagement are lacking.

SPLIT IN PARTY

This is reported to be a split in the Fengtien party over the question of participating in the military operations and talk of efforts by the Kuominchun to effect a truce with Gen. Chang Tso-Lin. Dr. W. W. Yen seemingly is unwilling to take the portfolio of Foreign Minister in the new Cabinet, thus leaving the post temporarily vacant.

Architect Here to Study Points for Washington

An idea which originated in Los Angeles several years ago and which has been developed with marked success, the formation of an Allied Architects' Association to design public buildings, has been adopted by thirty-five of the leading architects of Washington and is being carried forward at the national capital, according to a statement made yesterday by Edward W. Donn, Jr., Washington architect, and a director of the Allied Architects' Association of that city. Mr. Donn has been visiting Los Angeles for a week and during his stay here he has spent considerable time at the headquarters of the local association, studying its plan of organization and working methods.

At present Mr. Donn is engaged in preparing plans for the restoration of two prehistoric residences in the vicinity of Washington, both of which were former homes of George Washington. One of these residences, Wakefield, on the Potomac, was the birthplace of George Washington and the house is to be restored as nearly as possible to its original condition and made a national monument. This task has been undertaken by the Wakefield association. Kenmore, located at Fredericksburg, Va., was the home of George Washington as a young man and this residence is to be restored and made a national shrine by the Kenmore association.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Profesor R. Guerrero
DEL DEPARTAMENTO ESPAÑOL DE "THE TIMES"

Número 412

En el ejemplo cuarto de la Plática 410 se lee "lambia", y debe ser "lamia".

En los primeros ocho ejemplos de la Plática 410 aparece empleado el adjetivo "yerto" como si fuera sinónimo de "frío" o "helado", connotación que no posee, como puede verlo el estudiante por la siguiente definición que de ese adjetivo nos da el Diccionario de la Academia Española: (1) Tieso, derecho e inflexible o áspero. (2) Aplícase al viviente que se ha quedado tieso y sin movimiento por el mucho frío; y también se dice de los cadáveres y otras cosas que experimentan el mismo efecto. "Quedarse yerto uno" es frase figurada, que significa asustarse sumamente o sobrecogerse de alguna cosa.

En tal virtud, y para hablar con propiedad, deberían los autores de los pasajes citados haber empleado en ellos, sea el adjetivo "frío", sea el adjetivo "helado", diciendo: "Ese rojo diabólico que las cortesanas tísicas ponen sobre sus mejillas frías"; "Los rayos de luz blanca fueron a acariciarle la helada frente", etc.

En los ejemplos, del 9 al 26, aparece, salvo en dos casos, mal empleada la voz "pupila". "Pupila" o "niña del ojo" (pupil or apple of the eye) es la abertura que el iris tiene en su parte media, y presenta siempre color negro, pues no es sino un orificio o agujerito por el que entrevemos la parte interior del ojo, que está oscura.

El "iris" es la cortina o diafragma membranoso, opaco, muscular y contráctil, que se halla frente a la lente o cristalino del ojo. Tiene la superficie posterior fuertemente pigmentada para impedir que entre la luz, a no ser a través de la pupila, cuyo tamaño está regulado por las contracciones del iris. La superficie anterior de éste varía de color en los diferentes individuos; de allí que, por ser el color del iris uno de los caracteres más distintivos del ojo humano, sea común reemplazar la palabra "iris", que no es familiar, por "ojo", y decir que una persona tiene ojos azules cuando éstos tienen iris azul. Pero la pupila, repetimos, es un agujerito que siempre se ve oscuro.

Sólo en las frases 20 y 21 está usada con propiedad la voz "pupila", que es una abertura que puede dilatarse o contraerse, y en algunos animales, como el gato, cambiar, al reducirse, su forma circular por la oblonga. En la frase 21, con todo, hay que hacer el reparo de que a las pupilas del gato puede aplicárseles los calificativos de "lineales" y "verticales", pero no el de "amarillas", por las razones ya expuestas.

Salvo en las dos frases exceptuadas, sería, pues, bien substituir "pupila" por "ojo" en los ejemplos del 8 a 26, y en algunos de ellos hasta convendría hacer tal cual modificación en pro de la claridad: (9) "Mirando como con ojos desorbitados (fuera de sus órbitas)"; (10) "Aquellos círculos verdes de sus ojos", etc.

Los escritores que estamparon las frases 1, 2 y 3 de la Plática 411 ignoraban, cuando lo hicieron, lo que significan el substantivo "refracción" y el verbo "refractar". El señor de Toro y Gisbert nos da sobre estos términos las explicaciones siguientes en su Moderno Diaparatorio:

Al caer la luz sobre una superficie tersa puede experimentar dos desviaciones diferentes. Si la superficie no es transparente, la luz se refleja, es decir, es rechazada en dirección diferente, pero del mismo lado de la superficie en que cae. Este fenómeno, que es el que observámos en los espejos, se llama en física reflexión de la luz. Si cae en una superficie transparente, como en el agua o sobre un prisma de cristal, una parte de la luz se refleja, como en el caso anterior; pero otra parte, tanto mayor cuanto más se aproxima la dirección del rayo a la perpendicular en el punto de incidencia o de caída, se mete dentro del líquido o del prisma, cambiando de dirección. La luz, en este caso, se refracta, es decir, experimenta la refracción.

De aquí se deduce que, si miramos la superficie de un lago o del mar cuando en ella cae la luz del sol, sólo veremos los rayos de ésta que se reflejan, pero no los que se refractan, que sólo serán perceptibles para los peces o los buzos. Toman, pues, el rábano por las hojas los autores de los ejemplos 1, 2 y 3.

Para que se compadezca con la verdad lo expresado en esos ejemplos hay que reemplazar "refracción" y "refractar" por "reflexión" y "reflejar"; 2. "La llanura oceánica resplandecía ofuscante, reflejando el fuego del astro", etc.

El escritor Vargas Vila, en el ejemplo 4, nos habla de "sangre en fusión", sin advertir que "fusión" es la acción de derretirse un cuerpo sólido. "En fusión" significa sencillamente "fundido" o "derretido". Pero no puede aplicarse la palabreja, por linda que parezca, a los cuerpos que naturalmente son líquidos, como lo hace el autor de la frase censurada. Pudo éste haber dicho: "un océano de sangre reverberante", o de "sangre en ebullición", según la idea que haya querido expresar.

Otro que mejor canta es el que en el ejemplo 5 nos habla de "topacios y cobaltos en infusión". Si "fusión", dice el señor de Toro, parece a algunos palabra elegante, no alcanza a ciertos escritores ansiosos, que se figuran que con agregarle una sílaba más será más guapa la palabra. En el pasaje que criticamos hubiera bastado decir sencillamente "en fusión", pues "infusión" es el líquido que se obtiene echando alguna substancia en agua hirviendo, como se hace con el té, el mate, la manzanilla, etc.

Además, en las infusiones, el agua toma de las substancias orgánicas que en ella se maceran, las partes solubles, y adquiere el sabor y olor de esas substancias. Ni el topacio ni el cobalto, que son enteramente insolubles, pueden dejarle nada al agua hirviente.

INDIGESTION

Acid Stomach and Torpid Liver of Prominent Cafe Man Relieved with Coso Volcanic Iron Water

BILL PAINE

For twenty-five years I have been identified with Cafe life in Los Angeles and community. As either manager or owner I directed the first Green Mill, Sunset Inn, Cafe Mayfair, Rathskellar, The Old Tavern, The Ship, Vernon Country Club and the Winter Garden. Numbering my friends by the thousands, I was constantly entertaining or being entertained at midnight suppers, where the menu consisted of well prepared but rich and highly seasoned food. Enjoying myself and eating more than I really should, I contracted a severe case of indigestion and have suffered from acid-stomach and torpid liver for years, trying various remedies and many mineral waters. Some time ago a new mineral water came to Los Angeles which many of my friends recommended. I was skeptical of a mineral water relieving condition as I have sold various mineral waters for years. At last, however, I was persuaded to purchase a case of Coso Volcanic Iron Water, and after using two cases I can say with all sincerity that I am absolutely free from every form of indigestion, my liver functions properly and I am in better health than in twenty years. If my experience will be of value to my many friends and quaintances.

DEMAND EARLY RAIL-RATE RISE

Western Roads Will Present Arguments Today

Increase Case Goes Before Federal Commission

Failure to Earn Fair Return Set Forth in Brief

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—Increased freight rates to be made effective "at the earliest practicable date," are demanded by attorneys for the Western Railways Committee in a brief to be presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission tomorrow in connection with the western freight rate advance case.

"For five years the western railways have failed, under existing rates, to earn the fair return upon their properties contemplated by law," the brief says. "During this period the net earnings of railways in the East and South have steadily increased, but returns to the western roads have failed to show corresponding improvement. The western carriers have no means of recovering past losses, nor do they seek to do so. They have, however, applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for relife, in order that in the future they may maintain an adequate system of transportation under conditions which will be fair to their shippers, passengers, employees, investors and owners, and in the interest of the public at large.

SLIGHT GAIN IN 1925

"The inadequacy of present earnings in the western district has not been denied. There was some slight improvement in 1925, but the gain over the amount needed to provide a return on the investment made in the properties during the preceding year was so light that if this same relative increase were to continue in the future it would take the western railways twelve years to reach the earning power prescribed by law or to equal the earning power of their properties in 1916. At this rate it would be 1937 before the western roads earned a fair return. Meanwhile, in these twelve years, the net earnings of these lines would have fallen $1,000,000,000 short of the fair return to which they are entitled, and there is no way in which this shortage can be recovered.

"In these circumstances there can be no duty resting upon the western lines to give further trial to the present general freight-rate levels. The law does not contemplate that carriers in any rate group shall struggle along year after year with plainly inadequate earnings. The years 1923, 1924 and 1925 show the effect of the present freight-rate level. The rate structure has been tried and found wanting. The western roads should no longer be required to operate under a rate level which, for so long a time, has failed to produce earnings even approaching a fair return.

CONTENTIONS SHOWN

"In the present case, we have shown that it is now necessary to raise slightly the general level of freight rates in the western district, if adequate transportation service is to be maintained. We have shown that the products of agriculture and live stock should reasonably and properly contribute their share, along with the other commodities, of the increased rate.

"We have shown that during the period of depression products of agriculture and live stock were given preferred treatment in the matter of freight rates, and that even under the proposed advances they will still be in a relatively favored situation in respect to other commodities, compared with the period before the war."

Arrested Suspect Shot by Officer While Making Dash for Liberty

Jesus Bargas, 29 years of age, of 1265 Donnell street, Belvedere, was shot in attempting last night to escape from Special Officer Hunter and probably will die. The ball from Hunter's revolver struck Bargas in the abdomen, snipping off his vermiform appendix, it was said by Police Surgeons Goodrich and Manning who operated on him at Receiving Hospital.

Officer Hunter said he had found Bargas in Elysian Park, acting suspiciously, and believing him a hold-up man placed him under arrest. While they were on the way to a telephone station, Hunter said, Bargas broke away and ran, paying no attention to the officer's commands to halt. Hunter then fired. Detective Lieutenants Stevens and Hickey questioned Hunter.

Ten Thousand Angelenos Plan European Trips

According to statistics issued Angelenos are planning to visit Europe this season. Advance reservations already have taken all berths on some steamship lines.

No longer is a foreign tour the exclusive prerogative of the town's leading citizen, but it is available to almost anyone who ordinarily would spend six weeks away from home on a vacation.

The steamship companies credit revised rates for much of this increase. Thousands of bookings are from students and other persons who must economize. The way for their trips has been opened through the recent establishment of tourist third cabin quarters.

His protest was referred to the Public Utilities Committee.

SCIENTIFIC EATING URGED

Nutrition Expert Advocates Establishment of Human Experiment Stations

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The average man eats what he likes, likes what he eats, and lets it go at that until chronic indigestion, high blood pressure or some such ill besets him and he finds himself in the hands of a doctor who gives him a list of dietary commandments and a warning that to disobey them means sending for the undertaker.

The average woman eats what she thinks or has been told will give her a good complexion and an attractive figure. Sometimes she enjoys what she eats; more often she does not.

Neither the average man nor the average woman has a sound, scientific reason for eating this, that, or the other article of food. Both have vague ideas that certain foods are nourishing, but usually those ideas are based on the seeming after effects of eating those foods and frequently they are erroneous. As a rule they are abysmally ignorant as to whether their diet will assure them the maximum in health and physical and mental efficiency. They know more about the gas and oil with which they supply their automobile engines than they do about the fuel they provide for the human engine.

The reason for this, according to H. E. Barnard, a Chicago nutrition expert who edits the official publication of the American Institute of Baking, is that there are no human experiment stations and laboratories.

EXPERIMENT STATIONS

For more than half a century, he says, experiment stations have developed and directed our agricultural activities. In their laboratories new fruits and grains have originated, scientific methods of fertilising soils and cultivating crops have been worked out to increase production, and the breeding and feeding of animals have been developed so successfully that no modern farmer varies his plan of raising and maturing his beef or dairy cattle, his sheep, or hogs, from the methods devised by experts. There is no guess work about the rationing of well-bred live stock. All the science of chemistry has been brought to the solution of the farmers' problems. Every forward step in nutrition has been promptly applied to animal feeding.

But no such scientific control has been applied to the feeding of the human family. Facts which have been recognized as necessary to the operation of a profitable dairy have as yet never been translated into terms applicable to the children and adults of the dairyman's household. That is why, this expert asserts, more than 50 per cent of our school children are undernourished and why even in the country child life is far less well-cared for than the live stock in the farmyard.

This strange and illogical situation is usually explained by the statement that the result of proper feeding of beef cattle or dairy cows is directly reflected in increased income, while the feeding of the family around the dining table is a matter of personal preferences, convenience, and cost.

"If this be true," says Dr. Barnard, "it is high time experiment stations were established for the study of the nutrition of the higher animals known as human beings, and the methods which have been so successful in the barn should be brought into the home.

"What methods can be developed which will make it relatively as easy to choose food for a child in the nursery as for a lamb in a sheepfold? And why is it not just as possible to feed a man for maximum efficiency as it is a race horse? It should be. Theoretically it is. But human beings are not amenable to mass feeding when they have a chance to forage for themselves. And in the infinite variety of social conditions, home and business life, foods and methods of serving, as well as in the varying ages of those who gather around the table, a mass of circumstances arises to make feeding human beings with a full appreciation of the needs of every individual a very difficult thing to do."

PROGRESS MADE

Progress is being made, it is pointed out, as a result of the splendid work done in scores of Home Economics Departments, in modern hospital practice, in children's clinics, and in the educational campaigns that are being undertaken by major food industries. It is recognized, too, that the family physician, the family dentist, and the teacher are three of the most important agencies in disseminating the gospel of good food, but the difficulty of providing them with sound nutritional information can not be overlooked. The chemistry of food, digestion, and assimilation is a very modern science. The teachings of even a few years ago are inadequate today, and unless in the midst of their busy lives doctors, dentists, and teachers can find time to give thought to every new development in physiological and biological chemistry they can not keep step with the newer knowledge of nutrition.

Let these 100,000-Mile Studebakers tell you what Unit-Built means

IT is true that the average owner turns in his car and buys a new one within three years. Nevertheless, Studebaker has refused to build a three-year car. Great numbers of Studebakers with hundred-thousand-mile records attest this fact.

Studebaker's substantial Unit-Built construction not only insures scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation, but it also —insures luxurious comfort.

—insures greater safety as evidenced by many lives saved when staunch Studebaker body work has met the test of severe accidents.
—cuts repair expense to a minimum.
—keeps the car not merely running, but running like new for years beyond expectation.
—maintains resale value.

These long years of quality transportation are possible at Studebaker prices because Studebaker has $100,000,000 concentrated on the economical production of quality cars.

Studebaker's unique facilities

Few motor car "manufacturers" have foundries, forges, etc., to make their own engines—yet one-fifth of the cost of an automobile is in the engine. Even fewer build their own bodies—yet one-third of the cost of a car is in the body.

Not only does Studebaker make all bodies, and all engines used in Studebaker cars, but also all clutches, gear sets, springs, brakes, differentials, steering gears, axles, gray-iron castings and drop forgings. Only Ford in the low-price field and Studebaker in the fine-car field enjoy the benefits of such complete manufacturing facilities.

One-Profit value

These facilities enable Studebaker to manufacture quality cars on a One-Profit basis. They enable Studebaker to eliminate the profits of outside parts and body makers. These savings enable Studebaker to use selected hard wood, alloy steels of extra toughness, plate glass, genuine leather, etc. They permit us to maintain high standards in workmanship as well as materials—all forming the basis for 100,000-mile cars.

Unit-Built construction

Studebaker facilities result, too, in Unit-Built construction—in cars designed and engineered and built as units. The hundreds of parts used in a Studebaker car function together as a unit, resulting in longer life, greater riding comfort and higher resale value. The mileage records listed and hundreds of others testify to standards of manufacture which cannot be equaled with lesser facilities.

By 10 years a Studebaker has carried the Crown Mail between Kimberley and Cannon, South Africa. The car makes the 342-mile round trip in a day. It has been overhauled but once despite its record of more than 400,000 miles of service.

The Studebaker 100,000-Mile Club

Listed below are a few of the Studebaker owners who have driven their cars from 100,000 to more than 300,000 miles. All Studebaker models are included in these records. The list is by no means complete—there are hundreds more throughout the world.

You hear and read of stamina—do you know of greater stamina than this? You listen to talk of dependability—do you judge the dependability of the car you buy from records like these? We have been telling you in Studebaker advertising of the scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation built into every Studebaker. Here is the proof!

A 1919 Studebaker has been used for six years in mail and passenger service between Selwyn and Boulia (Australia), a 130-mile run across waterless stone and rain-washed tracks.

Always kept up-to-date

Because all phases of manufacture are directly under Studebaker control, Studebaker cars are constantly kept up-to-date. We add improvements regardless of the calendar—we do not save them up for spectacular annual announcements which make cars artificially obsolete.

Rock bottom time-payment rates

Leading bankers, recognizing Studebaker stability, have made money available for financing Studebaker cars at low interest. They know Unit-Built cars bought at One-Profit prices and kept constantly up-to-date are exceptionally fine risks. Therefore, no car in the world is able to offer lower time-payment rates than Studebaker.

New low prices

Studebaker recently passed on to purchasers the benefits of One-Profit manufacture in the third price reduction since January 1, 1925—although improvements and refinements have been added which make the present Studebakers the finest ever built. Ask one of the dealers listed below to prove it.

These are the quality cars which may be purchased out of income at the lowest time-payment rates known to the automotive industry.

FLIGHT STARTS IN TWO WEEKS

Wilkins Will Soar Into Area Never Explored

Land Discovery and New Airway Objectives

Success Would Give Great Strategic Value

[Copyright, 1926, by the United States and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 7.—Leading an explorers' rush unprecedented in history, Capt. George H. Wilkins, aviator and explorer, will fly his Fokker monoplane into the unknown Arctic approximately two weeks from today, in an attempt to solve the riddle of the great Arctic ice sea whose center is far more inaccessible than the North Pole itself. New lands for the United States and an airway across the top of the world are his immediate objectives. He will hop off from Point Barrow, northernmost spot in Alaska, several weeks and possibly several months before any of the dozen other Arctic expeditions now preparing. These include the airship expedition of Amundsen and Ellsworth; the airplane venture of Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd, and that of Lieut. Lee Wade, and a mechanical sledge party led by French army officers.

Capt. Wilkins's exploration of this remotest portion of the earth's surface, which is twice as large as Texas, and is now a blank on maps, will be far more dangerous to him but more valuable to the world than re-exploration of the more accessible North Pole, the topography of which has been known for nearly twenty years. He is "fairly certain," according to the American Geographical Society, to find new lands. Such lands as air bases for the United States would have enormous strategic value in international commerce or in war in the future. What Wilkins finds, therefore, may prove to be of as much importance to the twentieth century as was the discovery of the Straits of Magellan to the world of that day.

REPORT BY RADIO

Detailed reports of this epochal attempt will be transmitted by Capt. Wilkins by radio exclusively to the Los Angeles Times and a hundred-odd members of the North American Newspaper Alliance in the largest cities of North America, Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and Australia. To assure rapid transmission of complete details to the twenty-nine countries in which the newspapers of the alliance are published, a special staff of correspondents, radio operators, photographers and their assistants, requiring five sledges and fifty husky dogs, is already en route through the Alaskan mountains to join Capt. Wilkins at Point Barrow. Palmer Hutchinson, chief correspondent on the expedition, will fly with Capt. Wilkins from Fairbanks to Point Barrow, where the final hop-off will be made.

Public interest in the Arctic as an airway of the future has grown with amazing rapidity in the last few years. Franco's success in flying the Atlantic Ocean from Europe to South America has but recently proved the rapid approach of the safe and sure long-distance flight. One flight over the top of the world as long as Franco's will go far to establishing the Arctic as the center of the world, with the great nations of the world lying in a circle around it. If Capt. Wilkins finds islands which can serve as air bases, the United States will acquire what may be the Gibraltar of the future.

LAND FIRST OBJECTIVE

Capt. Wilkins realizes fully the dangers of accidents, such as that which befell the members of the Amundsen-Ellsworth airplane expedition. But he has one advantage over all other explorers who are planning northward trips this year—that he is thoroughly skilled in the Stefansson method of Arctic travel, which he will use in case he finds it necessary to abandon his machine after a forced landing. He has practiced the Stefansson method of living off the ice and therefore will not need to carry food.

"My first objective in the initial flights over the unknown polar area will be to discover land," declares Capt. Wilkins. "As soon as I sight land I shall drop an American flag, claim it for the United States, photograph it from the air and return to Point Barrow. Land may mean that we can establish a flying base much nearer Spitzbergen than Point Barrow, for our later flights."

Capt. Wilkins will fly northward from Point Barrow along the Meridian of 156 west longitude. The polar ice pack between Point Barrow and the North Pole is an unknown region. No explorer has ventured toward its center, although several have touched its edge. Peary, on his sledge trip to the Pole, was on the opposite side of the sphere. So were Amundsen and Ellsworth on their flight last year. It is the purpose of the Wilkins expedition to explore and chart the last unexplored area in the Northern Hemisphere.

is a dangerous condition—it demands continuous antiseptic treatment. A gargle, spray or swab night and morning is not enough.

Carry a bottle of Formamint with you, and at intervals all day, slip one of the pleasant-tasting tablets into your mouth.

To treat sore throat take a tablet every hour or so. To prevent infection, take one about every two hours when exposed to disease, dust or cold. All druggists.

HONOLULU LINER LANDS RECORD LIST

Ex-Senator Hitchcock and Niece of Dawes Among 377 Passengers

The largest list of passengers ever brought from the Hawaiian Islands to this port on the liner Calawaii debarked from that ship late Saturday when the big cabin liner arrived from Honolulu and Island ports. A total of 377 persons were listed on the Calawaii's passenger list, with every first-class accommodation occupied.

EX-SENATOR G.M. HITCHCOCK

Prominent among the passengers returning from Honolulu were former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, who, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Ruth Hitchcock, has been spending several weeks on a vacation trip in the islands. The Senator stated that he is more concerned with the affairs of the Omaha World-Herald, which he owns, than with politics just at this time. He will proceed directly to Omaha from Los Angeles. Senator Hitchcock is a newspaper man of forty-one years' experience.

JEAN DAWES

Another notable passenger on the Calawaii was Miss Jean Dawes, niece of the Vice-President, who is also returning after a vacation in the islands. Miss Dawes is en route to the family home in Evanston, Ill.

A heavy cargo of pineapples and other island produce was also brought by the Calawaii, which will be in port here for a week before sailing again for Honolulu.

SATURATION POINT FOR AUTOS HELD DISTANT

ECONOMIST FINDS 542 PLEASURE CARS FOR 1000 ADULT MALE POPULATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CLEVELAND, March 7.—There were 542 passenger automobiles in use in the country last year for each 1000 adult white males, it was disclosed in a survey made by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist and vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company. The number of these machines in use at the end of 1925 was found to be 16,500,000.

Col. Ayres said there was nothing to indicate an approaching saturation point for passenger automobiles in the United States. The proportion of cars on the foregoing basis ranged from 400 in the Middle Atlantic group of States to nearly 800 in the Pacific States.

LOS ANGELES DECLARED TO BE PARADISE

Dr. Carl Duisberg, Head of German Industries, Highly Praises Southland

Residents of Southern California are living in paradise and do not know it, declares Dr. Carl Duisberg of Leverkusen bei Koln, Germany, a guest yesterday at the Ambassador. And, the doctor adds, California's beauty and prosperity are assured and permanent as compared with Florida, which he has just left.

Dr. Duisberg, president of the German Association of Industries, is more than enthusiastic over Los Angeles.

"Florida is just Monte Carlo transplanted to another continent," he declared last night. "It is all speculation—what you call boom. The only difference between Florida and the famous European gambling-place is that in Monte Carlo you place your money on a number and know in a few moments if you win or lose. In Florida you place money on territory, and sometimes it takes years to determine the result of the gamble."

Dr. Duisberg, who, in addition to being head of the Association of German Industries, is one of the leaders in the German chemical industry, is confident that Germany will "come out on top."

"We need an outlet for our products. You of America, you who are living here in paradise, you who have plenty of money and land, must help us. You must lower your tariffs to permit us to export our finished products. Unless you do, we cannot buy your raw products, and unless we can purchase outside Germany we must continue with more than 2,000,000 unemployed, as we are today. We have twenty millions too many people—hard working, honest people who could till your surplus acres and work in your industries, if you would let down the bars to them. Oh, there are so many ways in which you of America could help us!"

Dr. Duisberg, who is accompanied by his wife and her companion, is not a stranger to Los Angeles. "I was here in 1908," he said. "There is a wonderful change—I did not know your beautiful city when I returned. I only wish that it were possible for us to remain here the rest of my life. You live in paradise and do not know it—especially when we compare it with the manner and life of millions of Germans."

Ubiquitous Jane Again Disturbs Marital Peace

Jane Doe, whose affairs demand more of the attention of the courts than those of any other one woman, is making trouble again.

Comes now Mrs. Marie Rose Fenole to submit and complain in a formal document filed with the court that that widely known litigant has filched the love of her husband, Sebastian Fenole, who, under the name of Frank Sebastian, is fairly well known himself in the role of cafe man.

Mrs. Fenole has filed suit for separate maintenance against her husband, wherein she names Jane Doe as corespondent. She reclared that Sebastian and Jane have been misconducting themselves over the period between November 18, 1924, and the 1st inst.

Mrs. Fenole demands alimony of $300 a month.

RADIO DISTANCE DATA COMPILED

Tests Enable Listeners-in to Do Own Forecasting

Troublesome Air Reception Puzzles Solved

Stabilized Temperature Gives Best Results

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—Distance radio reception forecasts not only are considered possible, but data obtained in unofficial tests made by a Chicago experimenter indicate that each listener, with a little study, can be his own forecaster.

Numerous factors were taken into consideration in making the forecasts. Prevailing weather conditions played a large part, with the temperature being given the most thought. Presence of the aurora borealis also was noted, and to it was attributed some of the poor receptions.

One feature was the fact that extreme cold seemed to have the opposite effect on reception than has been the general belief. Zero weather with clear skies developed the poorest nights. On cloudy, rainy or snowy nights conditions were reversed, with signals stronger and fading minor. Local static, however, was somewhat heavier but not of such character as to be disagreeable.

The best reception periods were noted as coming with stabilized temperature. Either a falling or a rising thermometer affected signals to such an extent that at times difficulty was had in logging an average number of stations. Predictions of reception based upon the temperature nearly always could be relied upon.

Static predictions also were based largely on the same factors. Here it was noted that a steady temperature seemed to hold down this type of interference. The same was true of fading, which caused signals to come and go at regular intervals. "Blanketing," a phenomenon, that tends to smother signals from all directions, appeared to be likewise governed. Whenever the northern lights were present, they tended to hold back signals, demonstrating that they must be given consideration.

Approaching and prevailing storms did not have the effect heretofore considered a detriment to good reception.

The research tended to bear out a statement by J. C. Jensen of Nebraska Wesleyan University, that "signal strength is greatest with settled weather conditions." It also recalled comment made by a Weather Bureau official at Washington more than a year ago, in which he said that such predictions were practicable to a certain extent.

In the tests the first prediction was made for the night of November 30, 1925, and the forecasts were continued until February 8 last. The predictions were made only weekly and were intended for Chicago's silent nights, which come each Monday. Of the twelve forecasts made in this period, eight were correct and four were not. Three of the latter were for nights with the temperature at zero or below, when the predicted good reception periods did not materialize.

FIGHTS FINE AS TOUT FOR BOOTLEGGER

Garage Owner Appeals When Sentenced on Charge That He Tipped Off Thirsty

Charged with providing prospective customers of liquor with the name and telephone number of a bootlegger, Warren Harendeen, a garage owner, was found guilty by Municipal Judge Turney and fined $150 or ordered to serve thirty days in the City Jail.

The charge, the first of its kind to be filed in the new Municipal Court, was brought by Detective Lieutenant Lucas after officers masquerading as thirsty tipplers had been put in touch with a bootlegger. According to testimony before Judge Turney, officers went into Harendeen's garage at Beverly Boulevard and Alexandria street and asked to be put in touch with a bootlegger. Harendeen, they stated, gave them a phone number and they succeeded in buying several cases of Scotch. They arrested both Harendeen and the bootlegger.

Harendeen took the witness stand in his own defense. He testified that the officers came into the garage and asked help in finding a man who parked his car in the garage under the name of Hathaway. He stated he looked in his files, found the number and gave it to them but he said he did not know that the man known as Hathaway was a bootlegger.

A notice of apeal from the conviction was filed by Charles Sholz, attorney for Harendeen.

Wife's Suit for Divorce Names Another Woman

Charges that Mason T. McKinstry, former business man of Denver, violated his marriage vows, are made by Mrs. Pauline McKinstry in a suit for divorce filed in the Superior Court here. Mrs. McKinstry named Mrs. Helen Snogon as co-respondent.

The complaint recites that the McKinstrys were married in Denver, where they are widely known, on March 25, 1918, and separated last February 18. Mrs. McKinstry charges that the conduct of which she complained, occurred between last September 30 and the 4th inst. Her complaint was filed by Attorneys Franklin and Spray. She demanded alimony of $250 a month.

INCOME TAX FORMS

FOR THE CONVENIENCE of our patrons and the public we have reproduced in facsimile and printed an ample supply of Form 1040 (for net incomes over $5,000).

The SECURITY form meets the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1926. It takes the place of both the form in black ink, and the amending form in red ink: This makes it simpler and easier to follow and to fill out.

We have also a supply of the Form 1040A for net incomes below $5,000, and if you want the regular government form 1040, we have a supply of them.

FREE, of course. The time is short, the official supply of blanks is limited; the double blank offered by the government is difficult and complicated, so we have prepared these special forms to facilitate the preparation and filing of Income Tax Returns, which must be in by March 15.

MUSCLE SHOALS DECISION TODAY

Senate Will Dispose of Bid Resolution First

Other Important Questions Up This Week

Dry Problems Promise to Ignite Fireworks

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Final action on the resolution providing the appointment of a Congressional committee to receive bids for Muscle Shoals is to be taken tomorrow by the Senate. The leading long and short-haul railroad bill will follow that on the calendar and then the Italian debt settlement will be called up.

While the Senate is engaged with these major questions, the House will take up another of the annual appropriation bills, but will devote Wednesday to consideration of miscellaneous bills on the calendar, most of them private claims and bridge measures.

Both the Senate and House Agriculture Committees will continue hearings during the week on farm relief measures, the Senate committee considering the House cooperative marketing bill and the House committee continuing hearings on the Dickinson export surplus measure.

Prohibition is expected to furnish more fireworks in the House as the Ways and Means Committee goes forward with consideration of the administration bill to create a separate bureau of prohibition in the Treasury. The Senate Finance Committee probably will report action before taking up this measure, although a similar bill has been introduced in the Senate.

Final decisions by the Senate Elections Committee in two election contests are expected this week. The subcommittee considering the Black-Brookhart contest will resume inspection tomorrow of the contested ballots in that case while the subcommittee on the Johnson-Schall contest from Minnesota expects to conclude hearings tomorrow with a view to making a report to the entire committee before the end of the week.

WINES HELD TO BE NECESSITY

Breslau Court Rules Cafe Owner Must Cut Price in Half

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, March 7.—Ruling that wines and liquors are a "justifiable necessity," the Breslau Court of Appeals has reversed a decision of a lower court, which refused to fine the owner of a fashionable cafe for overcharging a customer for liquors served during a meal.

The lower court had held that liquors were a luxury. The customer appealed, however, and the cafe proprietor was fined 50 marks and ordered to slash his prices 50 per cent.

Plans Drafted to Check Flow of Liquor Here

Plans for the tightening of prohibition enforcement both from sea and the Mexican and Canadian borders, as outlined at a meeting of Coast Guard, customs and prohibition-enforcement officials conducted in San Francisco Saturday, have been forwarded to Prohibition Director Andrews at Washington, according to Col. R. E. Frith, director in charge of enforcement in this area. Those attending the San Francisco meeting would not divulge the nature of the plans or recommendations. Col. Frith returned to his home at Monrovia yesterday.

INNOVATION IN NEW CRUISERS

Navy Engineers Plan Radical Change in Design

Boiler Pressure of Post-War Vessels Terrific

Alternative Bids Asked on New Construction

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 7—The first two 10,000-ton post-treaty cruisers to be built for the United States, the Salt Lake City and the Pensacola, may represent as radical a departure in marine engineering practice as was the adoption of electric drive for all recent battleships and for the airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

As originally designed by the Navy Department, the ships would be propelled by geared turbines, which, to save engine weight, would be driven by steam under a 700-pound pressure as compared to 300 or less now generally used afloat by all nations.

The increase in pressure carries with it the necessity of redesigning boilers, all steam lines, packing glands and other parts of the engine plant that must bear the greatly increased strain.

Final decision depends on the success of prospective bidders for construction of the Salt Lake City, who are preparing to submit alternative bids based on normal-pressure steam plants of their own design. The opening of bids for the ship was delayed to permit the various shipbuilding companies more time to complete these alternative designs.

ITALY TO CONCENTRATE ON LIGHTER NAVY SHIPS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ROME, March 7.—Italy's naval program foresees no increase in the fleet, but modernization through the replacement of its many obsolete units with the more modern types of smaller craft.

The present economic state does not allow Italy to construct the superdreadnaughts permitted it under the terms of the Washington naval agreement. Therefore, it must concentrate on lighter vessels. But when conditions permit, Italy intends to regain its naval power in the Mediterranean.

The Ministry of Marine is inclined toward the theory that the suppression of submarines would give large fleets more domination of the seas and relegate the weaker navies to still weaker positions.

These are the most important points emphasized in an interview with Admiral Sirianni, Undersecretary of State for the Navy. Admiral Sirianni's declarations are most important in view of the polemics of the Fascist press, demanding the construction of a fleet to dominate the Mediterranean. The protection of vital interests of defense, and not domination, is back of the Italian naval plans, the interview indicates.

WIFE DRIVES ON AS CRASH KILLS MATE

Pasadenan Meets Death in Accident Causing Injury to Second Occupant

While his wife, in a car a few feet ahead, rode on, oblivious of the accident, a car driven by Fred J. Brown of Pasadena turned over yesterday between Perris and Riverside, killing Brown and injuring seriously George Elder of Los Angeles. Mrs. Brown learned of her husband's death only when she reached Los Angeles, though the car in which she was riding was but twenty feet away at the time.

Brown's car skidded on wet pavement, ran into the ditch and turned completely over, pinning him beneath and crushing out his life almost instantly. Elder suffered a possible fracture of the hip and many cuts and bruises. The accident took place about half a mile west of Perris.

Brown's body was taken to a Riverside undertaker's and Elder was placed in the Riverside Community Hospital.

Police were investigating last night a mysterious automobile accident, which may cost the life of Manuel De la Fuenta of 916 Stanford avenue, who suffered a basal skull fracture. According to A. Greenspan of 2823 Allesandro street, Fuenta either fell or was thrown from a large truck at San Pedro and Twenty-sixth streets. The truck went on without stopping, leaving Fuenta lying in the street. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital and transferred to General Hospital.

Mike Griff of 1656½ Temple street was arrested, charged with possessing and transporting liquor, after an automobile accident in which the car he was driving was involved. Mrs. Ruth Sweet, 39 years of age, of 1497 Allison street, suffered a possible fracture of the hip, cuts and bruises in the accident. She was a passenger, police said, in Griff's car. The other car in the collision was that of Nelson Sheppard, 2507 Cloverdale avenue. The accident took place at Elysian Park Drive and Broadway. It was investigated by Officers Irwin and Roscoe.

WORTHINGTON'S WILL DEFENDED

"Wolf's" Lawyer Stands Pat on Document

Disputes Statements of Miss Alice

Maintains Estate Will Exceed Three Million Dollars

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 7.—By means of a Chinese-grass envelope crammed with weird documents in many languages, Attorney Robert L. Cohan today attempted to refute Alice Worthington's statements that John Worthington, the "Wolf of La Salle street," had—

First—Left no will whatsoever disposing of his property.

Second—That any asserted will Cohan might hold is fraudulent.

Third—That the estate instead of totaling $3,500,000, as Cohan claimed, amounts to only $250,000, if that.

Fourth—That Cohan would not receive $250,000 from the estate, but that she, Alice, will inherit alone whatever there is left.

Attorney Cohan produced a mass of papers of a strange character. They purported to be revocations of wills, blank checks to be filled out in half a dozen European languages on half a dozen European banks, confidential correspondence before and after the "Wolf" was sent to the Atlanta prison where he died last Tuesday, the will itself, and bank statements from abroad showing billions upon billions of German and Polish marks, Italian lire and Austrian kronen on deposit to the credit of John Whitehouse Worthington.

COHAN'S EXPLANATION

And this is the explanation the confidence man's solicitor gave of the famous will—why it was drawn up, why there were no witnesses to it, and why it had not been probated:

"At about 6 a.m., October 7, 1925," said Cohan, "Worthington reached Chicago. He called me at once. I spent all that day with him at the Jackson Park Tavern, where he lay sick. During the day he piled on his bed more than $500,000 in bonds, stocks, promissory notes and other negotiable paper.

"Some time before his arrest the following day, the 8th, he got rid of this stuff. Where it went I do not know. I believe he gave it to his daughter, Alice, who now seems to have been advised to break with me in the matter of settling her father's estate.

"That afternoon Worthington said he knew he was dying and wanted to make a will. He dictated what he wanted and I took notes. I could not call a witness because I feared the news he was in town would leak out and he'd be arrested immediately.

"I took the notes to my office, typed them, and returned to the tavern. Worthington absolutely declined to have any witnesses to his signature. He signed the will and I now have it.

NOTIFY MARSHAL

"The next day I went before Federal Judge Wilkerson and asked for a stay, because of my client's illness. He refused and I went to the Circuit Court of Appeals, Judges Aschuler, Page and Evans. Before they would listen to me they asked me where Worthington was. I told them and they at once notified the marshal who went out and arrested him and had him brought to the Federal Building on a stretcher.

"I asked Worthington of what his estate consisted, after he signed his will and he told me Alice had the inventory. I have never seen this inventory, and I believe the estate will amount to more than $3,500,000.

"I don't know what my next step will be as to probating the will. I imagine I'll wait for Miss Worthington to act. But make no mistake; I have a valid will and that is the one that will settle the estate."

Among the documents Cohan holds is a formal revocation of all previous wills and codicils. It is dated Los Angeles, October 25, 1924.

DAUGHTER DENIES THAT "WOLF" LEFT MILLIONS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—Alice Worthington, daughter of John W. Worthington, the "Wolf of La Salle street," who died in the Federal prison at Atlanta last Tuesday, told the Chicago Tribune, that reports of her father leaving a $3,000,000 estate were untrue.

She said she had the only will her father made and that she is given the entire estate, which she said, amounted to about $250,000. She added that she will contest any other will produced.

At the time Worthington surrendered here last fall and was started for prison, there were reports that he had made a will disposing of an estate of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. When he died his attorney here reported there was such a will and that he was bequeathed $250,000 of the estate.

Hashimoto was booked on suspicion of receiving stolen property and Lowe on suspicion of burglary. According to Lieut. Gentry, C. E. Russell, a prisoner in the County Jail on a liquor charge, is involved also in the crime.

CHEVROLET

—And Now

Tax Reduction Allowed

Effective at once, the delivered price of all Chevrolet models is reduced. Chevrolet buyers will be given the benefit of the recent tax reduction though it does not become officially operative until March 29. Thus for the third time since the first of this year Chevrolet emphasizes its supremacy in dollar for dollar value.

First—Reduced Prices

Early in January Chevrolet announced sweeping price reductions.

Then—The Improved Chevrolet

Shortly thereafter the improved Chevrolet was announced at these reduced prices. Instantly it met with such an increase in popularity that it became necessary to break all previous production records for January and February.

And Now—A Further Saving

Although the reduction in automobile taxes does not become officially effective for some time, the full amount of this reduction is now passed on to Chevrolet buyers. Thus Chevrolet again emphasizes that principle of value on which it has built the greatest success ever attained by any manufacturer of modern gear shift automobiles. Come in! See the improved Chevrolet! One ride will be a revelation.

TWO YOUTHS ARRESTED IN GIRL CHARGE

Woman Complains Pair Attempted Attack After She Accepted Ride

Following a complaint made by Mrs. F. McCoy of 1444 East Forty-seventh street, that she had been attacked by two young men after she had accepted a ride in their car, William Anderson, 18 years of age, of 1166 East Fifty-eighth Drive, and Jacob Rasuber, 20, of 972 East Forty-second street, were arrested yesterday and booked at the City Jail on charges of disturbing the peace.

Mrs. McCoy was picked up by Officer Bricker at Sixty-seventh street and South Park avenue early in the morning. She told him, he reported, that she had asked the two young men to take her to the Seventh-seventh-street Police Station where she wished to make a report of stolen property. Instead, she stated, they drove her to One Hundredth street, where they attempted to attack her. She fought off their advances, she said, and they drove her back to Sixty-seventh street and let her out. She obtained the license number of the car which she gave to Officer Bricker.

Later Bricker, tracing the number, found that the car had been rented at 618 South Flower street. Hurrying to this address he arrived in time to arrest the youths as they drove in. Both Anderson and Rasuber deny that they forced their attentions upon Mrs. McCoy.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 7. There is one paved highway in Texas on which there is no speed limit. Such signs as "Flivvers, do your best!" and, "Boys, let the girls drive," erected by a local auto-repair shop, greet the motorist at intervals for thirty-five miles.

The road is not a State highway, but a private one, built by local sportsmen. It leads to Medina Lake, a hunting and fishing resort, in the hills west of here. A charge is made against every car as it enters and leaves the vicinity of the lake.

COTTON OFF ON FLOOD OF LIQUIDATION

Market Breaks Sharply During Heavy Selling of Fresh Hedge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 7. — The cotton market broke sharply during the week on the heavy liquidation and a good deal of fresh southern hedge selling. It was influenced to a great extent by the crash in the stock market, unsettling general trade sentiment. The heavy decline in wheat was also an important factor.

These events of an entirely unexpected character brought out larger offerings of spot cotton on the southern markets than the recent moderate demand from domestic trade interests and foreign spinners could absorb. This produced the fresh hedge selling of contracts that had been absent to a large extent in recent months. Pressure from these sources, together with the throwing over of speculative holdings of Wall street and southern commission houses brought about a maximum decline from last Saturday's closing of about 35 to 39 points for the old crop months and about 30 to 35 for the new.

This decline was equivalent to about $1.75 to $1.95 a bale on the old crop months and about $1.50 to $1.75 on the new. It brought prices for old crop months and new below the previous low record quotations reached in the similar period of market weakness of last December by about 39 points for March, 36 for May, 31 for July and 39 for October of new crop. March of the old crop having then sold at 19.34 cents; May, 18.28; July, 18 cents and October, 17.57 cents.

Present prices being the lowest for the last five years encouraged some new trade buying after the spot markets had suffered their bad break Wednesday morning, and that demand with heavy profit-taking by local trade and southern shorts has since brought about a fairly good rally.

Events over the past fortnight, however, have shaken confidence in the trade to such an extent the market is now in a very irregular and uncertain position, the long-awaited boom in the drygoods trade here and abroad that so many had forecasted at the close of December that would be developing long before this time, having thus far failed to put in an appearance. This, with the stock market's collapse this week and the near approach of the planting season for the new crop with no indications as yet of any important reduction in acreage from last year's record-breaking area of over 46,400,000 acres in the advices obtained thus far from various States in the cotton belt, has highly discouraged the few remaining Wall street and southern bulls that have been holding onto their contracts in the old crop months of March, May and July over the dullness of the last two or three months on the market.

The present time, therefore, finds the smallest speculative interest outstanding in cotton contracts for years past. This places the market in a strong speculative position for good rallies against the shorts, especially if any bad weather develops in the cotton belt during the balance of this month or April, to give the new crop planting a late and bad start, to prevent another large crop.

OIL AND MINING

PLAN NEW TEST AT MONTEBELLO

Whiston Oil Company Will Drill Second Well

Hopes Held for Production in First Hole

Two Sands Give Promise of Eventual Success

The H. L. Whiston Oil Company, which has been drilling at the west end of the Montebello Hills for more than a year, is preparing to drill a second hole on its Bicknell property, it was reported yesterday by H. L. Whiston, president and general manager. The new hole will be put down to test two productive formations penetrated by Bicknell No. 1 at 3500 feet and 4300 feet.

The Bicknell No. 1 is preparing to make a production test at 3550 feet, where it is now perforating casing. This well was drilled to a total depth of 5002 feet, but failed to get a water shut-off at 4610 feet, where the six-inch pipe was set.

A water shut-off was effected at 4340 feet where the eight-inch casing was set and at 3500 feet, where the eleven-inch was set, so that Mr. Whiston thinks there is a good prospect of getting some production at least, provided he is perforating the pipe in the right place. After several production tests at 4610 feet, the well was plugged back to its present bottom of 4300 feet and bridged at 3710 feet.

In drilling the second well, Mr. Whiston intends to core carefully to determine conclusively the absence or presence of the 2500-foot zone from which the Standard is producing farther east. Previous tests make it unlikely that this zone extends to the Bicknell property, it is said, but Whiston is passing up no chances.

At 3500 feet, where Bicknell No. 1 had good showings, a test will be made, and if this results in commercial production, No. 2 will be completed at that point. In any event Mr. Whiston hopes to get sufficient information on formations at 3500 feet to help out in making a producer of the No. 1. If no production is found at 3500 feet in No. 2 it will be drilled on down to 4300 feet, where sufficient sand has been found, it is asserted, to make a producing well.

In the meantime Mr. Whiston will continue work on the No. 1 well. If the present test at 3550 feet fails, the 4300-foot formation will be tested. The Whiston Oil Company has 480 acres in that district.

The Superior Oil Company's Mans No. 1 well, located a short distance east of the Bicknell, is preparing to make another test at 3462 feet. Production in this well is rendered practically certain by the St. Helens Petroleum Company's success at the same depth in its Monterey No. 16, offsetting it on the north, which is producing 325 barrels of 22-deg. gravity oil after several months of production.

VENTURA FIELD SPREADING

Seven Companies in Lively Drilling Campaign; Proven Area Widens as Good Sands Located

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

This week will see seven companies drilling for oil in the Ventura-avenue field at Ventura. One of these companies expects to have ten or eleven strings of tools working within the next thirty days, so it looks like a busy summer for the avenue field.

The Shell company has five wells drilling now and is making preparations to start its Gosnell No. 22, Taylor No. 12, Taylor No. 13, Edison No. 7 and Edison No. 8.

The Petroleum Securities Company is starting its Orton No. 1, in the river bottom, presumably on the strength of showings in its Willetts No. 1, which should soon be in the old shallow zone.

Far to the north, on the Louis Hartman lease, the Bolsa Chica Oil Company, drilling its Hartman No. 1, is reported to have hit the shallow sand at about 2000 feet. The other day this well got away temporarily and blew mud and oil all over the derrick, the fluid flowing down almost to the boulevard.

It is assumed by operators that the Bolsa Chica project is going to make a well. If it doesn't find the deep zone it can bring the well in from about its present depth. If the Petroleum Securities Company's Willett No. 1 should make a well the field would then have a spread of practically one mile in width. Should the Associated Oil Company make a producer out of its Lloyd No. 101, far over on the east side of the field, the proven area would then be about three miles long.

Such an area as this, which is not only possible, but highly probable, would make the Ventura-avenue field take on much the same economic importance as the Signal Hill field. It is not unlikely that Ventura will be ultimately one of the most productive oil fields in the State.

The Lloyd No. 101, three-quarters of a mile east of the present outpost producer in the avenue field, is in the third deepest sand. It has passed a satisfactory water shutoff test and is now drilling ahead to completion. The Associated wants to go on down 300 feet or so before bringing the well in, if gas does not become too troublesome.

The Associated's Lloyd No. 20 has reached completion depth, being 5749 feet deep—but the oil string, composed of about 1200 feet of screen pipe, became frozen in the hole, 700 feet off bottom, while the crew was setting it the other day, and just now the crew is circulating to loosen the pipe. If nothing else can be done with it the drillers will pull the pipe out and bring the well in barefooted, it is reported. It is not unlikely that the No. 20 will be producing oil within the next two or three days. It will be remembered that the Lloyd No. 21, a sister well, had to be brought in barefooted, many weeks ago, and is still producing at a satisfactory rate.

The Associated Lloyd No. 11, farthest north well on the company's Lloyd lease, is in the second sand, having a nice body of it, and is considered a sure shot for a good well.

The Milham Exploration Company, drilling on its big lease east of the Associated's Lloyd lease, twisted off the drill stem in its Sexton No. 1 a few days ago, and is now engaged in fishing it out. Officials think that the task will be cleared up in a day or two. The fish is down 3240 feet.

WEST PENN HAS LARGE OIL LEASE

Foxen Canyon Ranch of 4500 Acres Reported as Under Control

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, March 7.—A. M. Shields has leased 4500 acres of his Foxen Canyon ranch to the West Penn Producing Company, according to field reports. C. L. Nickle, a former employee of the Shell Company of California, is president of West Penn, but the operations are said to have no Shell affiliations. Foxen Canyon is southeast of the Cat Canyon field a short distance, being frequently used as a cut-off from the field to Los Alimos.

The J. F. Nugent Oil and Gas Company is trying for a water shut-off in its second test on the Catlin ranch between Carpinteria and the ocean, hole being now 4200 feet deep. The first hole was lost at 3760 feet just as the rotary went into a sand that showed good saturation. The No. 2 has encouraging showings if the water can be handled.

The Channel Oil and Development Company, drilling on the Pinkham property several miles northeast of Santa Barbara, is trying to recover 3000 feet of casing that dropped, bottom of the hole being 4810 feet. This test well, under way three years, has been carried along by contributions from neighbors of Mr. Pinkham and some outsiders, Mr. Pinkham having been determined to go to his limit to develop production.

At Summerland the Summerland Oil Company (George F. Becker,) is drilling at about 1700 feet. Not having secured production at the depth of the ocean wells, it is now expected at about 2000 feet, the location being above tidewater. Recent heavy tides damaged several of the archored derricks and pumping rigs.

LEASE IN DEVIL'S DEN TAKEN BY PIERCE OIL

The Pierce Petroleum Company, a San Francisco corporation with production in the Kern River field, headed by Herman Layer, has leased 160 acres in Sec. 23, 25-15, adjoining the Devil's Den Products Company's holdings. The lease, it is reported, carries a clause stipulating that ten wells shall be drilled whenever crude oil minimum quotations are $1 and above.

Deal Pends for Superior Group in Vulture Area

Summarizing the recent activities in Vulture district, Maricopa county, Arizona, H. C. Reedall writes that the fourth mining company to enter the field in that section during the last sixty days is now being formed to take over the Superior group of claims in close proximity to the Washington mine, an ancient wealth producer now being rejuvenated by the Tonopah Belmont Development Company of Tonopah, Nev.

The new company is in process of organization at Superior by Bert Carter and his associates. On the Superior group, when shaft-sinking was begun, a promising ledge of silver bromides, containing galena, was uncovered, and work will probably be concentrated at that point when the company begins active operations.

A company is being organized for the operation of the Victory group, recently acquired by C. E. Gilman of San Francisco for himself and associates, and development work is to start at once.

This group is located between the Knoucher mine of the Reorganized Belcher Divide Mining Company and the old Washington; and east of the Superior group.

Clyde A. Heller of New York is president of the Tonopah Development Company and has been directing operations at its Washington mine.

Activity Seen as Reviving in Kern District

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, March 7.—Reports from the various oil fields of Kern county indicate a revival of development work. Eight wells were spudded in last week in local fields.

In the Midway field the North American Oil Consolidated began drilling three new holes on Sec. 30, 21-24. They are the No. 30, No. 34 and No. 36.

In the Sunset field the Obispo Oil Company has spudded in its No. 11 on Sec. 32, 12-23. At McKittrick the Cymric Oil Company has a crew of drillers at work on its No. 4 hole on Sec. 26, 29-21.

The Shell Company has started its first well on the Vedder lease on the Poso Creek front. Another prospect well is the No. 2 well of Robert Barry on Section 35, 26-18 in the northwestern part of Kern county.

Joseph Stadler has begun work on his No. 1 well south of Maricopa, on Sec. 12, 11-23.

MARICOPA FIELD EXPANDS

New Producing Zone Added by 1000-Barrel Completion of Standard Oil Company on Raas Lease

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MARICOPA, March 7.—The Maricopa field was extended three-quarters of a mile southeast, yesterday, and the district gained a new producing zone, when the Standard Oil Company brought in its Raas No. 2 well, with a flow rated at from 800 to 1000 barrels per day, gravity test being between 27 and 28 deg.

This well is located on Section 10, 11-23, a mile south-northeast of the E. G. Lewis No. 7 on the same section, which was drilled to 4800 feet depth called for in the contract. At that time oil men generally expressed the opinion that the dip in the structure warranted a deeper test.

Oil operators in this district are considerably excited over the showing made by the new well, and it is not unlikely that many new wells will be drilled to the new zone during the coming summer.

This well is located on Section 10, 11-23, a mile south-east of the Transport Oil Company's Bush No. 1, which came in more than two years ago, gushing 3000 barrels per day. The Raas No. 2 was completed at 5162 feet, which is 172 feet deeper than completion point in the Raas No. 1, which yielded an initial output of twenty barrels a day.

This well is about 500 feet

New Outfit to Drill Ventura Avenue Lease

Within the next two weeks the Ventura-avenue field at Ventura is to see the drill started by an entirely new organization representing substantial interests in Los Angeles.

G. J. Magenheimer and associates have obtained a lease on 170 acres of the Hartman Ranch Company's property, lying just north of the Associated Oil Company Louie Hartman lease on the north dip of the field.

The new organization has purchased a new Hild differential-drive electric rig, and will start the drill as soon as the equipment can be installed, according to field reports.

C. C. Altman, petroleum engineer of this city, is to be in charge of operations. He is now in charge of field operations for the Ridge Oil Company at McKittrick.

OPENS HEADQUARTERS

Hercules Mining Company to Have Office in South Pasadena

The California Hercules Mining Company, which was organized in this State last year to operate thirty-two unpatented lode claims on the south fork of Lytle Creek Canyon, twenty-seven miles northwest of San Bernardin, has established headquarters at No. 1138 Mission street, South Pasadena.

The annual meeting of the company was held last week. Theodore Karcher is president; Robert Graver, vice-president; Frank K. Robertson, secretary. The company is undertaking to develop ores containing gold, silver, copper and lead, in the San Bernardino range.

TEST STILL DRY

Milham Playa Del Rey Hole Down 3055 Feet Without Showings

The Milham Exploration Company, which is drilling its second wildcat hole at Playa Del Rey, is already down 3055 feet, according to official reports. No showings have been found, it is said.

The company's Conroy No. 1 at Saugus is down 3504 feet, without showings, and its Howard Sisson No. 1, at Buttonwillow, is down 1200 feet, without showings. This is a correlation test hole, and will likely not go deeper than 2500 feet.

The Sexton No. 1 at Ventura is fishing for drill pipe at 3240 feet, having had showings of gas.

PLANNING CHAMBER BANQUET

Petroleum Group Will Hold Reunion

ALAN E. MORPHY W. R. GUIBERSON

Mr. Morphy, who is secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Gasoline Company, has been chosen to serve as toastmaster at the banquet.

The entertainment committee has not completed its plans for the evening, but is arranging to get a number of oil men of national prominence for short addresses. There will be musical numbers in wide variety, including solos, quartets and dancing acts. Community singing will be a feature.

Edwin Higgins, secretary of the Chamber of Mines and Oil, stated yesterday that final notices concerning the annual get-together of the oil and mining men, together with reservation blanks, will be mailed the 15th inst.

United Western Plans to Install Electric Power

Electric power for the property of the United Western Mining Company at Oatman, Ariz., is soon to be installed, preparatory to the opening up of the big ledge known to exist 250 feet from the bottom of the 722-foot working shaft, according to word received from W. K. Ridenour, president of the organization.

The big sump at the bottom of the shaft is practically completed and heavy duty pumps are being installed to take care of the large volume of water which, it is expected, will be encountered when the cross-cut enters the vein. The sump has been made of sufficient size to meet the excess water demands once the desired connection is made and the flow starts.

The cross-cutting from the bottom of the shaft to the ledge will be done under the direction of Contractor "Slasher" Harrison, who will rush the work to its objective, when drifts will be run on the ore body.

Well of Midway Northern Set to Work as Pumper

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MARICOPA, March 7.—The Midway Northern Oil Company on Section 32, 12-23, a quarter-mile north of the Obispo Oil Company's No. 6, yesterday placed its No. 12 well on the pump, having completed it at 3760 feet with a six-inch hole. It is making 250 barrels of 27.4-deg. gravity oil daily.

This well was not drilled for brown shale production but went after the sand from which production has been derived for the past fifteen years. The Julian Petroleum Corporation has the brown shale rights of the Midway Northern under lease, and has its first well standing cemented with a twelve-inch casing set at about 2000 feet.

Supt. E. H. Grubbs of the Midway Northern expresses himself as pleased with the new well, and expects to spud in another one in about thirty days.

Drilling Cost Averages High for Wildcats

The cost of drilling wildcat wells in California averages $20 per foot, according to estimates made by the State Mining Bureau. In the last eleven years, according to its figures, 1070 wildcat holes have been drilled in this State, making a total of 2,966,740 feet of drilling.

The bureau estimates that the average cost of these holes was $55,000, although several deep wildcat holes are reported to have cost as much as $500,000 each. Numerous holes from 4000 to 5000 feet deep have cost between $150,000 and $200,000 each, it is asserted.

HUNTINGTON BEACH RACE FOR OIL HOT

Practically Entire Town Taken Up With Exception of Business District

Practically the entire town of Huntington Beach, with the exception of the business district, is now under lease to various oil companies, ranging from the Standard Oil Company on down to brand new syndicates formed for the sole purpose of drilling townlots in that town, filed reports indicate. This is the result of a leasing campaign extending over the last two months in which at least fifty companies and individuals have participated.

The Standard Oil Company is the largest single leaser in the city of Huntington Beach, but the A. J. Delaney interests, King C. Gillette, the Superior Oil Company, and several others have acquired large blocks of lots. Besides these there are innumerable single-lot leases which are being held for exploitation when the time is ripe.

In the meantime the battle between the restriction and antirestriction forces at Huntington Beach rages with considerable vigor. The knows fact that there is oil under the town, and that large areas of the surface overlying the oil are not being used for any other purpose, is reported to have caused considerable dissatisfaction among property owners.

The precedent set by Los Cerritos at Long Beach which is now reaping the benefits of an intensive oil development campaign was the spur which started the present campaign to remove the restrictions that prevent drilling in the area which many geologists believe is likely to be one of the most productive parts of the Huntington Beach field.

PLAN MODERN ARMY

Mexico to Adopt Best of Other Nations' Military Teachings

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—Two Italian army officers, Lieut.-Col. Guiseppe Volpi and Maj. Mario Lippi, have arrived here and have presented their official respects to Gen. Joaquin Fernando J. Aguilar, former Mexican artillery attache in Rome. The two officers will be attached to the Mexican Military Academy as instructors.

Several Mexican officers, who have been completing their studies in European military institutions, are expected to return before the opening of the academy in April. They will be used later as instructors here, and in assisting the reorganization of the Mexican army along the most modern lines.

GASOLINE RESERVES DECREASE

Decline for Year Ended January 31 Announced to be 1,495,120 Barrels

It will interest the average automobile owner to know that the reserve supply of gasoline in California decreased 1,495,120 barrels in one year. On January 31, 1925, the gasoline stocks on hand in this State amounted to 11,747,056 barrels, and on the same date this year the gasoline reserve amounted to 10,252,936 barrels.

It might be roundly estimated that there are on hand about 420 gallons of reserve gas for every motor vehicle in the State, if other gasoline-consuming agencies are eliminated from the market. It is considered highly probable by operators and marketers, that the production of gasoline in California this year will be much less than it was last year, so it is quite conceivable that gasoline stocks will show a still greater yearly decrease by the time another January rolls around.

The fact that California's stock of all oils increased between January 31, 1925, and January 31, this year, to the extent of 2,572,888 barrels might afford some comfort to the gasoline user were it not for the fact that 23,572,907 barrels of that reserve supply consists of crude heavier than 20 deg. gravity, and rated as fuel oil, unrefinable. The amount of refinable crude, testing 20 deg. gravity or lighter, is given as being 43,802,077 barrels.

Total stocks on hand of January 31, this year, amounted to 154,536,659 barrels, against total stocks of 125,007,770 barrels the previous year.

United Obtains Lease of Tract at Buttonwillow

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BUTTONWILLOW, March 7.—Agreeing to commence drilling the first well within one month from February 15, the United Oil Company has obtained from Hattie L. Hawver a twenty-year oil lease of 160 acres eight miles northeast of Buttonwillow.

The property is described as the southwest quarter of Sec. 9, 28-24.

In the event that oil is struck in paying quantities one-eighth royalty is to be paid and a total of eight wells to be drilled. Upon the completion of one well another must be spudded in within 120 days.

Drilling is to proceed to a depth of 5000 feet in the test well before abandonment is allowed under the terms of the lease.

ARTESIA FIELD ADDS PRODUCER

Mesa Oil Picks Up Third Sand in Hole at 2800

Test of Mitchell Pool Still Center of Interest

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) March 7.—The largest recent completion in the Artesia field was brought in during the week by Flynn, Welch and Yates, it being the No. 32 on Sec. 28-18-28, offsetting the Ohio Oil Company's No. 5 on the Toomie Allen lease to the north.

Drilled to 2700 feet, thirty feet of rich sand was encountered which caused the well to flow at the rate of 300 barrels. Production in this well is being obtained from the 2100-foot sand. The pipe has been perforated.

Additional sand has been picked up in the Mesa Oil Company's No. 1 on Sec. 4-19-28 at 2800 feet, giving this well three distinct sands. The hole is standing 1000 feet in fluid. The well will be drilled to 3000 feet and shot in the various sands encountered.

Flynn, Welch and Yates has a nice producer in the No. 38 on Sec. 5-18-28, which was shot at 2450 feet and is good for seventy-five barrels daily.

Interest still centers in the opening of the new Mitchell pool, forty-five miles east of the Artesia field, in Lea county, Texas. This new area came into the limelight two weeks ago by the drilling in of the Maljamar Oil and Gas Corporation's Baish No. 1 on Sec. 21-17-32. Three sands have been picked up with the hole now down 2450 feet. A deep test will be made of the well, before it is shot. Eleven additional wells are being drilled there by this company, it is reported.

Local operators are closely watching the section south of Carlsbad on the Texas-New Mexico line. The World Company well in Block 57, Reeves county, Texas, just across the line, had a gas blowout at 2900 feet and this, together with the excellent showing of oil found in the No. 1 test of the Empire Oil and Gas Company on Sec. 31-24-27, at a depth of 2200 feet, has attracted many operators to that area.

On Sec. 20-18-28 Shaw and Rathke have a good showing in the Danciger No. 1, at 2600 feet.

The Texas Company has encountered a break in the formation in its deep test on Sec. 5-18-28 at a depth of 3211 feet, and the hole is standing in considerable oil.

A location has been made by the Navajo Oil Company of California, this to be in the center of the southwest quarter of Sec. 28-17-27, one and one-half miles due north of the northern extension of the field.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Base Metal Ores

FORT BARARD (N.M.) Feb. 17.—Question: Under separate cover I am sending you two specimens for qualitative tests. No. 1 is concentrate which lies on the floor of a cavern in Oro Mexicano mine, Northeastern Sinaloa, Mexico. No. 2 is a specimen from the same locality. What do the samples contain? P.

Answer: The concentrates are chiefly of pyrite (iron disulphide,) with some blende (zinc sulphide,) arsenical pyrite and chalcopyrite (copper-iron sulphide,) present in greater or lesser percentages. No. 2 is of silicious matrix. Pyrite, blende, arsenopyrite, copper, iron and sulphates of iron and copper found. Both samples represent low-grade tetrahedrites, (fahlerz,) and not the high-grade variety known to the mining boys in the hills as gray copper ore. No mineraligical silver found, and free gold is absent.

Volcanic Matter

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Feb 17.—Q.: I am sending you four specimens of minerals. The white sample resembles infusorial earth and it is found in large quantity some forty miles southeast of Kingman. The specimen of iron-looking lava might carry manganese and potash; it is from California (San Bernardino county,) and the other clay sample is from Kern county, California. The specimen resembling specullar iron is from Kern county, California. Please determine if any of these have commercial value. I appreciate your efforts on behalf of prospectors. R.

A.: Sample marked "volcanic lava" is of four specimens. One of them is quarizitic rock containing micaceous iron (hematite.) The three remaining rocks are pseudomorph after amygdaloidal lava, which, at one time carried chalcedony (quartz) in the now empty vuggs.B—No. 1 is calcite with micaceous iron. White Cap No. 1 is volcanic ash—near Tufa.

Hornblende

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 18.—Q.: Under separate cover please find some ore from Cajon Pass. The samples vary but I believe they are of the same general contents. Can you tell me what metals they contain and is there commercial values in the ores? M.

A.: There is some pyroxene also in the samples, with feldspar and quartz. No free gold nor native platinum in any sample.

Thumb Specimens

TRANO, Feb. 18.—Q.: Please find in parcel-post package a sample of ore on which I desire complete quantitative analysis. M.

A.: Qualitative work only. The samples comprise hundreds of mineral chips varying in sizes from a grain of wheat to that of peas. Quartz, iron oxides, and zinc resactions found in some of the chips. Massive samples of an ounce or so in weight always preferred for tests.

Quartz Matrix

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Q.: I would like very much to have your results as to the nature of this rock or mineral. I found it in the San Bernardino Mountains. B.

A.: The sample carries hematite (micaceous iron,) and represents doubtful commercial value.

Not Graphite

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Q.: I am sending you two small boxes containing samples, which I secured in San Gabriel Canyon, Los Angeles county. One box is marked No. 4, and an old miner told me the sample is graphite, and I would like to know if that is what it is. The other box contains samples 1, 2 and 3; all three, I understand, are carundum; No. 1, I consider to be the best. Are they corundum and, if so, do you think they have a big enough percentage of corundum to make them commercially valuable? Do any of the samples contain minerals of other kind that are valuable? D.

A.: Sample No. 4 is an altered hornblends granite chiefly, mixed with mica schist. No. 1 is on the order of No. 4, but not so much decomposed. None of the samples will scratch glass. No. 2 is like No. 1. No. 3 is hornblende granite with a small seam of mica schist on one edge. All of the samples were tested together for free gold with negative results.

Carbonates

HEMET, Feb. 20.—Q.: Under separate cover find a rock which I shall appreciate if you would make analysis of. M.

A.: The sample is calcite chiefly, and carries some dolomite crystals. A slight reaction for strontium was noted during tests made on the specimen.

Four Samples

Los Angeles, Feb. 20. — Q.: Sample No. 1 is from the outcrop of original discovery. No. 2 is an outcrop of the same ledge about 600 feet lower down the hill. No. 3 is off a ledge different location in San Diego county; same district. No. 4 is ledge matter; the ledge is six feet wide as far as I know and 1000 feet long; located also in San Diago county about 100 miles south of Los Angeles. S.

A.: Sample No. 1 carries copper-iron sulphides in low percentages; peacock iron traces, and a minute trace of free gold found. No. 2 is altered iron-magnesium silicate. No. 3 is of numerous chips of rock and mineral containing microscopic sulphides of iron, zinc, copper and arsenic. Free gold absent. No. 4 is iron-magnesium silicate rock; copper-iron sulphide traces.

Ten Samples

CORONA, Feb. 21.—Q.: Your column in The Times has always been of greatest interest to me and commands my first attention each Monday. Without doubt it has been of great value to the mining boys in the hills, who are trying to find something worth while. Herewith I am sending you ten samples which I would thank you to test for me. These samples are all from the surface, with the exception of 1, 2 and 3, which were obtained about fifteen feet in. Thanking you, I am,

A SUBSCRIBER.

A.: Sample No. 1 is Dolomite containing microscopic pyrite with more or less zinc. No. 2 is altered calcium-magnesium silicate, on the order of "Silickensildes;" lime and magnesia (carbonates) present, and iron sulphate in low percentage. No. 3 is lime carbonate stained with limonite (hydrous iron peroxide.) No. 4 is mispickel; pyrite present. No. 5 is low-grade jasper (quartz.) No. 6 is surface ferruginous quartz; iron oxides found with zinc-lead traces. No. 7 is altered ferromagnesium rock; iron oxides and copper traces detected, and there is a little "burnt-up" jasper in the sample. No. 8 is ferruginous quartz. No. 9 is also burnt-up, altered rock carrying iron oxides. No. 10 is limonite (hydrous iron peroxide) with a little brown zinc ore.

Free Gold Absent

REDLANDS, Feb. 21.—Q.: I am sending you three different minerals; what do they contain? Do any of them warrent fire assays? K.

A.: No. 1 consists of several thumb specimens showing low values in zinc and lead; in part as carbonates. The big specimen No. 2 contains microscopic crystals of iron—alumina garnet (almandine) and also massive garnet. In the mass there is quite a per cent of Cerussite (lead carbonate,) and this sample is worth following up. No. 3 is a tough, silicate rock carrying microscopic hornblende, altered pyrite, traces of brown zinc ore, and giving a slight reaction for lead.

Ferruginous Quartz

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—Q.: Please analyze samples for gold and silver. No. 1 dark sample, and No. 2, light sample. Found in Inyo county, California. S.

A.: Sample No. 1 is ferruginous quartz; manganese, iron oxides, and iridescent hematite—more or less present. Zinc in low percentage. Free gold and mineralogical silver absent. No. 2 is on the order of No. 1 but runs higher in zinc. Free gold and native silver absent. For other gold and silver values kindly consult assayers.

GROUP OF MINES IN NEW CONTROL

Zero and Ruby Silver Pass to Arizona Central

Bagdad Finishing Auto Road to Copper Estate

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) March 7.—The Zero group of mines, long controlled by Eli Perkins, and the Ruby Silver Company's claims are to be developed by the Arizona Central Mines, Inc., the main work to be the driving of a 2000-foot tunnel, expected to cost $200,000. At the head of the new corporation is C. G. Engelder, a Jerome mining engineer, and the consulting engineer will be W. F. Staunton, former manager of the Verde Central Mines at Jerome. E. L. Bartholomew, mine superintendent of the Verde Central, is one of the directors.

Activity is reported on the holdings of the Arizona Bagdad Copper Company, west of Hillside station on the Santa Fe Phoenix line. Twenty miles of auto highway are being completed, while experiments are being made at the mine in the leaching and concentration of ores from one of the largest low-grade copper deposits of Arizona.

From Hillside is promise of daily shipment of a carload of silver-lead ore from the property of the Galena-Silver Mining Company, in Eureka district, twenty-seven miles to the northwest. R. E. Borbeck is president.

About eight feet of $10 gold ore is reported at the end of a 700-foot tunnel in the Walker district property of the Transcendent Mining Company. The mine is an old one, worked thirty years ago.

Development also has been started on another old group, the Deadshot in Senator district, ten miles south of Prescott. The work is under William J. Loring, representing California and English capital.

Drill Started on Wildcat in Rosedale Area

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, March 7.—Drilling has begun on the Rosedale wildcat well one-half mile east of the Rosedale schoolhouse. A depth of 100 feet has been attained since spudding in according to Lloyd Bender, superintendent.

Standard tools are being used in the primary drilling, though it is planned to put in rotary equipment as soon as the strata of soft fill-in soil is pierced.

Though anticipating definite oil showings within 4000 feet operators are prepared to go to a depth of 7000 feet, they say.

DELANEY GASSER BLOWS IN

No. 16 in Los Cerritos Area Causes Excitement; No. 23 Spouts Column of Oil

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, March 7.—The Delaney No. 16 has, within the last forty-eight hours, provided some exciting developments in the area where a gigantic gas blowout and fire have in the last two weeks burned one well and wrecked another, in the Los Cerritos area of the Signal Hill field.

The Delaney well has just been completed under control, after considerable difficulty, and is reported to be making several million cubic feet of gas per day. The flow of oil has been beaned down to the minimum, it is reported, and there is no way of estimating what the hole will yield when the head of gas has been reduced.

To control the gas pressure an extra gas trap was rigged up, the gauges showing 1620-pound pressure on the casing and $10 pounds' pressure on the tubing. The well cemented water string at 4312 feet.

SPOUTS OIL

Delaney No. 23 at Roosevelt Drive and Pacific avenue blew in Friday under heavy gas pressure. The well had drilled out cement, had been bailed down below the 3000-foot level and was left standing, when suddenly it shot a column of oil thirty feet over the crown block.

Drilling crews in the neighborhood rushed to safety and a large crowd gathered to watch the spectacle. The outburst subsided a short time later and the bailer began bringing up oil. The well looks as though it will make a good producer, operators say.

Delaney No. 7 added interest to the field yesterday when it increased its production of 200 barrels up to 700 barrels, after being cleaned out. Located on Weston Place, near Cameron, this well had been a disappointment since its completion because of its failure to flow freely. The cleaning out produced such good results that other operators in the neighborhood may resort to the same procedure in their wells. Others have already been issued to clean out the Craig & Burns No. 1 on the Delaney No. 13 lease.

The A. J. Delaney line-up in the northwest extension today is as follows: One well trying for production, one drilling in, four standing cemented, one well drilling past the 4100-foot level, two below the 3700-foot level.

Several wells in the northwest extension, both in the Los Cerritos and the California Heights areas are near completion today. Among these are the Keck & McWherter No. 2 at Thirty-sixth street; Harry Williamson No. 1; Miley No. 1, on American avenue, and Foster No. 79 at Pine avenue and Thirty-sixth street. All are swabbing. Vilsnak & Roberts No. 1 on American avenue, south of Thirty-seventh street, was spudded in Friday and cemented surface casing Saturday night.

The Wilshire Oil Company's No. A-3 on American avenue, north of Thirty-seventh street, was spudded in Friday. Another well to begin drilling Friday was the Cochrane No. 1 on Pine avenue, north of Wardlow Road.

DIVIDEND SOURCE TOLD

New Cornelia Explains How it Paid $1,800,000 in 1925

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AJO (Ariz.) March 7.—Official announcement has been made by the New Cornelia Copper Company that its 1925 dividends, amounting to $1,800,000, were drawn 63.405 per cent from earnings and 36.595 per cent from depreciation and depletion reserve, as a return of capital.

The company, operating both concentration and leaching plants, is maintaining a production of about 7,000,000 pounds of copper a month, which is close to capacity. Costs are reported close to 8 cents a pound. Money borrowed for building the mill is reported nearly repaid.

Venturans Ask Oil Filing on Seashore Strip

Reports from Ventura are to the effect that parties residing there have lately sought to file on the mineral right of several miles of seashore about six miles north of the city.

At that point, according to local geologists, there are numerous oil seepages at the water's edge. These seepages are of heavy oil. No large company appears to have taken them seriously, but several Ventura residents recently called on the Surveyor-General at Sacramento and sought to file on the mineral rights of State lands located along the Ventura shoreline, according to reports.

The land in question is asserted to be located at a point near a seashore known as Muscle Shoals.

NITRO BLAST OPENS HUGE ORE SUPPLY

United Verde Loosens Up 150,000 Cubic Yards for Steam Shovel Working

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JEROME (Ariz.) March 17.—Another great blast, of 100,000 pounds of nitro-gelatin, has loosened 150,000 cubic yards of rock in the steam-shovel workings of the United Verde Copper Company. Though near the business section of Jerome, only a slight jar was felt here from the explosion. Started originally to remove the menace of smoldering sulphide ores in old workings, the great open cut now is one of the best sources of ore supply for the company's smelter at Clarkdale, good values in copper and gold having been found under the surface overburden. The work is economically done, the ore, scooped up by giant shovels, dumped into chutes that take it to bins 1000 feet below, on the line of a bread-gauge railway that leads to the furnaces.

A new compressor of large capacity is being installed at the Verde Central, where work will be started soon on deepening the main shaft by 450 feet. In an upraise from the 1400 level has been development of about seventy feet of ore sampling 8.32 per cent copper across a five-foot face. Ores from two other deep levels have an average sample of 8.72 per cent. Good ore also is coming from drifting on the quartz vein on the 600 level.

NEW INGLEWOOD FIND STIRS

Report of Discovery of Second Sand in Vickers Well of Standard Regarded Founded on Fact

An outstanding development in the California oil situation last week was the reported discovery by the Standard Oil Company of a second sand in the Inglewood field—a report which upon investigation appears to have its basis in considerable fact.

In the oil fraternity, where such matters are generally quite well checked up, the Standard is credited with having found oil sand at a depth considerably below previous discoveries, and in a formation which justifies the expectation that it may be a legitimate oil-producing zone, and not one of the thin lenses of sand which are often found at the edge of a producing field. The extent of the zone is still a matter of conjecture, and can be determined only after a test or series of tests.

The Standard Vickers No. 3-1 is the well credited with the new discovery. The Standard cemented a string of pipe in this well after drilling to 4487 feet. Unofficial reports say that the Standard penetrated eighty feet of sand before stopping the drill.

The general opinion among petroleum geologists is that there ought to be at least a second, and probably a third zone in the Inglewood field. Present production of the field is coming from the upper part of the structure in what is known as the Saugus formation, which is the upper member of the Fernando formation. The lower member of the Fernando is called the Pico, and this is the source of most of the oil produced in the Los Angeles basin with the possible exception of the deepest wells which are believed to be producing from the Monterey formation, underlying the Fernando.

The fact that so far none of the wells at Inglewood is producing from the Pico formation, and that the Standard Vickers No. 3-1 apparently is in this formation leads geologists to believe that this well probably has a real second zone at 4487 feet.

The Standard discovery is further confirmed by the record of the Oscar Howard well on the Dominguez lease—only about 200 feet west of the Vickers No. 3-1. The Dominguez well went to about 4500 feet, and at about the point where the Vickers 3-1 is standing cemented penetrated several feet of oil sand.

The succession of water zones above that point, and the thinness of the oil sand, itself made commercial production from the Dominguez well unfeasible, it is asserted. The location of the Vickers 3-1 on a higher contour gives it a better chance than the Dominguez, although some geologists think that even the Vickers may not have enough penetration to make a well.

TIME EXTENDED ON LEASES AT DELANO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DELANO, March 7.—Extension of drilling time on two oil leases in the vicinity of the Sentinal test well east of Delano on Section 20, 28-27, has been allowed in two instruments filed with the County Recorder.

Both leases are held for operation by the United Oil Company and were obtained originally from Harry and Katie Quinn and the Jasmin-Orange Land Company.

EMPIRE TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

A sinking fund will be provided sufficient to retire $100,000 principal amount of bonds per annum operating quarterly, beginning March 1, 1927, by redemption at the then current redemption price and/or purchase in the market.

Mr. Henry L. Doherty, President of the Company summarizes his letter as follows:

Business and Property Cities Service Transportation Company operates a fleet of tank steamers engaged in transporting crude oil and refined products principally from California and Mexico to refineries of affiliated companies located at Philadelphia and Boston, and also engaged in conveying petroleum products from time to time, to Europe and the Orient. The Company owns four tank steamers, HAGOOD and HALO, each of 10,000 tons; HADNOT and WATERTOWN, each of 9,300 tons, and has contracted to purchase another of 12,600 tons.

Security and Indenture Provisions These bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a first mortgage upon the tank steamers "Hagood," "Halo," "Hadnot" and "Watertown" and upon the tank steamer presently to be acquired. The present market value of the tank steamers now owned by the Company and the additional tank steamer to be owned is approximately $3,500,000, based on the cost price of the additional tank steamer being purchased; and the reproduction cost new in the opinion of competent shipbuilders would exceed $5,000,000. The issuance of additional bonds under the Trust Indenture will be restricted by stringent indenture provisions.

Earnings For the twelve month periods ended November 30, 1925 and 1924, the earnings of the Company were as follows:

Gross Earnings	$1,375,300.14	$1,211,535.82
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes	974,246.28	809,317.69
Net Earnings available for Interest and Reserves	$401,053.86	$402,218.13
Annual Interest charges on these bonds	150,000.00

The above earnings for twelve months ended November 30, 1925, are more than 2.6 times the interest charges on these bonds. Such earnings include only four months of operations from the S.S. "Hadnot," which was purchased in August, 1925. On the basis of a full year's earnings from that ship at the current rate, together with the annual earnings expected from the additional ship now being purchased, the estimated annual rate of such earnings is 4 times such interest charges.

Management All of the Common stock except directors' qualifying shares, of Cities Service Transportation Company is owned by Cities Service Company. The operations of this company are supervised (under the direction and control of the Board of Directors of the Company) by Henry L. Doherty & Company.

All legal matters in connection with this issue of Bonds will be under the direction of Messrs. Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy, and Messrs. Fruesauff, Robinson & Sloan, New York, N. Y.

This offering is made in all respects when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel. Deliveries of said bonds may be made in temporary form.

"An Ounce of Precaution" or "A Pound of Cure"

Day in, day out, week in, week out, month in and month out, there is vividly brought to my attention so many pitiful cases, where poor, unsuspecting and trusting people have been trimmed out of their life savings, by one or another of the many unscrupulous, black-hearted tricksters that roam the walks of life, preying and feasting on the unprotected widows and those of us that are not sufficiently sophisticated on investments to distinguish the difference between a legitimate one and an outright fake.

These ulcers of humanity do not display their wares on the highways of our different communities, but on the contrary, they slink along the byways, taking advantage of poor, trusting souls that firmly believe that everything they see wearing a coat and vest and pants must be a man.

Not so my friends, but I guess one has to be in contact with the thousands of pitiful cases, that constantly come to the attention of one in my walk of life, to fully appreciate the great incurable wrongs that are daily perpetrated by the lepers I refer to—yes, wrongs that are responsible for the snuffing out of many a life—wrongs that are the cause of many a God-loving mother and father and a brood of little ones going without sufficient bread to keep away the wolf of hunger.

No later than the dav before yesterday, there walked into my offices an old man and an old woman, both well over seventy years of age, and their mission was to obtain my advice, as to the best way to go about getting back the money they had been filched out of by the trickery and lies of a human parasite.

Can you imagine an old couple of that age, with nothing of this world's goods but a very modest little home, and barely a pittance of income to supply them food for their remaining days, being persuaded into mortgaging their little home to the utmost and investing the proceeds in a wildcat bubble, that even one's fondest dreams could not imagine materializing, and the sad part of it all is that no attempt will ever be made to run to earth and punish the culprit.

If some of our "appointed State officials" that boast of their protection of the dear public, would extend their efforts towards tracing down and prosecuting such Brigands, instead of expending the people's money on a flock of deputies "barking at the moon," from Billy to Jack, in their attempt to obstruct the legitimate development of the resources of our State, this neck of the woods would be a safer and better place to live in.

True enough, we have in most American cities, established forces, such as our "Better Business Bureau," The American Bankers' Association, and always the newspapers of the Community you live in, who are willing and glad to advise you on any investment you may inquire about, but if you will not avail yourselves of these facilities, that are created for your protection alone, what do they mean?

It is almost impossible for those of us who are not entirely familiar with the business machinery of life to discern between what is legitimate and what is not, and even the brainiest men of our country oftentimes seek advice on investments from those they realize are better posted than they, and my sincere advice to every person that is approached to invest in any kind of security, is, give yourself a half-way even chance, by learning all you can about the project before parting with a dollar of your money.

Consult any business man, your lawer, your banker, your Broker, or anyone in a logical position to supply you facts, and after gaining that knowledge, if you still wish to, then use your own judgment, but don't bite off something where you have lost your money the moment you lay it down.

I am informed, that last year in the United States, people lost, through fool investments, where they never had a possible chance, better than a Billion dollars, and those that fleeced them classify them as Saps.

Take my advice and use

...ason's Output Likely to Top Million Cases

...Rapidly developing markets in the United States for California sardines are noted in shipments from Los Angeles Harbor this season, despite the acute shortage in the fish.

Heretofore, practically 99 per cent of the total local output has gone to foreign consumers, principally in Latin and Asiatic countries whose palates have become trained to tomato sauces in which the local product is canned.

The past year or two, however, has shown in America, particularly in the Mississippi Valley, have been introducing and exploiting the little Pacific Coast fish, with the result that consumption has increased from seven cars three years ago to eighteen cars last year and to seventy cars to date this year, with prospects of several more shipments before the season closes in a few weeks.

Americans are said to have taken readily to the substitution over the Atlantic Coast fish and 'the small French and Norwegian and Italian fish packed in olive oil. Local canneries also have introduced a small can retailing for a dime, which is finding its way into the lunch boxes of workmen to an extent that the market is said to close the season with more than 1,000,000 cases, practically a record, but 50 per cent under the amount contracted for some time ago by the local plants, due to the unusual demands made.

The catches, which last week amounted to almost nothing, have been picking up the last three days, and yesterday saw 1500 tons brought to local canneries. The fish are said to be in good condition and plentiful in near-by waters and the season promises a splendid finish in the next two weeks as the spawning period is rapidly approaching.

MINNIE FLYNN

FRANCES MARION

THE CAST

MINNIE FLYNN, known to thousands of movie fans as June Daly, a famous star, is a red-headed, genius ex-chorus girl elevated to fame through the whim of Beauregard, a producer, and the genius of Hal Deane, a director. Divorced from her early butcher-boy sweetheart, who has married Gilbert Carlton, a fashion plate leading man. Her earnings are the mainstay of her numerous family; she squanders money, idolizes love and youth without regard.

MICHAEL FLYNN, her father, a pandemonium plumber, who loves only his family and his work and knows neither.

"MA" FLYNN, Minnie's mother, the result of a poverty-stricken marriage.

PETE FLYNN, Minnie's eldest brother, a ball-playing toady; just graduated from a job as her chauffeur and now her self-appointed business manager.

NETTIE FLYNN, Minnie's only sister, another blighted career.

JIMMY FLYNN, youngest son; a happy-go-lucky kid.

BEAUREGARD, a producer, to whom Art means Sensuality.

ALICIA ADAMS, an extra girl whose lack of principles brings an acceptance of Beauregard's offer of gentle favors, if—

GILBERT CARLTON, Minnie's husband. A debonair clothes model who has reached stardom by suave, unscrupulous measures. Utterly selfish and self-centered, thoroughly commercial and possessed of an absolute ego, he has yet convinced Minnie that he loves her.

HAL DEANE, noted director, who has through his own genius brought Minnie to fame and fortune, and who is in love with her.

HORACE G. WATSON, self-appointed representative of "New York capital," supposedly financing Minnie's latest cinematic venture.

SAM BINNS, who as casting director gave Minnie her first chance in the movies, now her studio manager.

LORD and LADY THROCKMORTON, society leaders whom Minnie has prevailed upon—by a gift of $1000—to attend a dinner at her home.

All through the afternoon, a threatening pall of great clouds made a dismal canopy over the sombre hills of Hollywood. A low, complaining whisper carried from the eucalyptus trees to the hail rustling sycamores in the garden of the Carlton home. A warm, damp, oppressive moisture in the air, an early sultry sunset. The storm broke at 9 o'clock, a frightful downpour that lashed at the sea, swept ruthlessly over the plains and roared down the many canyons. A fierce, insurgent wind tugged at the moorings of the sturdy oak that stood in the center of the Carlton garden. Thwarted, it whipped out its anger on the bending, frightened palms, tearing them from the protective ground and hurling them against the side of the house. They fell with muffled sound like Gargantuan fists beating upon the wall.

Lady Throckmorton screamed and rose from the table. "How dreadful," she cried. "Is it an earthquake?"

Minnie, pale with fear that her dinner party would be a failure, cued Gilbert, so they both laughed emptily. "Heavens, no! It's only raining. You'll get used to that, Lady Throckmorton. We must have these rains to keep the country beautiful and green. It's really nothing to be alarmed about."

"Most unusual weather, I suppose!" This was the first time Lord Throckmorton had spoken. Handsome old man, thought Minnie, so distingue. Too bad these Englishmen had no sense of humor.

The rain swished against the huge French windows of the dining-room, rattling the locks. In the room above, a forgotten window open, welcomed the drench of rain. When the floor was pooled, a dark stain showed upon the ceiling of the dining-room.

Lady Throckmorton, relaxing rather wearily after the elaborate serving of the fourth course, glanced upward. She saw one of the painted cupids upon the ceiling carrying on its shoulders an enormous, rapidly spreading burden. Lady Throckmorton sat there transfixed, reading into the distortion of this picture a parallel of her own position since she had bent to accept the burden of "movie" society. Schooled to hide her emotions, she sat there quietly eating, save when she glanced upward, and then a mild curiosity showed in her expression.

Cavier; green turtle soup; teerrapin, sauce Charlemagne; breast of wild duck and mushrooms under glass; pheasant; artichoke souffle; heart of palm salad; a huge glittering dessert which was a veritable festival of ices. Limpid white wines with the terrapin, a rare old sherry with the wild duck and mushrooms, sparkling Burgundies for the pheasant. After dinner, Napoleon brandy—"the only bottle in America, bought perod Mrs. Post Day, and heavy, from a millionaire's cellar," whisperfumed cordials in tall, delicate frosted glasses. Exquisitely served. Minnie's thoughts were singing as she made note of everything en passant. She used that little French phrase, too, rolling it over and over on her tongue, en passant. Nothing had been overlooked. Six solemn figures in back of the table, who were always watching the guests, like gaunt birds of prey ready to swoop upon the rejected feast and carry it away.

In the drawing-room, an orchestra played Brahms, Debussy. As the dinner guests left the table, the Liszt "Les Preludes." Later, there would be lighter, gayer music when the dancing began. Dignified, austere dancing. Minnie didn't want these people who hobnobbed with the Prince of Wales to think Americans couldn't dance anything but the modern athletic jazz. They were going to waltz that evening, and as a pleasant surprise, all would join in the old-fashioned minuet, the square dances and perhaps the Virginia Reel. Minnie felt that Lord and Lady Throckmorton would enjoy a glimpse of the old, American folk dances.

Mrs. Flynn was cautioned by Minnie not to lose control of her voice during these dances. They excited her mother, perhaps because they recalled too vividly gay memories of her youth, those evenings at the Golden Harp Club when Michael Flynn was courting her.

A happy clatter of voices and applause followed Gilbert's announcement of this amusing innovation. Charming music, notes light as feathers floated through the haze of cigarette smoke and rare incense that swirled to the sparkling chandeliers. The costumed musicians, the patter of jeweled slippers on the polished floor, the brilliant groups pausing to drink champagne, the hostess in an ecstasy of triumph, her husband handsome, flushed, self-confident—all these colored pictures passed before the eyes of the distinguished guests as rapidly as if they were watching the unfolding of a fairy tale upon the screen.

The echoes of the laughter could be heard even in the basement. The feet of the dancers were tapping upon the ceiling. Outside, the infuriated wind, concentrating its strength for a mighty blow, rushed at the window of the basement and scattered a shower of glass at the feet of Michael Flynn. He cried out as he saw the flood of waters waiting for release pour into the basement, the floor of which was already covered with the muddy waste. Alone, furiously battling with the elements that threatened to destroy his handiwork, Michael Flynn climbed on one of the wine casks and made a futile attempt to wall up the gaping window. But the wind beat him back. Inch by inch the water crept to the sputtering gas jets under the giant heaters. If these were clogged with debris, they could never be repaired to look like new. A cloudburst roared down the mountainside. Great sweeps of water poured into every pocket of the earth. One newly fashioned river found the sunken basement of the Carlton home, and entered, unmoved by an old man's broken cries and curses.

For hours Michael Flynn worked, bailing, bailing, bailing the muddy waters. By midnight he could not check the swelling rise. He stood there in nipping rain, water to his knees, wringing his hands, the tears streaming down his face. Geysers of mud choked first the gas heaters, then the water heaters; about him this work which was his wife's work lay in ruins.

At 2 o'clock in the morning, the flood had risen to his waist, but he was bailing. The guests, complaining bitterly of the cold, left hastily. Carlton, irritated, whispered to Minnie. "I suppose the old fool went to sleep on the job."

"What old fool?" asked Minnie. In the excitement she had forgotten her father, the only member of her family who had been afraid to come to the dinner party.

When Michael Flynn lay seriously ill of pneumonia, Minnie pleaded with Dr. Willet to call in all the best known specialists in Los Angeles. "Pay them anything—anything," she sobbed, "papa's got to be saved!"

"Paying them has nothing to do with it," replied Dr. Willet grimly.

"Send to San Francisco if they haven't got anybody here who can help him," with rising hysteria. "Is this all the medicines that you're going to give him?" she cried with agony as she ponted to the few bottles on a tray being carried into the sick room. "He should be getting twice as much as that! Don't spare anything, I beg of you. If there's anything you need, I'll go and get it. Let me be the nurse and take care of him. I'm almost crazy, I tell you!"

For one week they crouched in the hall outside of Michael Flynn's room. The specialists had come and gone. They could make no promises.

The late afternoon of the tenth day, Dr. Willet met Minnie in the hall. He smiled after he left the house in remembrance of her melodramatic outcry when he had warned her to hope no longer. "Movies! Not a red corpuscle left in their artificial bodies," he said to himself, glancing back at the silhouette of the huge, ungainly, brilliantly lighted mansion. There was even a bright light in the window of the ornate bedroom where Michael Flynn lay. "Grotesque. Alladn Lamp stuff. No 'Araban Nights' fairy tale to match it!"

In the upper hall, Minnie lay sobbing where she had fallen after the doctor had left her, her tears deepening the rose in the Chinese rug. Jimmy found her lying there. He was drunk and teetered back and forth when he laughed. He said: "Hotsie-totsie, sis! What's the idea of all the Bernhardt stuff?" and lost his balance, falling to his knees when he reached over to help her.

"Oh, Jimmy—papa is dying!"

It sobered him for a moment.

"Dr. Willet says so. Oh, God, Jimmy, and we almost forgot about papa—he's been so quiet around here. And now we're going to lose him. I tell you, Jimmy, it's a punishment upon us for neglecting him. I tell you it is, Jimmy!"

Jimmy's face had gone pale, and he reached out to catch hold of the balustrade. When he had steadied himself he said with little conviction, "Don't believe anything these docs say, hon. You know the way they hang around you and pull a lot of crap to make you think you owe 'em your life. A thousand dollars for taking out Net's adenoids! Outrage, hon, oughtn't to charge that much for taking out your whole insides!"

Minnie knew that Jimmy was drunk. He had been on a party for several days, but his words comforted her. She thought maybe he was right about the doctor; Willet wanted to frighten her so that when her father pulled through he could send her a bill out of all proportion to his services.

"Jimmy, if papa died I don't think I could stand it."

"Come on, hon, stop bawlin'. Nose is all shiny! The ole man's good for twenty years!"

She rose and threw her arms around his neck. They rocked together "Jmm;e darling, where have you been for the last three days? Not even telephoning me when you know how I worry about you!"

Jimmy was fumbling for a cigarette in the platinum case Minnie had given him for his birthday. He answered with a reminiscent chuckle: "It started at Alicia's party. Ev'body drunk and happy, when some little old wise-cracker says, 'How about Al Morton's yacht?' And no sooner said than done, Minnie. You know how 'tis!"

She drew her hand over his forehead and lightly brushed into place a strand of his oiled straight hair. Minnie loved the shape of his head—it was so round and sleek. Her arm fell upon his shoulder as her eyes eagerly searched his face. She noticed the deepening grooves around his mouth, the pinched look to his nose. Puffs of flesh were bagging under his eyes. "Jimmy, you're going the pace too hard!" she cried, suddenly panic-stricken. "It's beginning to show on you."

"I ain't going it any harder than you are, sis."

She broke away from him and leaned swiftly toward the mirror in the hall. An overhead light threw cruel shadows upon her face. "It's because I'm worn out and I've been crying." Her voice had a metallic ring when she spoke aloud, addressing her reflection in the mirror. And she was terrified for she saw the ravages of time and dishipation as definitely marked on her own face as they were scarred upon Jimmy's.

SOUVENIRS SOUGHT BY MUSEUMS

Explorer Finds Number of Arctic Curios Not Enough to Meet Demands

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 7.—The pack implements brought back from the Northland by Eugene F. McDonald, in command of the S. S. Peary of the MacMillan Arctic Expedition last summer, has proven inadequate to meet requests from universities and museums.

Here are some of the souvenirs he has distributed:

Kilioute—A primitive musical instrument, made of walrus rib and walrus spleen. It can be played only by Angekok—miracle workers—and McDonald, who gave the Eskimos a radio concert, and MacMillan, who showed them moving-pictures, were thus classed.

Kayack—The Esquimaux one-man boat made of seal skin.

Umiak—The women's boat, usually rowed by eight or ten women and steered by the oldest man in the village.

Unsook—Jointed harpoon, ivory tipped, harpoon line and float.

Ulu—Esquimaux woman's knife, which is buried with her when she dies.

Kapita—Man's reindeer jacket. Polar bear skin pants and seal skin boots go with this costume.

The boy's suit of the esquimaux is made of blue fox with the polar bear pants, while the garments of the girls are made of seal skin. A beaded collar of an Esquimaux girl is a beautiful example of primitive workmanship, each girl being her own dyer and designer. The feminine clothing includes a necklace and a hat.

The chief household utensil of the Esquimaux, a soapstone lamp or stove using a moss wick, is one of Commander McDonald's treasures. Others are an Esquimaux pipe, ivory handled dog whip, soapstone dish, elderdown blankets, gut bird net, bullet mold, and hand-carved ivory.

BISMARCK SHIRT NOW PLACED BEFORE PUBLIC

CHANCELLOR FOUND CONVENIENCE IN HAVING RIGHT SLEEVE ONE INCH SHORT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, March 7.—The Bismarck shirt, advertised as being "scientifically built for comfort," has made its appearance in smart haberdasheries. The right sleeve of the Bismarck shirt is about one inch shorter than the left.

It takes its name from the iron Chancellor, who sought introduction of the idea without avail fifty years ago. Prince Bismarck had ordered a dozen custom-made shirts from a Berlin shirt maker. A few days later, Princess Bismarck complained by letter the the sleeves of every one of the shirts were of unequal length.

The firm apologized and begged for the return of the consignment. To the company's surprise, however, Bismarck personally sent congratulations on the ingenuity of the tailor.

"Writing, as most of us do, with my right hand," the Chancellor wrote, "I have been annoyed by the interference of the cuff with the free movement of the right hand. The right sleeve in your shirts is shorter than the left; hence the cuff does not creep out from beneath the coat sleeve. The error is a blessing in disguise. It ought to meet with general approval."

LOVE NOTES TO AUTHOR SOLD CHEAP

More Than 15,000 Letters Written by Actress to Hugo Bring Only $700

BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS, March 7.—One of the most remarkable collections of love letters on record—more than 15,000 of them—written by the former actress Juliette Drouet, to Victor Hugo, between 1833 and 1883, brought less than $700 when put up at auction recently.

This actress, whom Hugo loved, retired from the stage and lived a life of seclusion for fifty years. Almost every day during that period she wrote the noted author a letter, as he had asked her to do, although they were seeing each other regularly as well, and the collection, an average of some 300 letters a year, was carefully preserved at the express wish of Hugo himself.

Gustave Simon, who, as a friend of Victor Hugo's will and personal friend of Juliette, says that these letters will disappoint anyone in search of a thrill, as there is nothing but a collection of empty phrases, "full of adulation and adoration, far from giving the inner life of the lovers."

The collection might have realized a higher price had not a Paris bookseller notified the auctioneer as soon as it was put up, that he owned the copyright and so the purchaser could only obtain material possession, but could not publish them.

BOY FALLS NINE STORIES TO DEATH IN JAIL BREAK

Rope of Blankets Parts as Youthful Prisoner Starts Slide Toward Ground and Freedom

While two companions looked on, a boy 16 years of age, escaping from the County Jail, fell nine stories to his death yesterday. It was his second trip out from behind the bars; on the first, after being missing three hours, he returned because he was unable to find his way to the ground. The dead youth was Carradi Natale of 817½ North Coronado street who had been held a prisoner since January 25, awaiting trial in Juvenile Court on a charge of stealing an automobile.

Alfred Castro, charged with burglary, and Norman Austin, held as a parole violator after conviction of burglary, aided the youth and saw Natale fall, according to Jailer Croushorn. The tragedy occurred when a rope of cotton blankets, hastily contrived by the three youths, broke under Natale's weight.

The trio hid behind the tanks, on the roof, Jailer Croushorn says. With a locking-bar from a shattering window they pounded off the steel frame of the ventilating windows, Castro and Austin said, and so reached the outside of the building at the tenth floor.

Natale was still living when he was found at 8 a.m., on the ground on the north side of the Hall of Justice. His skull was fractured, one leg was broken, and it had suffered internal injuries in the fall; he died in the County Hospital within a few minutes, about an hour after the reported escape.

HID BEHIND TANKS

According to Jailer Croushorn, a prisoner on the tenth floor, in which the three youths were confined, were sent from their cells to breakfast at 7 a.m. The line of prisoners is so long that by the time the dining-room is reached the last are out of the cells, and the three boys, who were among the first out, managed to elude the guards in the shuffle and hide behind the cells without being missed.

Each of the jail bunks is supplied with three blankets, two light and one heavy. The trio of youths stripped the bunks of all they had obtained twenty of the blankets, which they tied together into a rope and then tied an end of it out through one of the ventilators.

Natale, who was slight, managed to squeeze through the opening of the ventilator and so gained a ledge or coping which runs around the building at that floor, but the others could not squeeze themselves through the narrow aperture. The three boys then removed the window out. Natale threw the blanket rope out through the other ventilator and fastened it. He then swung himself over the edge of the coping and began the perilous descent.

MANY PARTS

It would have made it in safety, if the blanket chain had not broken just after he passed the tenth floor, for the rope reached to within a few feet of the ground. Two of the blankets parted in the middle and he crashed downward. The other boys, frightened by the disaster, crawled back into the jail and were found some time afterward, hiding behind the bunks.

The prisoner by whose name was identified saw Natale lying in a huddled heap on the ground and reported to the Sheriff's office. Deputy Sheriff Patton had him removed to Receiving Hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

Jailer Croushorn was still at work when the news of the fatality reached him. He and keepers found Castro and Austin. At first they denied knowing anything about it.

Escape Death to Result in Jail Shake-up

"This is the climax. Something must be done immediately."

This was the statement yesterday of Supervisor Bean when he was informed of the death of 16-year-old Carradi Natale, killed when he fell from the ninth story of the new Hall of Justice building in attempting to escape from the County Jail. It was intimated that rapid developments of sensational nature may be expected.

Bean, who supervised the construction of the Hall of Justice and the jail quarters, issued a lengthy statement yesterday, hitting directly at Chief Jailer Croushorn and blaming the death of the youth to "utter inefficiency and mismanagement."

Croushorn, on the other hand, attributed Natale's death to the lack of bars on the corridor ventilating windows and to construc-

Prisoners Show Method of Escape

Above is pictured the manner in which Carradi Natale fell nine stories to his death yesterday while trying to escape the County Jail on a blanket ladder. Figure at top is where the upper end of the twenty blankets was tied. The one below it shows where Natale was when the blankets broke, dropping him nine floors to the ground. His body was found at the spot shown at the bottom. In the picture below, Alfred Castro and Norman Austin, two other prisoners who were going to escape by the blankets are shown demonstrating how they broke a window on the north side of the jail to climb out on the blanket ladder. OBREGON BACKS UP STAND OF PRESIDENT CALLES

Ex-Chief of Mexico Supports Oil, Agrarian Laws and Scores Alien Petroleum Men

Supporting the present Mexican administration in its stand on oil and Agrarian policies, and severely criticising the conduct of foreign oil companies operating in Mexico, Gen. Alvaro Obregon, former President and political leader of the southern republic, issued a formal statement from his suite in the Van Nuys Hotel here last night.

The statement, Gen. Obregon said, is a copy of a speech he made before leading banking, trade and industrial representatives at a private luncheon given in his honor by C. R. Channing, Jr., at the Pacific Union Club in San Francisco last Friday. After releasing the statement, Gen. Obregon and his party prepared to leave for Mexicali at 11 p.m. last night.

"Ever since the Constitution of 1917 was promulgated in our country, the great interests invested in oil lands, mainly on the Mexican Gulf coast, have been stirring agitation against it by every possible means, even the most reprehensible, and since that date the group of men representing said interests have raised a long and loud outcry every time a law is enacted or regulated. They have ready at their hand the largest rotative presses of this nation and of other countries of the world, systematically to twist the truth; and such independent papers as receive reports from our capital city do not know that most of them are written in the oil companies' offices, whose gold is everywhere working up alarm among foreign interests and catering to their immoderate hankering for grasping our resources, while other capitalists keep aloof, alarmed at their own slandering.

"The by-laws of our fundamental petroleum law had not been enacted in our country for various reasons, chiefly because each time they were put up before our Congress, the oil interests began to stir up trouble, to the point of bringing on actual international crises and, the regulation of the law was deferred. It being considered indecorous to enact it under the pressure of foreign interests and in the midst of international complications, which recurred whenever the law was being discussed.

MOVES REGULATION

"Finally, Gen. Calles, now President of our republic, 'taking the bull by the horns,' as the saying goes, moved to have the law regulated. Both houses of Congress, honoring a suggestion coming from such a high place, laid aside all prejudice, discussed the law, approved it, and it was promulgated by the President.

"The mere mention of this law was enough to raise a hue and cry from every organ at the service of oil interests, and that, mind you, when its final form was still unknown. Then, during the discussion in Congress, the clamor grew in loudness and volume, and, when it appeared in the Official Gazette, with the majesty of an enactment of a sovereign people, the international crisis came about with its consequent public expectation, and the nucleus of directors of those interests which had directly contributed to foster the crisis, brought all their means into play to create all sorts of difficulties for our government and our country. We are now happily weathering the storm, thanks, firstly, to the fact that Mexico was perfectly right in acting as she did, and, secondly, to the firmness and discretion used by our First Mandatary in dealing with this crisis. It is now asked: Why does not President Calles promulgate all such by-laws as will establish the true scope and application of said law? I can answer that question. 'President Calles must and will not promulgate said by-laws for their enforcement, so long as the international deadlock which has been created does not definitely end, and the uproar has been silenced of all the organs fed on petroleum, since it would be improper for the President of an autonomous people like Mexico, to hasten the regulation of a law, in obedience to the exactions of foreign governments and private interests.'

"I feel sure that a vast majority of those worried by that law of our country do not even know it, nor have they undertaken to study its reach. If they had, they would have learned that it amply protects all lawful rights acquired in good faith, and substantially affects all false rights, which cannot be in the same class with those I refer to. But illicit alleged rights, in the securing of which bad faith has been instrumental, cannot and

RATE FIGHT HOVERING AT CONFERENCE

Shipping Men's Sessions Here Held Vital to Future of Merchant Marine

Events of prime importance to the future of the American Merchant Marine are expected during the six-day session of the combined Intercoastal-Pacific Westbound-Atlantic Far East Steamship Conference, which opens today at the Alexandria. American heads of every American and foreign shipping combine interested in the above trade ranges will be present.

Whether the threatened intercoastal freight rate war will develop and whether the fight between intercoastal lines and the Far East lines over the "$9 transshipment rate" is settled are two questions to be threshed out in addition to new freight tariffs between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and the Orient.

Several member companies of the Intercoastal Conference have served an ultimatum on the Far East Lines that unless the latter abandon the $9 trans-shipment rate to the Far East by the 11th inst. and revert immediately to the old "fifty-fifty" scale, the objecting members will refuse to observe the minimum rate agreement, it was revealed yesterday.

RATE HELD HARDSHIP

At present, Far East lines are picking up on the Pacific Coast cargo which originated on the Atlantic and destined for the Far East and carrying it to the Orient for a minimum of $9 a ton. On certain commodities the intercoastal lines are able to get $12 a ton, which after deducting $9 going to the Far East lines, leaves the coastal companies only $3.

Particular hardships are thus worked on the Atlantic outports, such as Atlanta, Charleston and Baltimore, because these ports are largely dependent on intercoastal lines to carry their products to the Pacific Coast for transshipment to the Orient. The intercoastal lines assert that if the rates revert to the old "fifty-fifty" scale, whereby the Far East and intercoastal lines split the rates equally, both Atlantic and Pacific ports will benefit.

Special efforts will be made by conference officials to bring peace between the conference and non-conference members of the intercoastal fleet. It is declared that if the impending rate war develops in this 1,400,000-ton merchant fleet, the five large lines will be able to freeze out all smaller competitors.

THREE BUSINESS SESSIONS

Business sessions of the conference will be confined to today, Wednesday and Friday, all sessions being at the Alexandria. The program and entertainment committee, comprised of Max. G. Linder, assistant general freight agent for Struthers & Barry; Bert G. Sherwood, traffic manager of the General Steamship Corporation, and Edgar M. Wilson, general agent of the Dollar Steamship Line, yesterday completed their arrangements. On Tuesday the delegates, numbering approximately fifty officials, will be taken on a tour of the harbor and oil districts, while on Thursday they will visit surrounding Southland show spots, winding up with a visit to the Hollywood studios.

Pacific Coast representatives will be headed by E. J. A. Watts, general secretary of the Pacific Westbound Conference. Atlantic officials present will be under the leadership of J. D. Meehan, chairman of the Atlantic Far East Conference.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

IF THE world were sane, President Coolidge would have no difficulty about the disarmament conference.

Being more or less crazy, we will continue fighting wars until the end of time.

REASON—WITH A GUN

Wars are like this:

It is as though you and your neighbor were having a meeting to decide what kind of a fence you should put up—splitting the expense. . . .

And you both sat down at the table armed to the teeth, with the coffee poisoned and each with a gang of armed thugs standing behind your chairs.

FUTILITY

No war ever settled anything—except to confirm the already known fact that most men are fools.

NAPOLEON

Look 'em over.

Napolean drenched Europe with blood.

After he died, everything went back just when it was before.

BROTHER VS. BROTHER

The Civil War in America.

The wisest of those in rebellion didn't want to read. Gen. Robert E. Lee, for instance.

The others now realize that it would have been an unmeasured calamity for the South to have won the fight for secession.

THE REVOLUTION

Without the Revolutionary War, England would sooner or later have realized the impossibility of a little island in the North Sea wagging a big dog like this enormous and powerful empire of the New World.

BOTH STUNG

The Franco-Prussian War roused in Germany a cocky spirit of militarism that cost her a terrific price thirty years after.

She won alsace-Lorraine which was little more than a pest and a continual source of trouble to her.

France has now won it back—and wonders just why she was so excited about it.

COULDN'T FIND OUT

Nobody ever found out what the Russo-Japanese War was all about.

A Russian cavalry officer of my acquaintance told me that of an evening, his troopers used sometimes to come to his tent.

And they would ask: "Please will you be good enough, sir, to tell us why we are killing the Japanese?"

And he would have to hem and haw and evade the question.

Finally, some one with a grand inspiration for rough-and-ready fakes decided that it must have something to do with the timber concessions of the Dowager Empress. Although it was denied that she had any.

WORLD WAR

The World War was Fate's crowning irony.

I have never been able to find out why it was fought.

But the general opinion seems to be that it was fought to make Germany less powerful.

And now—in order to collect the Dawes reparation money—they have to let her become powerful again—so she can dig up the money.

It's a crazy world.

TWO CITIES DRENCHED IN FREAK RAIN

Los Angeles Nearly Dry as Corona, San Bernardino Get Near Cloudburst

A freak storm which brought near-cloudbursts to Corona and San Bernardino yesterday gave Los Angeles less than .01 of an inch of rain.

Over most of Southern California the clouds were broken and little rain fell. But at Corona and San Bernardino there were local showers, which were among the heaviest of the season. In fifteen minutes Corona had almost three-quarters of an inch of rain, the measurement being something more than .70 of an inch. The rain came down in torrents that drove motorists and pedestrians to cover in short order. Hail stones as large as dimes fell for several minutes. The total rain for the day at Corona was .74 of an inch, bringing the season's total to date to 8.63, compared with 3.76 for last year.

San Bernardino had more than .40 of an inch of rain within a half hour. This was later increased to a total of .47 of an inch, bringing the seasonal total to 9.35 inches. Notwithstanding the storm in San Bernardino, no damage was reported. The rain centered there, tapering off at Highland, Rialto, Fontana and Redlands. In Fontana the precipitation totaled .40 of an inch, while Highland received only .10 of an inch. There was little rain in the San Bernardino Mountains and on the desert not a trace of moisture fell.

The Los Angeles seasonal total for this date stands at 9.71 inches, while at this time last year it was 4.05 inches. The normal to date is 11.74 inches. Col H. B. Herbey, head of the United States Weather Bureau in Los Angeles, gave out a forecast last night for "partly cloudy" weather today.

San Fernando reported .06 of an inch, making the seasonal figures 11.57 inches, compared with 5.19 inches for the corresponding time last season. The rainfall at Ontario measured .20 of an inch, at Upland .18, at Pomona .12 and at Riverside .14.

San Francisco received .02 of an inch of rain yesterday, the first precipitation since February 23. The rain came in the afternoon but soon cleared away. The showers did not reach far enough inland to affect crops, the Weather Bureau reported. Late in the afternoon clouds which had overhung the bay region began to break and the Weather Bureau issued a prediction of "fair and warmer" for Monday.

NAME CHANGE URGED

A petition signed by Henry Z. Osborne and others filed with the Council requested that the name of Jefferson street from Alsace avenue to its western terminus be changed to Exposition Boulevard to facilitate improvements now underway.

BUILDING COUNCIL FORMING

Proposal Ratified by Three Construction Industries After Change to Insure Open Shop

A Construction Industries Council of Southern California, which may become parent of a national organization for construction industries in the United States, is being formed in Los Angeles. Three branches of the construction industry have approved a proposed charter for the council and when nine others have done so it will organize and begin to function.

One of the stated objects of the council was "to foster and encourage the settlement of construction controversies by arbitration, mediation and conciliation." This was interpreted in union circles, which are in touch with the development, to mean that differences between employers and employees in the construction industry were to have a sort of a board of go-betweens to which appeal can be taken in event of a disagreement between an employer and employees, such as a strike. Some employers also had the same impression.

Such a board that can step into a situation between an employer and his employees long has been one of the favorite wedge-in tools of union leaders seeking compulsory outside arbitration of controversies which they begin.

This object in the proposed constitution of the new council was regarded by some in the construction industry as inimical to the open-shop principle of Los Angeles and to their own and the public's best interests.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors which has declared that the open-shop principle is "The very foundation on which the prosperity and well-being of this community rests," had set out as an essential factor in the open shop that "all employment relations are carried on solely and directly between employers

MABEL NORMAND RETURNS

Declaring that she is "the most anxious person in the world" over the Taylor murder case cleared up, Mabel Normand, still wearing the smile that gained her fame on the screen, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, after an absence of a year.

Mabel Normand

"But I don't know any more about the case than I have already told the authorities," she said, when interviewed at the Ambassador. "I'll be glad to do everything I can to help; I hope Mr. Keyes will be able to solve the mystery, but when he was in New York recently he did not call on me, so apparently I have nothing to do with the clew he is now working on."

Mabel, who has been appearing in legitimate-stage productions in the East, came from New York over the Santa Fe.

"When I got up this morning everything was so beautiful and it was so warm and sunny that I decided to get off the train at San Bernardino and motor down. It's good to be back after all the snow and ice back East."

Miss Normand will start work at the Hal Roach studios in Culver City Thursday on a series of comedies. She expects to remain in Los Angeles for some time. She made the trip from New York alone.

Although she declared she knows of no new phase of the Taylor case, Mabel still was interested in what possible developments there might be, and showed a deep interest in the present investigation.

TODAYS BIBLE TEXT

"Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Matthew vi, 34.

JEWISH DRIVE ARRANGED

More Than 1000 Delegates Here for Conference on Campaign to Raise State's Quota

With more than 1000 delegates in attendance, representative of virtually every section of the State, final plans for raising California's quota of $15,000,000 in the united Jewish campaign for the relief of suffering Jews in Europe, were laid yesterday at a meeting conducted at the B'nai B'rith Hall, Ninth street and Union avenue. Louis M. Cole, temporary chairman, presided.

The meeting was featured by the election of officers for the State committee. Irving H. Hellman of Los Angeles was chosen chairman, I. Irving Lipsitch of this city was selected as secretary and Mortimer Fleishhacker of San Francisco, treasurer. An executive committee of nine was named to serve as vice-chairmen and fifty others, consisting of leading Jews in nearly every city of the State, were appointed campaign committeemen.

California's quota was fixed at $750,000 and approved by unanimous vote. Three years was set aside in which to raise this amount.

Los Angeles' quota was set at $225,000 and a similar amount is to be raised in San Francisco. The remainder, or $100,000, is to be raised from the State at large and plans for this campaign will be mapped out at a later meeting, Mr. Cole said.

It was decided, following a four-hour discussion, during which twenty-five speakers were heard, to unite the united Jewish campaign with a campaign to raise $5,000,000 in the united Palestine appeal. The same officers will act in both drives, it was stated.

The quota for California in the united Palestine appeal was fixed at $250,000. This amount must be raised during the current year.

Addresses in behalf of the United Jewish campaign were made by a number of prominent Jews. Conditions of Jews in Europe as seen in a recent inspection tour he made in behalf of the campaign were described by Rabbi Jacob Nieto of San Francisco. He asserted that Jews, particularly in Poland and in Russia, are poverty stricken and "victims of all kinds of persecutions and race hatreds."

"It is difficult to realize such conditions are prevalent in times of peace," he asserted. "There is no joke about this thing. The trouble with us is that we feel so secure in this country, where we have religious freedom and plenty of clothing and food that we don't think anybody needs help."

Other speakers included Mr. Cole, Rabbi Leonard J. Rothstein, Pacific Coast field representative for the United Jewish campaign, which has headquarters in New York; Ben Selling of Portland, Or.; Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin of this city; S. S. Kauffman of San Francisco, president of the Federated Jewish Charities of that city; Rabbi Julius Liebert and Dr. Emanuel Schriber of Los Angeles.

REFORESTATION POLICY URGED

Alhambra and Burbank Hear Pleas for Trees

Extensive Program to Halt Erosion Recommended

Exercises at Both Places Well Attended

Lest California become as barren as China which has laid waste its lumber resources with no thought for restoration, George H. Barnes, president of the American Reforestation Association, speaking at Arbor Day exercises yesterday at Alhambra and Burbank, urged the adoption of a definite and extensive policy of reforestation.

"Not only is the planting of trees and preservation of forest resources important from an economical standpoint, but out of consideration for the esthetic, as well," said President Barnes. He stressed the need of replacing trees cut down, or sacrificed in fires, stating that this section of the country must continue to rely upon trees as a protection against erosion.

Three thousand persons were in attendance at the exercises in the Alhambra city park. Varieties of trees planted there included eucalyptus, Monterey pine, acacia, cedar, oak, sequoia, pepper, myrtle and cypress.

16 ORGANIZATIONS HELP

Sixteen civic organizations participated in the program which was arranged by A. G. Sharp, City Planning Commissioner; Mrs. M. E. Carroll of the Federated Parent-Teacher Association, and Mrs. Robert B. Valle of the Alhambra Woman's Club. Dr. Guy S. Archer, City Commissioner and member of the City Planning Board, presided.

President Barnes complimented the Alhambra groups upon their interest in trees and the city beautiful idea. Organizations participating and contributing trees were Alhambra Kiwanis Club, Alhambra Woman's Club, Alhambra Lodge of Odd Fellows, Alhambra Rebekah Lodge, Federated Parent-Teacher Association, Garfield Parent-Teacher Association, Boy Scouts of America, Young Men's Christian Association, Granada Park Improvement Association, Order of the Eastern Star, Knights of Pythias, Garfield Study Club, Woodmen of the World and Hadley Nursery.

Brief addresses were given by Tallman H. Trask, Boy Scout executive of the Pasadena district, and Chris Campbell, president of the City Commission. Others appearing on the program were Miss Georgia E. Shropshire, supervisor of music in the Alhambra schools, who sang, and Thomas Miller, who gave a reading. Boy Scout troops of District No. 3 assisted in the tree-planting ceremonies.

PLANTED WITH RITUAL

Exercises at Burbank were similarly well attended and impressive. The first two trees of 100 that were planted there yesterday were placed in the ground to the accompaniment of the tree-planting ritual of the Native Sons of the Golden West. The remainder were planted by boys and girls of the Burbank schools with the supervision of the Native Sons' organization. Kenneth Burdick, manager of the Ben Mar Hills tract, was the presiding officer.

Each of these two exercises was a forerunner of programs that will be conducted in the schools throughout the week.

Recently one or more trees were planted in each of the municipal playgrounds of Los Angeles. One hundred sycamore trees were planted in the new Girls' Camp in Griffith Park Saturday.

BURGLAR GETS FURS

Burglars who broke open a side window at the home of F. W. Maynard, 1035 Plymouth Boulevard, stole $3000 worth of furs, it was reported yesterday to the police.

IT'S JUST MATTER OF CLOTHES

Pedestal With Head Was Chic in 1906

Miss Lillian Guenther

IF THERE is any doubt as to the difference that clothes make in one's appearance, take a careful look at the accompanying pictures. They portray the same girl, photographed under the same conditions, and with everything making up the photograph identical except the dresses.

One dress (guess which) was the height of fashion in 1906, just twenty years ago. The other is today's latest model. Miss Lillian Guenther of Los Angeles possesses them both and posed the pictures to illustrate the amended saying that "clothes make the girl."

While the 1906 model was in style some years before Miss Guenther was born, the picture is typical.

and their own employees without any reference to or recognition of any extraneous influences."

William A. Simpson, one of the founders of the council, said it is not the intention to have "construction controversies" mentioned in the object mean any other than controversies among members of the council, which will be an employers' organization. He said the council will have nothing to do with controversies concerning labor matters.

The Southern California branch of Associated General Contractors of America, one of the three ratifying bodies, has the quoted object changed to read: "To foster and encourage the settlement of controversies between members and between members and owners of properties involved by arbitration, mediation and conciliation."

Melville Dozier, manager of the Associated General Contractors' local branch, said that with the understanding that the open-shop principle, to which the Associated General Contractors stands committed, will thus be safeguarded the local branch ratified the constitution of the new council.

The constitution has also been ratified by the Heating and Piping Contractors' Association and the Building Specialty Contractors' Association.

Mr. Simpson of the William A. Simpson Construction Company, E. W. Hokom, manager of the Heating and Piping Contractors' Association; Jere O'Connor, a plastering contractor; E. Earl Glass, manager of the Pacific Coast Sand and Gravel Association, and others are organizing the council out of the building business relations committee which has been functioning within the construction industry for about a year.

The council will have for its other objects the establishment and maintenance of a code of practice for the public and industry in mutual matters, opposition of government in industry and other furtherances of the industry.

Some of its promoters hope to see the council become nationwide in scope and organization.

OBREGON BACKS CALLES STAND

should not be guaranteed by any law in the world.

"It is truly regrettable that Mexico should be judged without a hearing, while an ear has been lent only to the slandering cries of a small group of men controlled by avarice. We welcome, as our President has said again and again, all foreigners who want to co-operate with us in the development of our natural wealth, but they must go there without any claims to superiority, and leave some creditable impress of their path, be it a farming field opened by them, or a factory by them erected, etc., but we have to oppose filibustering interests, which have in mind the grasping of all our natural resources and the control of our home politics. And such are the capitalists who are always hurling slander at us, spending for that pitiable task no small portion of the gains they derive from our own country.

"We do not think a country can be called rich which has a few multimillionaires, but that which has no needy people, and, bearing this in mind, we, the men of our past revolution, aspire to consolidate the grandeur of our Fatherland.

TREATMENT LENIENT

"Our government has ample proof that many of the uprisings in our country have been inspired and backed by the nefarious ring already referred to, and as plain demonstration thereof is the fact that all those leaders who have failed in their plots and insurrections aimed at our governments, settle later on in New York, live in costly residences, and have at their disposal luxurious cars and sufficient funds to resume the printing of manifestos, phamphlets and all sort of propaganda against our interior peace. And, to tell the truth, were not their conduct so ignominious, one might feel tempted to envy them.

"If our government were, as some people claim, hostile to foreign capital, there would not be so many foreign companies, whose interests are intact, despite the fact that they have not met their obligations in connection with the great works they are carrying out under Federal grants. The government has not exercised its rightful privilege to forfeit their grants; on the contrary, it has extended the grantees all kinds of facilities and given them further extensions and new terms, that their interests might be protected and their undertakings carried on.

"Right now there comes to my mind the case of the Kansas City, Mexico and Oriente R. R. which, through circumstances it is not for me to analyze, has not met the obligations called for by its original grant, and, in spite thereof, is working on with all its rights acknowledged and with the fullest backing at the disposal of the government administration. The Richardson Company, of the Yaqui Irrigation Works, could not for reasons which it is alike beyond my province to investigate, live up to its Federal contract in the development of its grant, and our government, far from declaring the lapsing thereof, in accordance with a right provided for by law, has dealt with forbearance toward the concessionnaires and granted them new chances to overcome their obstacles and carry on their work with their interests preserved and protected.

"I will not tire you by mentioning numberless like instances, and shall only add another case of a different sort, merely to prove what sound guarantees and exceptional opportunities can foreign capital have in our country. I am thinking of the sugar mill of 'Los Mochis,' in our West Coast, on which about $100,000 was invested some years ago, and where operations continued all through our revolutionary period. This concern is now worth several million dollars, despite the fact that its owner and manager rather shuns the asphalted roadways.

"I shall now turn to the land law:

"In our country, land speculation has been rife, large tracts having been purchased and then abandoned, the buyer waiting for the opportunity to sell them for a much higher price. On our Gulf Coast, particularly in the southern States, there used to be hosts of agents of the big oil trusts buying millions and millions of acres for a mere song, which they then abandoned and speculated in without risking any further investment or in any way benefiting those far-off sections of our territory. Thus, extensive zones have remained waste in the hands of foreigners, especially in those of oil capitalists, and whenever an inhabitant of these remote lands happens to cut down a tree or takes a load of firewood from any of those vast idle estates, we have an alarmed complaint, and even a diplomatic representation on our hands. And it is just these outrages and these threats to our future tranquility that our government wants to put a stop to once for all, and the same are at the root of our land law.

"I am sure that if you were experimenting the same circumstances you would do as Mexico is doing.

"We desire that you men of the West accelerate your development thus gaining at the earliest possible time your complete independence from the tutelage of Wall street. You will then be inspired by your own conscience and do away with the suggestions of a harmful group of men, whose only standpoint is their selfish interest.

"After the World War, no unusual mental powers have been required to conclude that this century can be called 'America's century,' and that, through an able and far-seeing exploitation of the natural resources of our America, this continent could secure the fullest preponderance in the universal concert. But the completest harmony will be needed therefor among the peoples which make up the American continent, which will permit some day the creation of an international committee upon which the exploitation and export of our national resources might devolve, thus avoiding the irregularities we have been undergoing in that respect.

"Mexico and the United States, for instance, produce the largest amount of silver in the world, and, yet, it is in England where that metal is given a price. The same holds true for oil, which is being drawn in such an immoderate way, that the selling markets are blocked therewith. The producing countries derive but small profit therefrom, the larger gains going to the trusts speculating in that fuel, without even insuring domestic supply by means of adequate reserves, enough to last through the present century at least.

"We could say as much of the production of copper and many other riches, which our America should control, in order to develop them with greater foresight and benefit. I see with favor the outpour from our continent to the old world of all such elements as are needed for the latter's reconstruction; but the stream should not increase to the point of harming our own interests and seriously endangering our future stability.

"I am able and willing to demonstrate that the development and exportation of the natural resources of this country are being done in a manner directly opposed to its future interests. What, you ask, are the influences which control these phenomena? It is not for us to investigate. We are your guests and are in duty bound to respect even your errors; but it is just this basic irregularity which Mexico wants to be rid of, by endeavoring with all available foresight to lay down the foundations of her own future. It is on that higher plane, on which we are suffering from the incomprehension and calumnies of our ill-wishers, that we can be easily found, and should the United States be willing to reach its hand up to that level, it will meet ours half-way.

"I am speaking the language of truth, because I cannot conceive any sincere friendship born of any other speech, and I am under the impression that all the Americans gathered here are 100 per cent American, and will listen to these truths with great interest."

ART COMMISSION REPORTS

During the month of February the Municipal Art Commission approved plans for structures valued at $508,700 and disapproved plans for structures valued at $20,500; according to a report submitted by Elizabeth Black, manager of the commission. Among the structures approved were plans for the Georgia street police station and four pedestrian tunnels. The commission inspected sociology, music and reference rooms of the new Public Library and recommended a toning down of the coloring.

ORIGINATOR OF "MOTHERCRAFT"

Back to Home, Her Slogan for Girls

[Times Photo]

Mrs. L. Cushing Kimball

BACK to the home for the modern girl is the slogan of Mrs. L. Cushing Kimball, famous originator of the "Mothercraft" movement, who has just arrived in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Kimball, who lives in Boston, originated the Mothercraft movement in 1911, coining the word "mothercraft" to cover a local movement to teach school girls the principles of right living, personal health and the care of babies. The project rapidly grew beyond local bounds, until today it is national in scope and is sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Her dream for the coming generation, according to Mrs. Kimball, is a "world of perfect and happy children; a nation of strong-bodied, intelligent, sane men and women."

With her husband, Mrs. Kimball will go to Del Monte for a vacation of several weeks before returning to her duties in Boston.

Advertising Men of Coast Name Convention Date

A keynote of the convention will be "Stabilizing Prosperity." With this in view, the subjects selected for the three-minute speakers' contests are "How Can Waste in Advertising be Reduced?" "What Should a Merchant Expect from His Advertising?" and "Can Advertising Stabilize Prosperity?" The program for the convention will be:

July 5, afternoon, inspirational meeting; July 6, forenoon, general session; afternoon, departmental session; evening, presidents' and secretaries' dinner; July 7, forenoon, general session; afternoon, departmental session; evening, stunts night; July 8, forenoon, departmental session; afternoon, general business meeting; evening, installation of officers and banquet.

Film Comedian Plays Safe on Eastern Jaunt

Harry Langdon has not been in New York since he started his rapid rise in films. Newspaper reports have convinced the First National comedian that he had better go East prepared. He did.

When the funster boarded the California Limited yesterday, he wore a large pair of snow shoes and carried a heavy polar fur coat.

"Taking no chances," laughed Langdon. "Four years in California have spoiled me. I'm coming back in two weeks, but while I'm East, I'm going to be prepared."

A large crowd gathered at the Santa Fe depot to bid Langdon goodbye. William H. Jenner, his manager, Frank Capra and Tim Walen, two of his story advisers, were members of his party. With him, Langdon carried the master print of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," his first feature-length comedy for First National.

Harold Lloyd Buys Part of Ince Estate

Harold Lloyd is purchasing three and one-half acres of Beverly Hills property from the estate of the late Thomas H. Ince, since the property in question, immediately adjoining his grounds at present, is deemed necessary to carry out a certain landscaping plan.

This is in accordance with a statement made last night by Attorney Ingle Carpenter, counsel for the estate.

A petition praying confirmation of the sale was filed on the 6th inst. in the Probate Court. The price was recorded as $39,028. Hearing of the petition will be conducted before Judge Willis on the 18th inst.

A bill has been introduced in the French Chamber of Deputies to make women eligible for election to municipal and cantonal legislative bodies throughout France.

PANIC FOLLOWS GUNMAN'S SHOT

Street-Car Patrons Stampede in Yellow Line Hold-up

Bullet to Enforce Commands Careens to Interior

Bandits Stage Three Saturday Night Theft Raids

Chad Thomas, manager of the Community Market at 1711 North Vermont avenue, lost $800 in cash; C. E. Waggaman, night clerk of the Virginia Hotel at 744 South Boyle street, was badly beaten up, and the crew and five passengers of a Los Angeles street car were thrown into a panic by bandits who operated late Saturday night and early yesterday morning.

The hold-up of the street car was most spectacular. A negro boarded the car at Twelfth street and Central avenue late Saturday night and stood on the rear platform until the car reached Forty-fifth street. He then whipped out a revolver and pointed it at Motorman T. N. Ditts. The latter, failing to comply instantly with the negro's demand to hold up his hands, was threatened with immediate and certain death. To emphasize his threat the negro fired a shot into the floor of the car. The report of the gun and the careening of the bullet in the interior of the car threw the passengers aboard into a panic. One of them, Norman Stewart, of 1888 East Fifty-second street, dived head-first through an open window according to the police report of the robbery. The car vestibule terror-stricken as the negro threatened them with his revolver. While Motorman S. Ditts was bringing the car to a stop the negro took the conductor's watch and $32 in change. He did not attempt to rob any of the passengers. When the car stopped he dropped off the rear steps, ran down a lane and disappeared.

The passengers on the car gave the names of Irene Bill of 6111½ Avalon avenue, Juanita Vegas of 1111 East Forty-second street, W. Wilson of 1415 East Forty-ninth street and Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Thomas reported he was held up by two armed bandits just after he stepped out of the market with the day's receipts shortly before midnight. He was forced into a closed auto and told to lie down on the floor of the tonneau. Then after the bandits had driven to the 2000 block on Alameda street he said he was pushed out of the car while it was proceeding twenty miles an hour. He was not injured except for a few bruises, but the bandits got $11 in money, which, he said, amounted to $400.

Waggaman, night clerk of the Virginia Hotel, was severely beaten and robbed by two bandits, he reported to the police, when he refused to open the office safe. It was shortly after midnight, he said, when the two men entered the lobby of the hotel. No one else was present. Immediately the bandits produced revolvers and ordered Waggaman to open the safe. When he told them that he did not know the combination he was knocked down and beaten over the head with butts of the bandits' guns. Following their attempt to make the clerk open the safe the latter opened the cash register of $45 and fled.

Descriptions of all of the bandits were furnished the police.

Baccalaureate Address Given Hospital Class

Baccalaureate services for the graduating class of the nurses' training school of the Methodist Hospital were conducted yesterday afternoon in Bovard Auditorium at the University of Southern California.

The sixteen graduating nurses were presented by Dr. Luther Nichols, superintendent of the Methodist Hospital. The class consisted of Margaret White, Mary Zennis McDonald, Olive Carolyn Houert, Rowena Lela Colwell, Agnes Kibbe, Ruby Verette, Elizabeth Barry, Ramona Guenther, Juanita Zahn, Ethel Lewis, Grace Catherine Marjorie Jackson and Mae

Dr. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, read the Scripture and Dr. Walter Baxter of the university addressed the class on "Investment."

Numbers contributing to the service were Dr. William A. Brown, president of University Methodist Hospital, and Miss Ethel Swope, superintendent of the nurses' training school of the Methodist Hospital.

The commencement exercises will be conducted Friday evening, it was announced.

CLUB LUNCHEON TODAY FOR SUPREME COURT

More than 400 business men and lawyers are to attend an informal luncheon reception at noon today in honor of Chief Justice Waste of the California Supreme Court. The meeting, under the auspices of the Los Angeles Co-operative Club, will entertain not only the Chief Justice, but Associate Justices Curtis, Lennon, Sewell, Lawlor and Richards. Judges from the United States courts, Superior and Municipal Courts also will attend. Mayor Cryer, members of Council Workman and executives from every branch of the city's government will be present. Milton Carlson will preside and introduce the toastmaster, Judge Houser.

STREET CHANGE PROTESTED

Neal D. Killion has protested the changing of the name of Lankershim Boulevard from its junction with Western Boulevard, to the point at Universal City to Cahuenga avenue. His protest was referred to the City Engineer and to the City Planning Committee.

TRAFFIC CHANGES SIGNED

Mayor Cryer has signed ordinances amending the Traffic Ordinance making boulevard stops on San Fernando Road, Ventura Boulevard and Lankershim Boulevard between San Fernando Road and Cahuenga Boulevard.

The Los Angeles Aqueduct

THIS announcement has been prepared by Bullock's on the occasion of Bullock's Inauguration Month, marking the commencement of Bullock's Twentieth Year. It is one of a series which will deal with some of the civic projects which have contributed to the growth of Los Angeles, and of Bullock's.

THE Los Angeles Aqueduct is an engineering accomplishment of imposing significance. It is 250 miles long from Owens River to Los Angeles. Commenced in 1908. Water came through to San Fernando Reservoir November 5, 1913. Work was completed well within the time and cost estimated ($23,000,000) by the engineers.

(Facts in this announcement are according to the Final Report of the Board of Public Service Commissioners on the Los Angeles Aqueduct.)

—Intake on Owens River 35 miles north of the point where the river empties into Owens Lake.

—An open canal of 900 second feet capacity through Owens Valley, 23 miles unlined, and 37 miles lined with concrete, to Haiwee reservoir, at an elevation of 200 feet above the level of Owens Lake.

—(Haiwee reservoir, capacity 63,800 acre feet, or 20,890,000,000 gallons. Surface elevation 3690 feet.)

—From Haiwee to Little Lake, 15 miles of lined and covered conduit of 420 second feet capacity;

—Little Lake to Indian Wells, 24 miles of conduit, tunnels and siphon pipes;

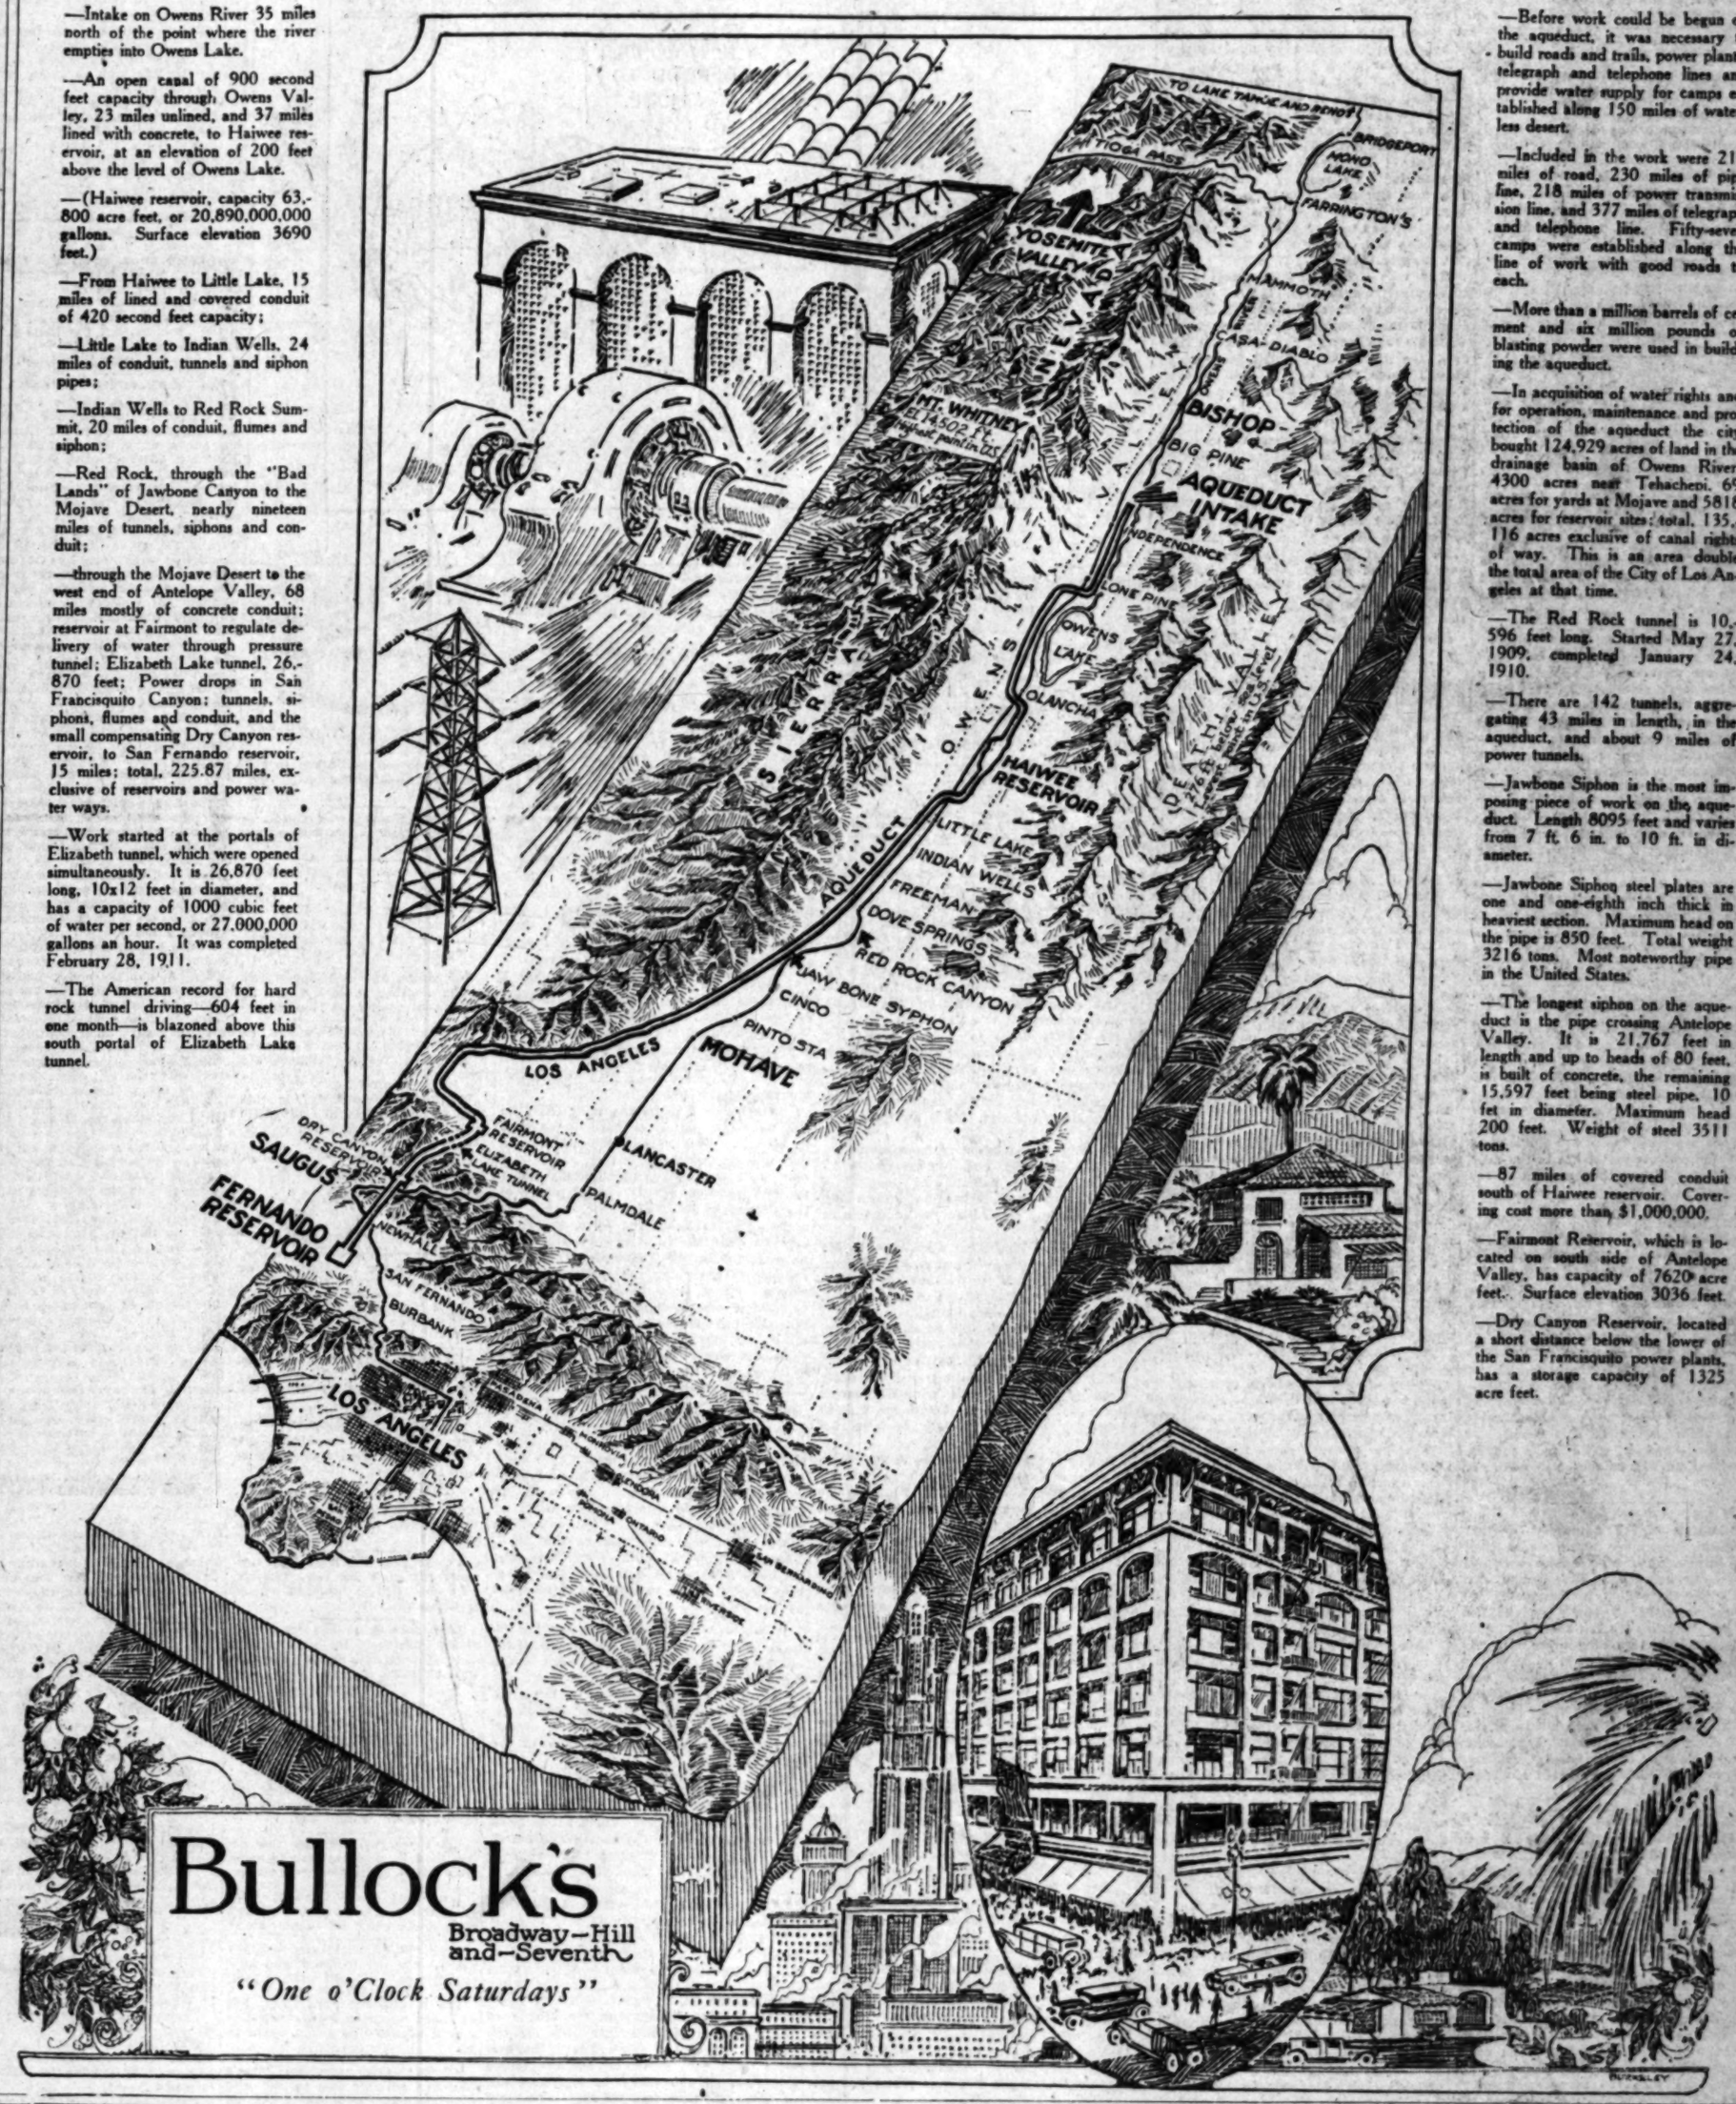
—Indian Wells to Red Rock Summit, 20 miles of conduit, flumes and siphon;

—Red Rock, through the "Bad Lands" of Jawbone Canyon to the Mojave Desert, nearly nineteen miles of tunnels, siphons and conduit;

—through the Mojave Desert to the west end of Antelope Valley, 68 miles mostly of concrete conduit; reservoir at Fairmont to regulate delivery of water through pressure tunnel; Elizabeth Lake tunnel, 26,870 feet; Power drops in San Francisquito Canyon; tunnels, siphons, flumes and conduit, and the small compensating Dry Canyon reservoir, to San Fernando reservoir, 15 miles; total, 225.87 miles, exclusive of reservoirs and power water ways.

—Work started at the portals of Elizabeth tunnel, which were opened simultaneously. It is 26,870 feet long, 10x12 feet in diameter, and has a capacity of 1000 cubic feet of water per second, or 27,000,000 gallons an hour. It was completed February 28, 1911.

—The American record for hard rock tunnel driving—604 feet in one month—is blazoned above this south portal of Elizabeth Lake tunnel.



—Before work could be begun on the aqueduct, it was necessary to build roads and trails, power plants, telegraph and telephone lines and provide water supply for camps established along 150 miles of waterless desert.

—Included in the work were 215 miles of road, 230 miles of pipe line, 218 miles of power transmission line, and 377 miles of telegraph and telephone line. Fifty-seven camps were established along the line of work with good roads to each.

—More than a million barrels of cement and six million pounds of blasting powder were used in building the aqueduct.

—In acquisition of water rights and for operation, maintenance and protection of the aqueduct the city bought 124,929 acres of land in the drainage basin of Owens River, 4300 acres near Tehachepi, 69 acres for yards at Mojave and 5818 acres for reservoir sites; total, 135,116 acres exclusive of canal rights of way. This is an area double the total area of the City of Los Angeles at that time.

—The Red Rock tunnel is 10,596 feet long. Started May 27, 1909, completed January 24, 1910.

—There are 142 tunnels, aggregating 43 miles in length, in the aqueduct, and about 9 miles of power tunnels.

—Jawbone Siphon is the most imposing piece of work on the aqueduct. Length 8095 feet and varies from 7 ft. 6 in. to 10 ft. in diameter.

—Jawbone Siphon steel plates are one and one-eighth inch thick in heaviest section. Maximum head on the pipe is 850 feet. Total weight 3216 tons. Most noteworthy pipe in the United States.

—The longest siphon on the aqueduct is the pipe crossing Antelope Valley. It is 21,767 feet in length and up to heads of 80 feet, is built of concrete, the remaining 15,597 feet being steel pipe, 10 fet in diameter. Maximum head 200 feet. Weight of steel 3511 tons.

—87 miles of covered conduit south of Haiwee reservoir. Covering cost more than $1,000,000.

—Fairmont Reservoir, which is located on south side of Antelope Valley, has capacity of 7620 acre feet. Surface elevation 3036 feet.

—Dry Canyon Reservoir, located a short distance below the lower of the San Francisquito power plants, has a storage capacity of 1325 acre feet.

THE BORDERLAND

If a fool has brains enough to keep still he can get away with his folly.

A FULL MARKET

It sounds pathetic, but nevertheless some of these prize beauties who have been given a trip to Hollywood have had to walk back.

THE WALNUT INDUSTRY

Walnuts form the principal item of export from Rumania to this country but at that it is not heavy enough to make a dent in the affairs of Los Angeles county.

SELF-BOBBERS

English girls must be resourceful. It seems that an awful lot of them are now bobbing their own hair. We'll tell the world that a maiden who can shingle her own roof is a dandy mechanic.

THE OLD WORLD

Science aims to be exact but our scientists cannot come within billions of years of an agreement upon the age of the world. The guesses will range from a trillion down to a paltry 67,000 years and all will agree that this is some spread. The earth must be of the female persuasion to mask its age so cleverly.

CONCERT AUDIENCES

Advices from the Old World and from the East are that concert audiences are steadily becoming smaller. They are holding up well in Los Angeles and genuine talent is assured an audience here, but this is a condition that prevails in comparatively few other cities. The ordinary concert audience is thinning perceptibly down.

THE LONG TRAIL

One of the new Parisian evening gowns carries a train nine feet long. They call it a train but it sounds more like a trailer. But at that they may have to run it in sections. If the designers of Paris think they can induce the girls of Hollywood to swing nine feet of dress goods in their wake they are crazy. Imagine a maiden on the dancing floor with that much of a load to juggle! It isn't being done.

LIFE'S EXPECTATIONS

The death rate of this country—all ages and classes—is 11.9 per thousand population. But the death rate of the doctors as a profession or class is 17.22. One reason is that the doctors often become sacrifices to their own work. The country practitioner undergoes trials and hardships that are likely to shorten his days. Anyhow the expectation of life in the medical profession is less than in most of the brainy trades.

NEED MORE PRISONS

Members of the Appropriations Committee of Congress have been advised of the urgent need of prison space for malefactors. The various Federal penitentiaries are so cluttered up with criminals that some of our snappiest bootleggers have to go unlodged. The government is compelled to park a lot of prisoners in county jails and State institutions because all of Uncle Sam's lockups are filled. The present Congress is asked to do something about providing relief but probably nothing will be accomplished at this time. The next budget, however, will have to provide new prisons as well as the enlargement of those we have.

DIET AND BEAUTY

Scientists of the American Academy of Medicine spent one afternoon at their recent convention in discussing women and their beauty helps. They wanted to find out whether the rolling, banting and other exercises indulged by portly women had any real effect in reducing the flesh. After they got through listening to reports and experiences they were still in doubt. They did determine, however, that the only sure way to take off weight was in dieting. There seemed to be a general warning against plastic surgery as a means of taking off fatty tissues. After all, a mild diet, plenty of outdoor exercise and the simple life provide the only permanent assurance of physical comeliness.

THE HIGH FLYERS

Flyers who recently made a long journey at an average altitude of 9000 feet could seldom see the earth because of the clouds and fogs. But they were equipped with special compasses, drift indicators and other devices that enabled them to measure their location against their speed so that they virtually knew where they were at all times. New devices for the use and advantage of birdmen are being turned out with interesting regularity. Without any earthly mark or guide-post they will be able to determine their location as well as their distance from earth with absolute fidelity. They will negotiate the heavens with the same accuracy as marks the course of the mariner upon the sea.

THE FRENCH FOLLIES

France faces the most important session of the Council of the League of Nations since that association was formed, a France without a government. How can France expect confidence in its national stability when five times in twelve months a lack of confidence in the French government is voted by its own Parliament? If France were attacked by enemies from without, if its territory were invaded in violation of treaties, there can be little doubt that Anglo-Saxon peoples would again rally to its support. France cannot be destroyed from without; but the wolves of discord are rending it from within.

Why do the French people refuse to take government seriously? One would think that what they passed through during the World War and with the example of torn and rent Russia staring them in the face would cause them to stop, look and listen.

The Times has observed before that the French people, by their own willful actions, are causing friendly but neutral observers to wonder whether they are really capable of representative government under parliamentary forms. And this doubt extends to the whole of the Latin peoples. There are dictatorships in Italy and Spain; and conditions are becoming so chaotic in France that the country seems to be threatened with either Fascism or dissolution.

French credit has been supported for two years from without by powerful and friendly interests hoping to tide the government over until the people come to their senses. But every time a Cabinet falls that attempts to raise through taxation enough money to pay the ordinary expenses of government confidence from without is shaken. The Socialists in the Chamber of Deputies are always willing to vote for bills that will provide new jobs, new sinecures, more tax-eaters; but they reject the revenue bills that would raise the funds to meet these increased expenditures and overthrow the governments that present them.

They vote a lack of confidence in the government; but they do not give the people an opportunity to vote a lack of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies.

Unable to maintain a government of their own, the Socialists succeed in winning enough votes from other blocs to overthrow a government of which they are not a part.

As the cables tell of the fall of the Briand government one seems to hear the echo of the words of Heine, spoken in Paris in 1848, "We are dancing on a volcano; but we dance."

History seems again impelled to repeat itself. The hands of the clock of time are turned back and we are again in the year 1793. At that time the sympathies of the new American republic were wholly with France. They were hoping that the French would be able to form a constitution similar to our own, that they would form a stable representative government. But every vessel from Europe entering the port of New York brought reports of new follies, of violence and fanaticism. It is as though we see our best friend going to the dogs and are powerless to restrain him in his heedless course.

We can see the end of that French trail; but the pity of it is that the French themselves are unable to see it. France has powerful enemies and powerful friends. Her present reckless course causes her enemies to rejoice and brings only sadness to her well-wishers. The Folies Bergeres pales in Monmartre before the greater folly in the French Chambers.

Who will represent France at Geneva this week? Who will represent her at the limitation of arms conference? How can the other governments treat seriously with representatives who represent only the deluge? France calls upon her friends for treaties guaranteeing French security. It is a vain call. Enemies who seek her destruction have only to wait for France to destroy herself.

When a representative government is powerless to govern the only alternative is a dictatorship. And the shadow of another Corsican falls across the Seine. The stage is set for a second Napoleon; but there is no actor and no troupe big enough to play the part. When Napoleon stamped his foot the whole of Europe trembled; but if a Frenchman of 1926 were to repeat that gesture Europe would only laugh.

HER LITTLE WAYS

Being no stronger than its weakest link, which in this case was mutual forbearance, the marriage chain of a Chicago couple was about to snap.

"He doesn't like my little ways," complained the wife in the divorce court, "and I can't stand his language when he fires back at me."

When the evidence was all presented the judge remarked that it was of a pretty nature, incompetent, immaterial and hardly constituting a cause of action.

"It seems strange," came the words from the bench, "that married people in these times exert so little of the tolerance which held their fathers and mothers together. "Your 'little ways'," the wife was told, "seem to express themselves in nagging. That your husband should resent this is natural, but he might have shown more patience. He should not have 'fired back' at you. You had better kiss each other and make up and try to bear and forbear in future."

So a reconciliation was effected, and it is to be hoped that it will prove a lasting one.

An ancient instance of a wife's little ways was the treatment of Socrates by Xantippe. History records that Xantippe was a good housekeeper and a faithful woman, but that her many exhibitions of temper were hard for her learned husband to bear. He wisely reasoned, however, that the gods had given him the woman to test the measure of his philosophic patience and that, after all, it was a good thing for him that he had such a wife.

Our modern divorce court calendars would not be so crowded if all the modern Xantippes were regarded by their husbands in this way. What history does not tell us, however, is whether or not Socrates, with all the meekness for which he is given credit by Plato and other writers, gave his wife cause for irritation and cross words. His very meekness may have been provocative of high temper. Women in general are not overfond of meek men. A woman who is able to make her husband jump through the hoop is likely to feel a supreme contempt for him, and such a feeling may inspire disagreeable language. It is not necessary for a man to indulge in recrimination in such a case. What is necessary from the very beginning of his married life is for him to implant in her the idea that he is worthy of respect and consideration.

This he can do, not by tame submission to her will in all things, not by offensive mastery, but by constant assurance of that love which overlooks little faults, hides no secrets and gives every evidence of its strong, faithful and enduring nature.

A TRIMMER

The recent Tia Juana episode, calling forth comment from a local journal first on one side and then on the other, suggests a characteristic of some minds.

The trimmer does not play fair with any proposition. He tries to catch every wind in his sails. It even seems to make little difference which side of the sails the wind is in; he would go with the wind.

He is more interested in having the wind in his sails than in arriving. If he have any port he manifests little enthusiasm in it. A good time flying with the breeze seems to be his ambition in life. If he deliver a cargo, it is an accident.

He always wants to be on the winning side. It seldom occurs to him to stand for a principle. He is a student of majorities. He senses a majority uncannily and sets sail accordingly. Sailing against the wind is not one of his arts. He is always a poor loser.

No great cause has ever been advocated and advanced by him. Consequently he has never been hailed with glee by a grateful people nor has he known the thrill of being carried on the shoulders of mob joy.

He is a politician, not a statesman. He toadies to wealth and fawns before power. No great utterance for the race has escaped from him. New ideas have to fight for life, and this is not to his liking.

Lincoln drove the ship of state into the teeth of the gale from start to finish. Washington lost seven battles out of ten and held the colonists together by sheer force of character and genius. Patrick Henry flung the challenge into the face of a king: "Give me liberty or give me death!"

Luther set his sails for the Reformation in spite of threat. Savonarola pointed his prow through blood and fire. Even if it be through the bars of a prison, Paul "must see Rome!"

No great principle has ever been fathered by a trimmer. No great truth of science has been announced by a weakling who cared more for popularity than fact. No notion nor nation has ever been led out of bondage by a trimmer.

The trimmer may catch more wind in his billying sails, but his destination is vague. The weather vane is his compass.

AUTO ARTILLERY

Autos killed 21,000 last year. In addition 400,000 were wounded. This is said to be a gain of 5 per cent over the year before.

Herein is rather a formidable showing. To the thoughtful, however, it opens up new possibilities for the automobile. Why could it not be utilized as a weapon of war instead of artillery, machine guns and gas?

One great advantage would be easy and natural mobilization. Everybody could qualify as a fighter. Likewise, almost everybody has had considerable experience in being under fire of this sort.

The country would have an army of veterans as a starter immediately upon the declaration of war. Even old men and maidens have made many of the most striking records in time of peace.

A universal enlistment would be possible. Just arm everybody with any sort of an antediluvian automobile and set off the war with the self-starter and the cut-out open.

Indeed, all the autos existing could be commandeered into service at once. The whole country would have something like 18,000,000 machines of death in operation before the sun goes down.

Big trucks could mow down whole battalions of the foe with impunity and without looking to the right or the left, as usual. It would be a massacre of the juggernauts.

In this war speed would count. Just remove the speed limit and let them at it. The hit-and-run game would find its place in the economy of life at last. Some youth and even persons of maturity of our acquaintance could speedily qualify as officers with vast experience.

The fact that the female is as deadly as the male in matters of this nature would give the new woman the opportunity of the age. In many respects she would have distinct advantage over man. Her temperamental driving would prove distinctly disconcerting and elusive to the enemy.

If any other weapon has killed and maimed as many as the automobile in time of peace we have not heard of it. The War Department should take cognizance of this matter at once and keep it a dead secret for the next big fight.

VIRTUOUS VIENNA

Vienna used to be the most frivolous and immodest capital of Europe, but it is to be made discreet and decorous if the Catholic dignitaries have their way. Not only that, but all of Austria falls under the new code—so far as the adherents of the Church of Rome are concerned. The archbishop of Vienna and all of the superior Catholic authorities of the country have joined in the issuance of pastoral regulations governing the pastimes of the people. There is to be no more of this esthetic or classic dancing. It is declared that this form of the dance is but a flimsy excuse to carry on a cult of the nude. Girls and women are not to be permitted to swim in public and in their sea or river bathing the sexes are to be kept separate.

It is further declared that for sport wear girls must never wear garments which reveal the lines of their bodies. Short skirts and low necks are forbidden. There shall be no hint of the immodest in any woman's dress. There can be no handsome lifeguard to show a maiden how to crawl without mussing her hair. All instructors must be of the same sex as the pupil. There are a lot of other regulations, but the drift of them all is to make the pleasures of the people as isolate and innocent as possible.

It would be hard to apply the regulations here. If our young men and maidens could not dip in our massive ocean at the same time Venice would be in tears. It is significant that the name of the archbishop who leads off in this pronouncement is Piffl. This is what some of our flappers would say upon reading over the rules.

SWEAR WORDS

The Holy Name Society has a task worthy of its strongest efforts. It is seeking to take some of the cuss words out of the plays that are running in New York. Some playwrights think they can only make their characters picturesque by lining their mouths with oaths and the plays are becoming competitive in this line. If the Holy Name Society can break this competition it will deserve the thanks of all intelligent playgoers.

ONE WAY OUT

A woman is running for Mayor of Seattle on a platform that calls for the abolishment of the office. That's the system! Let the ladies be the candidates and then let the offices be legislated out of being. In that way we may ultimately get rid of some tiresome politicians.

LETTERS TO The Times

"Tumbleweeds"

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Won't you please tell your Communist friends that there is a splendid lesson for them in the picture, "Tumbleweeds"? Public ownership of land, such as the Communist recommends, is out of the question for the simple reason that it is "agin" human nature. Why should a man labor to sow his crop unless he is assured that he may also reap?

The theme, the action, the whole sweep of events in "Tumbleweeds" brings out clearly the significance of the possession and use of the earth. In the first instance are the cattlemen grazing their herds on government land and being obliged, at the will of the government, to drive their cattle away from pastures and water supplies to whatever new territory the government might allow them.

On the other hand come the homesteader, the land hungry of the earth, undergoing hardships and risking life and limb to stake out their little claims. At one moment we see a group of cowboys watching the great herds winding across the country as they are being driven from the ranches and we realize what the lack of land title means. A little later we see a frail old lady and her life partner, who, in their declining years, have realized the ambition of a lifetime. They have come into the possession of a bit of land and they kneel down and thank God. That is what land ownership means to the human race.

In "Tumbleweeds" William S. Hart has given the great answer to the problem that the Reds are trying to thrust upon us.

NORMA COOLEY.

The People or the Railroads?

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I admire the stand that you are making for a union terminal at the Plaza site and I am with you, first, last and all the time on that subject. When I read articles that are undoubtedly inspired by the Southern Pacific or Pacific Electric Railways in regard to a union terminal it makes me wrathy to think that men who live in Los Angeles and have property there and call themselves loyal, public-spirited citizens of the city can talk and work for the railroads plan.

The Plaza site was selected by the engineers and men of large experience along those lines after an exhaustive study of the whole question, and the outline printed more than a year ago of what the union terminal would be and look like was admired by the people.

It was and is the only practical plan for a terminal that will entirely meet the demands now and in the future of a great and growing metropolis as Los Angeles is. All of us who have any civic pride wish to see a terminal that is a monument of good sense and beauty for all time to come. The railroads' plan is nothing but a make-shift plan that the people would be sick of and disgusted with in a few years.

I have been connected with railroads for many years and have had a hand in the building of railroads and union terminals and know the history of all the great union terminals in this country, and I can say quite truthfully that not one of those great union terminals was secured without a fight with the railroads. But the will of the people prevailed, and it will in this case if we all work for it and stand together.

Again the railroads are trying to becloud the question in all ways possible by saying that Los Angeles does not need a union terminal as the city is the terminus of the railroads. We all know that the railroads that come into Los Angeles do not have their terminus here, they go on farther to the north and to the south. These same railroads try to make the people believe that there is no interchange of passengers here to amount to anything. I travel a great deal on these roads at all times of the year and I find that the interchange is as large as in many of the great cities of the country, as many more tourists come here than to most large cities and they are constantly moving around and have to transfer from one road to another at great inconvenience to themselves under the present system. This would even be greatly aggravated under the railroads' plan for terminals.

In all my experience of twenty-five years here in Southern California I have never known the Southern Pacific to make any public improvement for the people without first fighting the will of the people. They can be made to submit to the demands of the people as they are a public utility.

CYNIC'S GUIDE TO EUROPE

Paris—A city formerly inhabited by Frenchmen. Now settled chiefly by the people who crossed the street to avoid meeting at home.

London—Charming if you like tea and fog plentifully mixed. There is another disadvantage: you can understand what the people are saying about you.

Deauville—A great many very beautiful women—that you can't get an introduction to.

The Riviera—As costly as a first night at the Follies and not nearly so entertaining.

The Hague—It is claimed that once in 1788 it didn't rain there. The claim is disputed.

The Alps—Some wonderful views if you can ever see past the tourists, the postcard venders and the high prices charged by the hotels.

Florence—The pictures are all right if you can drink the coffee.

Naples—It is expected that Vesuvius will some day cover this city, so why trouble to clean the city now?

Greece—Marvelous ruins — but can't eat ruins.—[Life.

THE "KICK" IN WORK

By the Foothill Philosopher

A speaker at the City Club re cently said that one of the unfor tunate phases of the modern in dustrial system is the inability of laborers to get an emotion out of their work. This fact he attrib uted largely to the development of machinery and the consequent automatic action of workers.

Doubtless there is some ground for the speaker's statement, for the tendency of machine work and of the routine "grind" in both the industrial and business fields is to smother thought and cramp initia tive. However, it is a mistake to imagine that it is impossible for laborers (including those who la bor in offices as well as in facto ries) to get a "kick" out of their employment.

One factor the speaker appar ently did not take into account—and that the most important fac tor—is human nature itself.

Men and women are not "mere machines" and never can be. There always will be room for initiative and originality, no matter how au tomatic in operation and appear ance the industrial world may be come. The "kick," the emotion, is forever in the worker, not in the machine he handles. The man who gets no "kick" out of operat ing a machine which has been in vented and constructed to do his bidding would not be likely to be anything much excepting an automa ton if he had to do all his work by hand. The mechanistic mind cannot be changed to an original one by attempting to compel it to think.

On the other hand, no amount of routine business or machine work can rob an enthusiast of the joy of living and creating, so long as he remains an enthusiast and seeks in every experience, every act that joyous thrill of life which is the symbol and reflection of his own glad nature.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the lovely affairs of Saturday afternoon was the luncheon and bridge with which Miss Ruth Nicholas of Gramercy Place entertained in the English room of the Athletic Club, honoring Mrs. Burton Yarnell (Dorothy Johnson,) the occasion celebrating the birthday anniversary of the honor guest.

A St. Patrick's Day motif was charmingly carried out in the decorations of the luncheon table and several delightful surprises were given Mrs. Yarnell.

Those included were Mrs. Yarnell, Miss Francis Alexander, Miss Huston Jones, Miss Evelyn Dunsmore, Miss Sue Brown, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Ben Northcote, Miss Virginia Crews, Miss Margaret O'Connor, Miss Helen Steele, Miss Margaret Burrell and the hostess.

For Bride-Elect

Miss Jane Lawler, daughter of the Oscar Lawlers, whose wedding with John David Stern of San Francisco will be one of the events of the 29th inst., is being much entertained prior to the wedding date.

Miss Lawler and her mother returned from a week's sojourn in the northern city Thursday and Friday afternoon. Miss Susanna Bryant gave a beautifully appointed luncheon at her parents' home on West Adams street, a dozen guests being bidden.

Tomorrow afternoon Miss Margaret Martin is planning an affair in time for Miss Lawler, while on the 17th inst., Miss Muriel Flint is giving a luncheon for Miss Lawler and Miss Polly Schoder is planning a similar affair, while the 27th inst., Mrs. Roys N. Strohn of Beverly Hills is giving a tea, and her attractive daughter, Miss Mary Ann, who is to be one of the bridesmaids in Miss Lawler's wedding entourage, is coming down from Mills College to assist her mother. Several other affairs are in the planning, but the dates have not yet been determined.

Welcome Home

In honor of Miss Gladys Wetherby, daughter of the J. F. Wetherbys of Lafayette Park Place, who, with her mother, has just come home after a three months' visit in Florida, many delightful affairs are being given.

The Wetherbys are planning to return south in the near future and will visit St. Louis, Chicago, and finally go back to Pensacola, where they will remain indefinitely.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Mark Davids gave an informal bridge-tea at her home in Glendale, inviting a dozen intimate friends of the honor guests to welcome her home.

Mrs. Paul Clendenning Ferrell is another hostess who entertained informally with Miss Wetherby as one of the guests, the affair taking place last evening at their home in Beverly Hills.

Convalescing

The many friends of Miss Glory Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kennedy of South Kingsley Drive, will regret to learn that she was injured tobogganing while attending the winter carnival at Dartmouth College. She is rapidly convalescing, however, in a hospital in Boston and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, who went east immediately, are in hopes of returning home with her in a couple of weeks.

St. Patrick's Day Dance

Gamma chapter of Kappa Sigma Phi sorority is planning a St. Patrick's Day dance at the Sunset Canyon Country Club Wednesday evening, the 17th inst., when all details of the appointments will be effectively carried out in the green and white motif of the patron saint of Ireland.

Under the direction of the officers, Miss Loretto Ely, Miss Virginia Benton and Miss Blanche Coyne, the hostess committee includes Miss Alice Dahl, Miss Helen Banks, Miss Thelma Mehrtens, Miss Lucinda Vincent, Miss Helen Kellen and Mrs. Walter Stuart Horne (Kathleen Ely.) The sponsors of the evening include Miss Eileen Hennessey, Mr. and Mrs. F. Heath Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goss and Mr. and Mrs. J. McKenzie, while Mrs. F. Heath Cobb (Nancy Welford,) will present a silver cup to the winners of a Merry Widow waltz contest. Len Nashe Orchestra will furnish the music for the evening and 150 invitations have been issued.

At Arrowhead Springs

Sir and Lady Monthen H. Allen of Canada, who are wintering in Southern California, were among the guests, who motored up to Arrowhead Hot Springs for the week-end. Angelenos, who have been guests for the week-end at this popular resort include Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Baruch, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Braun, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Feagans, Mrs. E. F. Osterloh and Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gillespie.

Daughters of the Union

Los Angeles Chapter, Daughters of the Union, 1861-65, will be the guests this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederick B. West, 225 Lafayette Park Place, the meeting called at 2:30 o'clock, and Baroness Otilly De Ropp will be the speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Dwight Grigden is president of the chapter, which is the first chapter of the organization in California.

Sorority Tea

Theta Sigma Phi, Rho Chapter, entertained recently with a charmingly appointed bridge tea in the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador when hostesses of the afternoon included Mrs. Melvin H. Strickler and Mrs. Brooks Montgomery. Prizes at the bridge games were captured by Mrs. Howard Kock, Mrs. Elmer Mueller and Mrs. Merritt Webster. The tea tables were beautifully decorated in huge centerpieces of spring flowers and ferns and the honor guests of the sorority were Mrs. Eva McKenzie, Miss Elma Stringfellow, Miss Laurine Simmons, Miss Lenora McCall, Mrs. R. A. Miesse, Mrs. Harold Anderson, Mrs. Robert Heoler, Mrs. Merritt Webster, Mrs. Robert Fagan, Mrs. Albert Ralphs, Mrs. R. C. Johnson and Mrs. Howard Kock of Chicago. Marsh and Mrs. Hobard S. Freeman.

Bridge Tea

Mrs. Jud R. Rush entertained with an attractive bridge tea at her home in Flintridge Wednesday afternoon, when a profusion of spring flowers made an effective decorative scheme, the colors predominating being yellow and white. Those included were Miss Millicent Whitworth, Miss Mary Whitworth, Miss Phyllis Brunjies, Mrs. Charles Axelson, Mrs. Lee Johnson, Mrs. B. B Brunjies, Mrs. Mabel Stevens, Mrs. L. Loose, Mrs. Frederick McD. Spencer, Mrs. Louis Denton, Mrs. Vickery, Mrs. Paul Foster Hill, Mrs. Ella B. Roberts, Mrs. Glenn Odell and Mrs. B. F. Denton.

Campus Notes

In the spacious ballroom of Al Malaikah Temple the second Trojan all-university dance of the year was conducted Friday night by the student body of the University of Southern California.

With informality the keynote of the affair, an interesting feature of the evening's entertainment was the awarding of three prizes for the best dancers, who were selected by a committee composed of Miss Marjorie Rice, vice-president of the Association Student Body of University of Southern California; Donald Cameron, president; John R. Kelley and Everett Miller. The prizes were a large silver loving cup, a gold bracelet and a silver cigarette case with the university seal upon them.

The music for the dance was furnished by a twelve-piece orchestra selected by Don Parker, chairman of the music committee. Miss Kathleen Campbell was in charge of the publicity and Miss Reva Hawkins arranged for the refreshments. The ticket committee was headed by Walter Hodgeson, assisted by Miss Kathleen Curtis and Dixie Jamison.

Patrons and patronesses for the affair included President and Mrs. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, Dean and Mrs. Karl T. Waugh, Col. and Mrs. Warren Bovard, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stonier and Mr. and Mrs. Gwynn Wilson.

CORNMEAL WAFERS

Scald one cup of cornmeal with boiling water to cover. Cool and add to it one and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour, with four level teaspoonfuls of sifted baking powder, half a teaspoonful of salt, and one and a half level tablespoonfuls of sugar; mix well, and beat in the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, one and a quarter cupfuls of milk, and three tablespoonfuls of melted butter; mix well, and just before baking add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and bake in a hot, well-greased waffle iron.

BREAD AND JELLY PUDDING

Cover two cupfuls of stale bread cubes with two and a half cupfuls of milk, add half a cupful of sugar and let stand ten minutes; add the beaten yolks of two eggs and pour into a buttered baking dish; cover the top with bits of bright-colored tart-fruit jelly and cover with a meringue made with the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and four tablespoonfuls of sugar; flavor the meringue with vanilla and bake in a slow oven forty minutes.

PUREE OF LIMA BEANS

Cover one and a half cupfuls of dried beans with cold water and let stand overnight; drain, place in a saucepan with half a sliced onion and four cupfuls of hot water; bring to a boil and simmer until the beans are soft; press through a colander into a clean saucepan and stir in one tablespoonful of butter, rubbed to a cream with one tablespoonful of flour and two cupfuls of milk; cook slowly for fifteen minutes; add a seasoning of salt, pepper and mace and serve with croutons.

HANOVER LETTUCE

Dissolve one tablespoonful of sugar in half a cupful of sour cream and mix with them one teaspoonful of dry mustard, half a cupful of hot vinegar, one teaspoonful of salt, half a finely chopped onion, and a few grains of cayenne pepper; mix with shredded lettuce and serve while warm.

PUMPKIN PIE

For the shell, sift one cupful of sifted flour with one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and chop into it with a pastry knife one-third of a cupful of lard; when the lard is well mixed work in slowly enough ice water to make a stiff paste, about four tablespoonfuls. Place in the ice box for four hours or until well chilled. Roll out on a floured board and lay in medium-sized pie tin. Crinkle the edge with the fingers and fill with the pumpkin mixture. For the pumpkin mixture, beat two eggs and beat into them two cupfuls of steamed and mashed pumpkin; one cupful of sifted brown sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of cloves, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of ginger, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of allspice, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, half a teaspoonful of salt, and one and a half cupfuls of milk. Pour into the pastry-lined pie tin, set in a moderate oven for ten minutes, reduce the heat and bake slowly for twenty-five minutes. Cool and serve, with a slice of American cheese.

The small Parisienne learns early the latest way of tying her collar when she makes herself smart for tea or dancing-school.

QUITE often the Parisienne takes her pet dog to tea with her, to the joy of other dogs similarly presented to society. Less often she takes her pet daughter, exquisite in dress and manner and much deferred to by waiters and maitres d'hôtel. The greatest of the French dressmakers design the frocks for these gala occasions—frocks of Georgette and flat crêpe and crêpe de Chine in delicate colors with clusters of plaits, unusual yokes, a bit of embroidery, the collar of the moment, etc. For the six-year-old, flesh pink is a favorite color, while as one grows older the colors deepen to French blue, Lanvin green and ashes of roses.

WIFE'S SUITORS MANY, HUSBAND COMPLAINS

Mrs. Edna B. Landes was liberal with her affections, according to the divorce complaint of Carl C. Landes, on file before Superior Court and awaiting hearing. She told another person that she had had fourteen sweethearts since her marriage, Landes said. He did not attempt to set forth the names of all, but he made specific complaint of Le Roy Riley, Bill Eppler, Jack Cossobome and Murray King. The conduct of Riley and Mrs. Landes was such, according to the complaint, that Riley's wife attempted suicide.

The Woman and Her Job

BY VALERIE WATROUS

(Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.)

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Dear N. M., Long Beach: There are many stenographic and clerical positions in the studios. Much of the work, such as continuity writing, is routine in nature and the typists who are assigned to it must work rapidly. Quite often when these girls become thoroughly familiar with what the studio requires they are given the opportunity to work out the continuity rather than perform the typewriting phase of it.

Another line of work is that of reviewing books. I understand that some of the studios require their reviewers to skim through about three books a day. A brief statement of the plot of each is then written by the reviewer for the consideration of an executive. As the girls become familiar with the needs of the company they may branch out a little, perhaps commending a particular book for consideration. An opportunity may come to adapt the story for the screen, and this, of course, leads to other adaptations, or to creative work.

Positions of this character are greatly desired, of course, and girls who wish to become scenarists will accept any minor job in the hope of one day reaching their goal.

A letter of application to the head stenographer, head of the reading department, head of the scenario department will find its way to the right hands in almost any studio. If I were after that kind of opening I'd write about once a month. Applications are filed, and often forgotten. It's well to remind folks that you don't mean maybe.

Dear H. L. H., Culver City:

I'd be a clairvoyant of high order if I could tell you how long it would take you to fit yourself for commercial art work. That depends entirely upon yourself, your aptitude and the amount of time you can devote each day to your preparation.

Have you investigated the correspondence courses given by the University of California at Berkeley? I don't know that they offer commercial art, but it would be worth inquiring about.

I do not know the Chicago school you mention; neither do I know that advertising agencies here employ artists for part-time work. I do know that students frequently find a market for individual posters of marked originality. Quite often these students will supply material from time to time, and this contact results in orders if the student is competent to execute them.

There are excellent courses given at the Otis Art School here and the fee sare quite modest. Might you not arrange with some advanced student to give you instruction at your home? Many young people are glad to earn something while training, and if you could begin in such way you would soon discover your possibilities without being tied up to an expensive correspondence course.

The problem of part-time work for the home-bound woman is difficult to solve. There is a market for unusual table favors and novelties of that type, but you would have to submit samples before you could expect orders.

RIGHT OF WAY GRANTED

The Pacific Palisades Association has granted the city a right of way through its property in Rancho Boca de Santa Monica for the construction of Beverly Boulevard, according to a report transmitted to the Council by the Board of Public Works. The Southern Counties Gas Company has an interest in the property and has signified its willingness to quit claim this interest within a few days, according to the report.

NAME CHANGE FAVORED

The City Engineer has reported to the Council a majority petition favoring the change of the name of Belvedere Drive to Norton. The City Engineer recommended the change. It was referred to the City Planning Committee.

TRAIN NOISES PROTESTED

A protest by citizens living in the vicinity of the El Kereno crossing of the Pacific Electric right of way along Huntington Drive have filed a protest with the City Council against what they term the useless blowing of whistles and ringing of bells by trains. The protest was forwarded to the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

"REDUCED CIRCUMSTANCES"

When I first knew them they were much too grand for me. They simply wallowed in "style." They lived in a $75,000 home and bristled with luxury.

They told me she had been his stenographer, when his business was still in the making. That she had married him, a widower with a son and daughter of 16 and 18, respectively, and that only the two little ones were her own.

But now he was a millionaire and she had $300 a week to keep house on, besides charge accounts galore at all the stores—and her chief woe in life was her servants. Father and son had an automobile apiece and mother and the girls had a sedan.

It did not seem possible that they had anything left to wish for. Yet they were not a happy family. The children were selfish and difficult, for which father blamed mother. Mother was rather a dear, and worried considerably wondering how and where she had failed.

OLDER CHILDREN MARRIED

Soon both the older children married. The boy, whose sport model car was his chief distinction, married a comedy actress, a jolly, self-supporting, independent girl. Father set his son up in business—but sonny failed hopelessly and soon it was a matter of living on doles, usually cadged from mother. The girl soon became disgusted with this arrangement—and divorce followed.

The girl married a no-account boy and they came to live with her parents. That marriage soon went on to the rocks, too. Mother was terribly distressed about all this, and father became more morose and querulous. He blamed mother more than ever.

About this time poor mother began joining women's clubs and "self-improvement" classes. Vaguely she felt it might be some lack in her own character and education. Father strongly disapproved of the clubs, too.

Presently we heard that father's finances were rocky, that the grand home was to be sold, the automobiles reduced to one, and liabilities were exceeding assets rather perilously. Mother resigned from her clubs. Father seemed on the verge of a nervous breakdown—and still blamed mother.

ALL HELP EARN THE LIVING

But now they are in "reduced circumstances." They have moved to a smaller house out of town. The oldest girl is working in a store. Mother does all her own housework and the younger children help with the garden and the dishes. There isn't any stylish gardener now, and father mows the lawn on Sunday. He looks healthier and happier than he has looked for years. He doesn't blame mother any more, but thanks God for a dear wife who can be so capable, good-tempered, practical in times of "trouble."

"He still calls it our 'time of trouble,'" smiles mother wistfully, "but, of course, it is really our time of merciful salvation. He thinks it is tragic for us to be poor again, yet losing money has really won our happiness back for us. Oh, but it was three years ago that we were really poor—when we had nothing but money. Now we all have our work, we all count in the family and in the world, we are all sharing the burden. We can enjoy simple things now—not just depending on the things that can be bought.

"And it is curious, too. We seem to have more and finer friends now. We are closer to people. They don't just come when we invite them to stylish dinners—but just drop in any time because they like us. I guess we did not know how to enjoy money. It did not suit our kind to be rich. Of course, losing the money hurt father so. He regards that as 'failure.' He is working hard to make it all over again. And I guess he will, too. He is such a good business man. But I hope it won't be too soon—not before we have learned how to live," she smiled.

COFFEE CONTENTMENT

Boy, page Mr. Sunshine!

OLD SOL has no monopoly on the business of spreading sunshine. Once M·J·B starts purring in the pot it isn't long before the "sunny side" of our dispositions shows up. For M·J·B is not merely coffee—

It is coffee contentment!

And it's all because of a flavor—a rich, full-fledged flavor that's characteristic of M·J·B. Because no other coffee has it in the same degree, no other coffee can do the same sunshine-job for you as M·J·B.

SONS SHARE NIGHT'S HONORS

Workers Over KHJ Tell of Orders' Belief

Address Hospital in Debut as Entertainer

All Plans Varied Program for Tomorrow

BY PAUL SHEEDY

Patrons of the tower studio last night were entertained by a concert of unusual artistic merit through the courtesy of the Lutheran Hospital, presenting its first sponsored program to Radioland with a group of widely-known favorites of the air featuring the noted Zoellner String Quartet, composed of the four accomplished members of that organization: Gladys Blackwell Pickering, pianist of one of the sweetest voices heard over radio; Enona Vaughn, talented harp soloist, and the Vaigrand Brothers, youthful prodigies on the xylophone, ukulele and piano.

The joint Sunday afternoon concert from 4 until 5 p.m. under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity and the educational committee of the Grand Lodge of California was another excellent program splendidly well adapted to the day. Dr. Frank C. Collier, member of the Supreme Court, was the chief speaker, delivering an interesting address on "The Great Light of Masonry and the Law," Reynold E. Blight, editor of the Masonic Digest, who also talked before the microphone, having the "Supremacy of the Moral Law," as his subject. The musical program was given by the Elite Orchestra, directed by J. Thompson.

The address of Judge Collier was in part as follows:

"I am aware that all master Masons know that I refer to the Holy Bible when I speak of the great light of Masonry, but I am also aware that many master Masons of little more about that book than the fact that the square and compass are spread upon its open pages, but what that page contains and what its teachings are and what its teachings are known to many of the candidates and to many master Masons after they have been raised.

"The great light of Masonry had and has a most profound influence upon the laws of the United States, though you will find very few instances where the Bible as a book has been mentioned in our Federal laws, either in the enactments of the Continental Congress or the United States Congress, under our present Constitution.

"The Bible and Christianity are synonymous terms, for from the Bible we get the teachings of the Christ, and the teachings of our Lord, Jesus Christ, and upon those precepts and rules and laws founded Christianity and Christendom has, from the beginning of this country, had a great place in our government. One of the few instances where the Bible as a book is mentioned in the laws of the country occurred in September, when the Continental Congress was petitioned to print the Bible owing to the shortage of copies of that book in the colonies. The Continental Congress decided to do so because of the extreme hardship and for the reason that it was found impracticable to get the Bible in America at that time, but authorized the importation from Holland, Scotland and elsewhere of 20,000 copies.

"The tower today will observe its usual worthy silence, closing the afternoon, following the noon concert through the courtesy of the Daily Wizzly Girls, remaining silent until Prof. Barclay L. Severns comes on the air at 7 a.m. tomorrow with his daily setting-up exercises.

"Mr. Charles Vical, prominent Santa Monica linguist and fencing master, assisted by his talented daughter, Mlle. Jeanne Vical, in this afternoon's semiweekly lesson in conversational French will read the beautiful bit of lyric poetry, "Adieux de la Bonne," by Beranger. This poem is one of the choice selections found in the "Anthology of World Lovic Poetry," by Young. Which the captain is using in connection with the interesting broadcasts each Tuesday and Friday afternoons at 2:30 p.m.

"The cards held in the hands for tonight's regular game in the extension bridge series follow: North, Rose, the dealer, in the "north" position holds: Spades, A, J, 8, 5; diamonds, A, J, 5; clubs, Q, 7, 6, 5, 4. Mr. McDiarmid in the "West" position holds: Spades, 7, J, 10, 5; hearts, 10, diamonds, J, 6, 4, 3; clubs, A, J, 8, 2. Mr. C. Arthur Myers, director of the Glendale Symphony Orchestra and director of the Glendale Chilton Chorus of 200 voices, is extending an invitation to all members of choirs and choruses and choirmasters of the San Fernando valley to participate with the chorus in their services, which are planned for Mt. Forest Lawn Memorial park morning by the Glendale Community Service in cooperation with the Glendale Ministerial association. V. M. Hollister, chairman of the music committee of Community Service is in charge of the arrangements.

"At the service the massed choirs will be supplied with music and will be seated in the form of a huge cross in front of the Tower of Legends on Mount Lawn. Arrangements are being completed for the seating of up to 15,000 people on the plateau on top of Mt. Lawn. WHAT A CHANCE! MARCH 17, TOO

O'Hanrahan, Shane, Ryan, Richardson, Cooney Will Settle Fight

Michael O'Hanrahan was brought before Municipal Judge Richardson on a charge of assault upon Terence Shane. His attorney, Patrick Cooney, asked that the trial be set over for two weeks.

"I'll do better than that," said Judge Richardson. "I'll set the case for the 17th inst., I'll send for Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan to prosecute the case and I'll promise to wear a shamrock to court."

SEVEN DAYS TO REPORT INCOME

Delay in Passing Tax Law Shortens Period

Haste Urged in Filing to Avert Congestion

Returns of 200,000 Payers Yet to be Made

All forms for reporting 1925 income have been released and are now in the hands of taxpayers, Collector of Internal Revenue Goodcell announced yesterday. More than 100 deputy collectors have been assigned to the task of assisting the 300,000 taxpayers.

Form 1040, for reporting net income of more than $5000, was issued from the internal revenue office last week and form 1040-A was distributed two weeks ago.

Only seven days of the filing period remain, during which at least 200,000 returns must be prepared and delivered at the Southern California district office. Because of the delay in enacting the new revenue bill the filing time was reduced to approximately one instead of three and one-half months as heretofore.

"Owing to the short filing period, taxpayers are urged to file at once, as the congestion that will characterize the closing days will result in inconvenience to taxpayers and we are trying to avoid this situation if possible," Collector Goodcell said.

STREET OPENING URGED

A request for the opening of a thirty-foot street a block long in the block west of Kensington Road and north of Bellevue avenue, has been referred to the City Engineer and the Street Opening and Widening Committee.

SPRING IS HERE ON CHAPLIN LOT

Charlie's Gray Hairs Turn Black Again—But Only Under Dye's Magic

First signs of spring were noticed in Hollywood when Charlie Chaplin, comedian, appeared in his customary haunts, minus the gray hairs which have characterized him now for some time.

The famous Chaplin curls are black again.

But there is a catch in it. Charlie's friends say it is just for his picture, "The Circus," and that the gray hairs will be back again as soon as the dye wears off.

They say Charlie tried using mascara on his hair to blacken it, but that the strenuous work in "The Circus" made the mascara run down on his face, and that he finally resorted to dye.

GROOMS POLICE MARKSMEN

Two Teams Will Take Part in National Contest at Camp Perry During September

Police officers of Los Angeles are going to step right out and tell the world that they are the best pistol shots in the country. Provisional Chief "Jim" Davis announced yesterday that he has started grooming two crack teams of five men each to compete for national honors in the annual pistol matches at Camp Perry this September. Chief Davis, being one of the finest shots in the department and the winner of the Mayor's cup, will lead the two teams to battle unless some dark horse pops up during the summer to break the Chief's record.

This will be the first time that Los Angeles police officers have ever competed with teams from police departments of other cities in this country. Davis is strongly backed by retiring Chief Heath, who not only will aid the new Chief in his development of the two pistol teams, but says he is going to organize a team of police officers to compete in the rifle matches.

Recognizing the opportunity to gain glories for Los Angeles in Chief Davis's decision of having the Los Angeles police department represented at Camp Perry Tom Mix will lead another team, and a second team will go from Lasky's studios to show the world that the two gun men of the movies can use their six-guns with bullets in them with the best of the country's shots, according to Chief Heath. Along with these teams will go several civilian teams drawn from the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club and other shooting organizations, the Chief stated.

The official police team will use the regulation 45-calibered revolver, such as has been adopted for general use in the department Public Works Committee.

CRACK IN REAR VIEW MIRROR CAUSE OF WOE

When J. L. Brown was brought before Municipal Judge Chambers on a charge of traveling forty-five miles an hour on Sunset Boulevard he pleaded guilty.

"Why were you going so fast?" asked the judge.

"Well, Your Honor, I was coming down Sunset when I heard a siren behind me. I pulled over to the curb and looked around and saw two fire engines, one of them coming right at me. So I had to pull out and run away ahead of them and I was still running when the officer stopped me."

"I never heard of fire engines running two abreast," said the court. "What kind of liquor had you been drinking?"

The phenomenon was explained when Police Officer Bice suggested that a crack in Brown's rear sight mirror had caused a double reflection.

"Perhaps that was it," Brown mused. "I'd better have that mirror fixed."

"I think so, too," said Judge Chambers. "I'll fine you $25 to help you remember about it."

OHIO POLITICIAN IS WINTER GUEST

George White One of Arrivals at Pasadena

Seasonal Record of Banner Year is Broken

Hotels Filled with Prominent Eastern Residents

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 7.—George White of Marietta, O., former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is the newest addition to the record-breaking colony of distinguished eastern visitors in Pasadena this season. Mr. White arrived at the Hotel Maryland today, where he will remain for several weeks.

There are more winter residents in Pasadena this year than in any previous season, according to the managers of the city's large hotels, the number of tourists by this time having surpassed the record established in 1920, banner year until now.

Long filled to capacity, the hotels are taking care of additional guests in adjacent apartments, houses and smaller hotels. While guests are not arriving as fast as they were a month ago, the winter colony nevertheless keeps swelling because practically all visitors are remaining for two or three months or more.

The hotel season, the managers say, is gradually extending later and later into the spring and all are looking forward to continued good business this summer, as easterners come to realize more and more the attractions of Southern California as a playground for all the year.

Bishop N. F. Thomas of Laramie, Wyo., head of the Protestant Episcopal diocese there, and Mrs. Thomas, are newly arrived guests at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Biddle of Vancouver, Wash., and Miss Biddle of Philadelphia, members of the well-known Philadelphia family prominent in banking and social circles, are among the large colony at the Hotel Green.

FLOOD ON DESERT

Cloudburst Sends Water Roaring Into Coalinga

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

COALINGA, March 7.—The cloudburst which on Thursday covered the vicinity of Coalinga with a flood of water, extending back into the hills, has caused repairs to be investigated in the levee which protects this city from overflow. The cloudburst added .66 to the total rainfall, making 3.75 for the season, the largest total to date for several years.

In 1914 another cloudburst visited this city, most of the rain falling in the city limits and in two adjacent sections of land, and merchants had to fight the flood to keep it out of their stores and basements. Incidentally, it may be stated, that Rainmaker Hatfield is having his third annual "wooing of the clouds" from his camp in the hills southwest of here, but Coalingaites do not hold him responsible for this last deluge or its possible consequences if the levees had not held.

INTERESTING HEARING

San Gabriel Dam Question Before United States Committee

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 7.—The San Gabriel dam site hearing before the government's investigating committee in Los Angeles will probably continue throughout all of this week, states Samuel B. Morris, chief engineer of the municipal water department, who with City Attorney James H. Howard, T. B. Cosgrove and Claude W. Sopp, is conducting Pasadena's case in the hearing.

Further information on the relative costs of a dam at the forks of the canyon and at the Granite Dike site is expected to be brought out during the next few days. The hearing before the Federal committee followed the failure of Pasadena and the county flood control district to agree on a compromise regarding their respective plans for dams in the San Gabriel Canyon.

TWO DIE AS RESULT OF DRINK

Post Mortem Shows Wood Alcohol to be Cause of Death at San Diego

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 7. — How two men died and a third man nearly lost his life in a wood-alcohol drinking party here last Thursday night was revealed today by Coroner S. C. Kelly and Autopsy Surgeon John J. Shea, Ernest Payne, United States marine, died at the naval hospital in Balboa Park Thursday night at 7:40 and at 10 o'clock the same night L. P. Overshiner, died at his home, 2248 Imperial avenue.

Unable to diagnose Payne's illness, physicians asked Dr. Shea to make a post-mortem examination which revealed that the marine had been a victim of wood-alcohol poisoning. Examination of Overshiner's body disclosed death had been due to the same cause. Coroner Kelly started an investigation and learned that Payne, Overshiner and a third man had been drinking together on the night of the 3rd inst. The party resulted in the death of the first two but the third man who is said to have drunk less than the others survived, although stricken through drinking the poison beverage.

POLITICS A'POPPIN'

Two Sets of Candidates In Race at Huntington Park

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, March 7. —With the announcement of Frank Carmouche, made public yesterday, there are now six candidates in the race for Trustees of the city of Huntington Park, there being three places on the board to fill at the city election April 12. Trustees Jerome V. Scofield, Anthony Frank and Norman O. Byers, who are on the board at the present time, have announced that they will be in the race, the three others, being Jack Wood, secretary at the Hercules Foundries, Inc.; John Flick, a well-known local contractor, and Mr. Carmouche.

The fight has developed into a most interesting one in that Trustees Scofield, Frank and Byers received letters from Milton A. Blanchard, president of the board, some time ago, asking that they agree to again make the race. All three have agreed, the latter two so stating in a letter to Mr. Blanchard, Trustee Scofield, however, made his announcement through one of the local papers that he would again be a candidate. He is one of the three candidates supported by the Citizens' League. The other two candidates backed by this league are Messrs. Wood and Flick.

Since the announcement has been made public, it is understood that another candidate will be selected to take the place of Trustee Scofield in the race with Trustee Frank and Byers, and they will oppose the Citizens' League ticket. A selection will be made as to a candidate, soon, by a joint committee representing the three improvement associations of this city —the West Side Improvement, the North Side Improvement Association and the Tract 2559 Improvement Association, it is stated.

Trustee Scofield was a member of the last State Legislation being the Assemblyman from this district, and a resolution has been adopted by the former association, asking that Trustee Scofield either renounce his candidacy to succeed himself as a member of the board of City Trustees or decline from being a candidate for re-election to the State Assembly, it being said that he may again seek this honor.

OLD FRUIT COMPANY TO CONTINUE BUSINESS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LEMOORE, March 7.—There is much interest among fruit men of Kings county in the fact that the Stewart Fruit Company is to be reorganized, and that Thomas M. Patterson, San Francisco banker, has been appointed receiver of the company.

The company has been in business in Kings county for many years, operating plants at both Armona and Hanford. Its financial troubles are said by its attorney to be due to a "bad ending" of the company's grape-shipping business last year, but the company, whose assets are said to far exceed its liabilities, expects to be on a firm basis again when the next fruit shipping season arrives.

INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF SUDDEN DEATH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, March 7.—Mrs. Alice Lile, 27 years of age, was found dead in bed today at her home, 727 Edith street, by her father, L. P. Dean. She had taken poison, according to police, who are endeavoring to ascertain whether she died a suicide or by mistake.

She is said to have been separated from her husband, and to have been in ill health for some time. Police said her father stated she had been despondent since the death of her mother eight months ago.

HOLD UP CHARTER FOR BANK AT MONROVIA

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, March 7.—The application for a charter for a new national bank in Monrovia, sought by Col. R. E. Frith, southland prohibition administrator, and other local capitalists, has encountered difficulties, it was learned today.

The fact that Monrovia now has four banks has militated against the new charter with Federal banking officials, Frith admitted, but another survey of local conditions has been ordered. Frith flatly denied a report here that the charter had been denied.

EVEN SEAGULLS LOOK FOR SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Ocean Park Miss Teaches Birds How to Live Without Effort

Miss Lucille Patterson With Her Flock of Feathered Pets

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, March 7.—"Seagulls and kittens have at least one trait in common," according to Miss Lucille Patterson of Ocean Park. During the heavy storm, when seafood was hard for sea birds to get and strong winds drove the beautiful fowl far inland at times on foraging expeditions, Miss Patterson undertook to provide breakfast, dinner and supper for the birds who both winter and summer live along the shores near the municipal auditorium.

Now that calm weather prevails again, the seagulls, like kittens, have come back. They want their "three squares" fed to them by the same dainty hand that was so considerate and kind when tides roared and the gales howled.

"As far as that goes," Miss Patterson declares, "most living creatures have this trait. Just show them where they can get free food and they will never forget the location. They'll come back to you time and time again as long as you will help them beat the old struggle for existence."

Miss Patterson feeds her beach pets bread and grain. They are so tame that when no reporters and photographers are in the offing, they will eat out of her hand.

BUMPER CITRUS CROP

Growers Beat Record of Last Year More Than 50 Per Cent in Pasadena District

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 7.—A banner citrus crop in the Pasadena district, valued at about $850,000 and showing an increase of 50 per cent in quantity over the crop of last year, is reported this season by orange and lemon growers in the immediate vicinity of this city.

The growers believe that they have successfully escaped all danger of damage through freezing, and with the citrus crops uniformly high in quality, are counting on this winter as one of the most profitable seasons in the history of the industry in this locality.

One hundred freight cars of oranges are expected to be shipped this year by the Pasadena Orange Growers' Association, according to H. E. Jack, manager, who estimates their value at $200,000. This association is composed of fifty orange growers in Pasadena, Altadena, San Marino and La Canada.

About 300 cars of oranges and 200 cars of lemons will be marketed by the Sierra Madre-Lamanda Citrus Growers' Association this year, according to Frank Webber, manager. Their total output should bring $650,000.

The increases in quantity of output and profits to the ranchers are taking place in spite of a considerable reduction in acreage during the last year, caused by real-estate subdivision development.

NEW NEWSPAPER FOR LEAD MINING TOWN

PUBLISHER ANNOUNCES APPEARANCE OF WEEKLY ON EDGE OF DEATH VALLEY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LEADFIELD, March 7.—Another newspaper has entered the Southern California field, the Leadfield Chronicle, published at Leadfield, Inyo county, on the edge of Death Valley. The first issues were printed at Goldfield, Nev., but the publisher, Bernard M. Stone, is installing a plant at Leadfield.

Considerable development is taking place at Leadfield, acording to Mr. Stone, with several companies working on mining claims, and the completion of a road by way of Beatty, Nev., is expected to bring in considerable tourist trade, especially as the road will pass through Death Valley. The route is 330 miles from Los Angeles and will soon have automobile stage service, it is expected. A tourist hotel of 28 rooms is planned, and its promoter is talking of airplane service.

Leadfield is in the southern end of the Grapevine range of mountains, on the California, Nevada border, at 4250 feet elevation. It is near Titus Canyon, which breaks the range from the west side, starting at an elevation 1300 feet above the floor of Death Valley and ranging upward for nine miles. The walls of Titus Cayon rise 2600 feet sheer at several spots, with an opening in places no wider than 30 feet.

The Leadville Chronicle will be a weekly.

Young Lady Had Method in Apparent Madness

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, March 7. — S. A. Drake was walking toward his home at 102 South Stoneman avenue late last night when he was accosted by an attractive young woman, who had just crossed the street in front of Drake's house.

The woman carried her flirtation to the extent of throwing her arms about Drake, talking t him in endearing terms. She suddenly released him, according to Drake's later report to the police, and darted to the other side of the street where he saw a small coupe waiting. She got in and drove quickly away.

As Drake, slightly disconcerted and wondering what it was all about, reached his front door he thrust his hand into his pocket for his key. Then something dawned upon him.

A wallet containing $10 in currency and a check for $62.50 was missing.

Fractured ribs and severe bruises about Stutzer's head and body were not held dangerous injuries by hospital attendants, save for the advanced age of the crash victim. Hope was expressed that he would survive the shock and improve rapidly.

AMUSEMENT ZONE FOR BEACH CITY

Promoters Get Long-Time Lease on Valuable Ocean Front Property

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

NEWPORT BEACH, March 7.—Announcement made today that this beach's first amusement zone would be located at Fifteenth street, half-way between Newport and Balboa, indicates that a heretofore undeveloped area would be rapidly built up following the investment of nearly $100,000 in the project.

Prior & Church, said to be the largest manufacturers of roller-coasters and other thrilling play devices, have taken a ten-year lease on a plot of land, 500x300 feet, fronting the ocean at Fifteenth street, according to a statement made by H. Cardoza Sloan of Balboa, who was instrumental in consummating the deal.

The site is owned by F. E. Keeler who originally purchased it from the Pacific Electric Land Company. The price of the lease is reported to amount to approximately $20,000. Prior & Church announce they will spend $65,000 at once in erecting a roller-coaster similar to the one they installed at Mission Beach, San Diego, and which will be called the Balboa Giant Dipper. They report that they already have started making cars at their shops in Venice and that work on construction would start in two weeks. The plan is to be ready for the opening May 1.

On the bay side is located the municipal camp grounds, which bring thousands of people in every season. CAMP MURDER CASE ECHOED IN CIVIL SUIT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, March 7.—Litigation over the estate and life insurance of Lee Camp, wealthy young rancher of this vicinity and of whose murder three persons were convicted, has again occupied the attention of the Superior Court. Mrs. Pearl Camp King, sister of Lee Camp, filed a reply to the suit brought by her former attorney, Clark Clement, in which she denies the assertion of Clement that in a compromise she received $51,000 in property and cash from Mrs. Jennie Laura Brown, foster mother of Camp and one of those convicted of his murder, but admits that she did receive $26,000 in property and insurance money from Mrs. Brown and that there are still additional sums due her in her compromise with Mrs. Brown, to whom Lee Camp deeded all his property and made out his life insurance policies.

Mrs. Brown is in jail here, with Fred Mills and J. H. Tipton, awaiting the result of their appeal to the Appellate Court from the verdict of murder. Mrs. King asserts she is willing to pay Clement a reasonable sum for his services but not $28,000 sued for.

ASK BONDS TO ASSURE MORE WATER

Redlands Submits Question of Spending $525,000 to Buy Irrigation Stream

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, March 7.—The City Trustees have called a bond election to be held on April 12 at the same time as the regular city election to elect three new Trustees. The people will be called on to vote on bonds of the sum of $525,000, the money to be used to purchase the water of the Zanja, old Indian mountain irrigation stream, owned by the people of the old town west of Redlands.

The Trustees called the election on the recommendation of the city water committee. There was a discussion in which it was brought out that those opposed to the bonds would claim that it is a three-cornered deal to rebound to the benefit of the old-town people and the East Lugonia Mutual Water Company rather than to the city.

A campaign of education to offset this was organized. Those favoring the bonds say that the city will benefit greatly. The city will get water on a level that will save much pumping and will contract to furnish water to the old-town people at a certain price, but from wells where the lift will be small. The East Lugonia Mutual Company will offer the use of its pipe line to deliver the water into the city lines and will be paid in the power which city water will generate to pump the wells of the East Lugonia Company. Engineers will work out the benefits to all interested so that a contract can be made which will be for the good of all parties concerned.

The water of the Zanja is owned by the old-town ranchers who have threatened to sell it because of the loss incurred in getting it to their ranches. The point is made that the city must buy the water or it may be lost entirely. There will be ten precincts in the city for the election and polls will be open from 6 in the morning until 7 in the evening.

PLAN WORTHLESS

San Diego Attorney Gives Opinion in Water Controversy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 7. — Because the $4,500,000 El Capitan bonds were voted exclusively for municipal purposes, it is doubtful if the La Mesa Irrigation district could be allowed to aid in financing construction of El Capitan dam and share the water impounded, according to expression of opinion today by City Attorney S. J. Higgins.

The suggestion that San Diego and the La Mesa district pool their interests and develop El Capitan together, was made recently by Judge M. W. Conkling, who is trying the city's case against the district and the Cuyamaca Water Company, seeking paramount rights to the waters of the San Diego River.

"The bonding act provides that all bond money must be spent for the purpose outlined in the resolution of intention that was the basis of the bond election," Attorney Higgins explained, "so I think it is doubtful if the city legally could take any such joint step as this compromise plan suggests."

So far, no overtures have been made by the La Mesa district relative to Judge Conkling's suggestion concerning joint construction of the proposed El Capitan dam.

REAL ESTATE TROUBLE

Santa Monica Agents Held for Preliminary Hearing

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, March 7.—Preliminary hearing of C. D. Starr and C. H. Berkey, former Venice real estate men who had offices at 1102 Trolleyway, under the firm name of Starr Realty Company, has been set for 1 p.m. on the 24th inst. by Justice of the Peace W. R. Garrett of Santa Monica.

Starr and Berkey were arraigned on charges of grand larceny and forgery preferred by Fred Carlton, the trouble arising out of a real estate transaction involving transfer of a canal lot during the boom in this class of property following announcement that the Venice canals were to be filled and converted into highways.

The two real estate men were charged with withholding moneys paid down on a lot after failure to deliver title. The forgery charge involves the asserted negotiation of a receipt known to be a forgery. A dummy was asserted to have been used in the transaction.

According to reports here, the real estate license of the two accused men was revoked some time ago by the Real Estate Commissioner. Both are now at liberty under $3000 property bond, pending the preliminary hearing.

A banquet for the new members will mark the close of the week's campaign.

ELECTION RULE WORKS HARDSHIP

Attorney's Opinion Disfranchises Large Number

Advice of County Counsel Asked in Matter

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, March 7.—Adding a precedent of years standing and hurling a bombshell into the ranks of local school officials, decision of Atty.-Gen. Webb has been received here which will mean that hundreds of legal voters cannot vote in the school board poll on the 24th inst.

Keen interest has developed in this election, in which two tickets are ready seeking to replace the retiring school-board members, as nothing has been urged about registration, as the old register has always been considered good for this election.

But now, the Attorney-General has handed down an opinion that Section 1094 of the Political Code provides only for use of old registrations between January 1 and April 1 at "municipal or special elections" and does not apply to school elections.

Under Webb's ruling and the law requiring closing of registration books thirty days before a vote, it would appear that only such voters as reregistered between January 1 and February 24 of this year will be entitled to vote in the approaching school election. School officials expressed the opinion that such a rule would cut the vote to a very small number.

A meeting of the high school and elementary school boards was held last night and Dr. A. L. Smith, president, has requested an opinion from J. H. O'Connell, County Counsel of Los Angeles county. School officials refused to comment upon their probable action until this opinion is received.

These include a board of prominent Ventura county citizens. Improvements of the grounds are to begin with the building of tennis courts, rogue and croquet grounds, a bowling and putting green and the excavation of a swimming pool. Stables for saddle horses are also to be erected.

While the club as organized will be composed strictly of Ventura county residents, it was announced today by the directors that all social memberships not taken locally will be opened to persons from other parts of the State. The inn, which is closing to make way for the new club, has been popular as a motoring parties from over the Southland for many years.

TELEPHONE COMPANY SPENDS LARGE SUM

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, March 7.—An expenditure of $328,745, largely for new construction, is to be made this year in the Inglewood district of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, it is announced by the local manager, J. FOREIGN TALENT

WARNER BROTHERS ENGAGE GERMAN DIRECTOR

By Grace Kingsley

When H. M. Warner, of Warner Bros., stepped ashore in New York from the Berengaria Thursday following his long trip abroad, he not only was ready and willing to admit that he had had a very good time, but he also admitted that he had signed another of these foreign directors who are becoming so popular of late.

The newest acquisition is the German director, Paul Ludwig Stein, who has signed a long-term contract with the Warners, and who will come to Hollywood within a short time to take up his directorial duties.

ELINOR FAIR SIGNS WITH CECIL DE MILLE

Attractive Elinor Fair, who recently completed the feminine lead in Cecil B. De Mille's feature production, "The Volga Boatman," has been signed to a long-term contract by the De Mille studio, according to word just received.

ELINOR FAIR

Although Miss Fair was originally selected for the one picture only, De Mille is so enthusiastic over her work opposite William Boyd that he has given her an extensive contract.

De Mille cast Elinor for her leading role in "The Volga Boatman" after he had made screen tests of a score of prominent actresses, and, in spite of her limited experience, she filled her part with unusual ability.

She was featured in a cast including Victor Varconi, Julia Faye and Theodore Kosloff, in addition to Boyd, who played the title role. Lenore J. Coffee wrote "The Volga Boatman," the story being suggested by Konrad Bercovici's novel.

BEAUDINE TO PRESIDE AT PREMIERE

"Patsy" Melodies Will be Broadcast Tonight From Mason Theater

"Patsy," heralded Los Angeles' first metropolitan musical comedy production, in that it is locally sponsored and directed and played principally by New York stage celebrities, will have its world premiere before a glittering audience tonight at the Mason.

William Beaudine

With Lou Holtz and Gloria Foy, Broadway favorites, as a drawing card, every social "first nighter" is expected to be in the audience, in addition to a large assemblage of notables from the screen world and stageland.

Stars, directors and studio executives of Warner Brothers and Douglas McLean productions have reserved an entire section of seats in compliment to William Beaudine, director and vice-president of Patsy Productions, Inc., the producing organization.

Beaudine himself will preside at the microphone which will transmit the tuneful melodies and the highly dramatized plot of "Patsy" to radio fans listening in all over the country.

Potboiler New Theater

This Wednesday the Potboilers opens a new theater in Gamut Club, Hewarth and Hope streets, playing "Six Characters in Search of an Author," until Saturday.

"THUNDER MOUNTAIN" REVEALS MANY MOUNTAINS, NO THUNDER

BY HERBERT MOULTON

Life in the raw, in the bad hill-country of the South, where men are men in appearance only—and women chew tobacco.

Hardly suited, it seems, for the digestion of metropolitan movie-goers after all these years.

On the other hand, it may go well with those who like a diet that is safe, simple and staple.

There is certainly nothing even remotely resembling paprika in "Thunder Mountain." It is plain fare, to be sure, but whether or not it is wholesome depends largely on the view you take of feuds, moonshine, whipping of women, near-lynching of men and the many other innocent little pastimes of the childish mountain folk.

It is not strong drama, this film at the Criterion, nor is it exactly what could be called melodrama. The regeneration theme is vigorous and always kept in the foreground.

As much as I dislike persons whose eyes glow with a maniacal "inner light" and whose avowed purpose in life is to "improve" their fellow men, I can't help but admire the portrayal of one of them given by Leslie Fenton, in the hero role.

Fenton's work is excellent throughout, even to the sustaining of what some might call the divine glow in his eyes. The interpretation is beautifully done; it is what he interprets that does the damage.

He starts out as a very bad boy—a mountain lad with a grudge in his heart and a rifle in his hands.

And then he reforms. Goes over to "the other side of the mountain" with the circuit rider and sees how good people live.

A year later, after assimilating much goodness from the people on the other side of the mountain, he returns, all dressed in black, oozing virtue, with the fires of reformatory enterprise already shining in his purged orbs.

With such a hero as this even a child could see without a subtitle that things are going to be terribly black for the heroine. And black they are, inasmuch as the poor girl is an ex-circus performer, young, pretty and filled with the exuberance that comes of mountain ozone.

As I say, he was too good a hero. True, he wanted to build a schoolhouse for the "pore, dumb critturs" of Thunder Mountain, and was doubtless motivated by the finest impulses, but I don't feel that the girl displayed much forethought in falling in love with a man whose eyes, in the years to come, would continue to emit flashes of divine righteousness.

Possibly this won't bother some people any more than it did the girl.

For purposes of entertainment there are other elements.

There is that very excellent ZaSu Pitts, for one, in a miserably small role.

And Otis Harlan, who remains gloriously drunk most of the time and whose befuddlement of mind at the very climax of the picture is both humorous and tense.

Then there's the concluding sequence when the organ keys stick. This furnishes one of the best laughs in the picture.

Madge Bellamy plays the girl in an adequate fashion and reveals some unusual acrobatic ability (if it really was Miss Bellamy who did it) at several places.

The old circuit rider is depicted by Alec Francis with flawless technique. Arthur Houseman, as the chap on the other end of the hero's feud, is beautifully despicable. Russell Simpson does a mountain miser tellingly. Emily Fitzroy and Dan Mason offer convincing portrayals. Others appearing are Paul Panzer, Jay Hunt, Main Geary and Natalie Warfield.

"Thunder Mountain" is another example of the difficulties encountered when a stage play is made into a picture. Turning dialogue into action proved difficult even for Victor Schertzinger, who directed, and the piece consequently drags interminably at places and is fearfully dull at others.

Tom Miranda's subtitles prove blessings at these points.

Other features on the Criterion bill are a Mack Sennett comedy called "From Rags to Britches," and quite as inane as its title; a Grantland Rice Sportlight; and an appealing rendition by Leonard Clark, at the organ, of Rubinstein's "Romance."

WILL KING SHOW IS GOOD AMUSEMENT

Takes Liberties With 'Hottentot,' But Provides Mirthful Stunts That Page Laughs

Will King has set out to amuse the American business man, his lady and the children—of all ages. While the exponents of the higher drama are trying to educate the public, Will King provides something to look at, laugh at and go home and forget. It's a great recipe for a popular show. No empty seats at the Broadway Palace, this week or any other week.

The liberties Will King takes with "The Hottentot" are appalling, but no one seems to care. Even those of us who are well acquainted with this play laugh jovially at the slapstick moments which don't belong.

Will King takes the whole three acts and carries them bodily without straining a muscle. It is necessary for the rest of the cast to do little more than decorate the stage, although Lew Dunbar as the butler justifies himself.

Of course, the girls of various sizes and stages of dress and undress are among the important little—and not so little—details of the entertainment. The jockey drill given in clever unison rises to demand mention and so does the Tango, danced in the open-and-shut manner which those Latins love so well.

Poor Glenn Hunter, the American boy of the pictures, has somehow wandered onto this dazzling and sophisticated bill. He doesn't belong at all though he is only there in the "screen flesh," in a film called "The Pinch Hitter."

Glenn does some clever acting but the ensemble is spoiled by the acute knowledge that the story is almost exactly like "The Freshman," Harold Lloyd's picture. Constance Bennett, the luxury-loving and city-bred, plays a small-town waitress, who blushes when our hero looks her way. Connie simply does not belong behind the counter—nor behind the blushes either.

"LITTLE SYMPHONY" WINS APPRECIATION

Tandler Conducts Two Concerts of Exceptional Merit; New Works Are Interesting

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Adolph Tandler's Little Symphony programs of Saturday morning and Sunday evening were of exceptional merit and met with an enthusiastic response.

The first program was interesting for four reasons: The unique manner in which Arthur Bliss used two voices in his rhapsody, the delicious humor of a festive spider in the ballet of Albert Roussel, some very splendid solo work by Calmon Luboviski in Corellis's "La Folia," and a well-written suite by Sigurd Frederiksen, cellist of the Philharmonic Orchestra.

The rhapsody by Arthur Bliss, whose residence in Santa Barbara made him a figure of interest a few years ago, is scored for string quartet, English horn, flute and two voices. The voices singing, "Ah" blended with the orchestra in an impersonal harmony.

The work has no particular object or form but is none the less pleasing in a certain colorful evanescence. It was done with a delightfully light touch. And the singing parts were made as interesting as they could have been with words.

"La Folia," originally written by Corellis on a church theme and presented by the Little Symphony in a Max Reger harmonization with Calmon Luboviski playing the solo, was an excellent piece of work. The theme and variations were admirably played by Mr. Luboviski. He has a violin tone of remarkable virility and beauty. Both his natural musical taste and his tone quality were shown to advantage in this work. The Reger orchestration enriched the solo.

The Sunday evening concert opened with Mozart's Jupiter Symphony, and included arias by Jetson-Ryder and the Omar Khayyam suite by Charles Wakefield Cadman, with the composer playing the "subsidiary" piano part.

Jetson-Ryder gave a Handel aria from "Alceste" with commendable ease. He has an attractive stage appearance and a good voice in fair control. The floritura of Handel are a step in advance of his present vocal equipment, however.

The popular Cadman delighted the audience with his characteristic Persian "atmosphere." The Omar suite will make him many new friends.

CONCERT AT LOEW'S STATE IS PLEASING

A large audience was present at the Sunday noon concert given yesterday by the Loew State Theater Augmented Concert Orchestra under the direction of Reuben H. Wolf.

Wynne Bullock, tenor, and Mme. Anna Ruzena Sprotte, contralto, were the soloists. Charles Wakefield Cadman and Mrs. Edward MacDowell were guests of honor, and each made a brief speech preceding the concert, which was sponsored by the Los Angeles Opera and Fine Arts Club.

Wynne Bullock's singing was pleasing. He possesses a tenor voice of fine timbre and power, and his enunciation is excellent. His offerings were the aria, "If With All Your Heart Ye Truly Seek Me," from Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," and the Dvorak "Songs My Mother Taught Me," which was sung with finesse. The orchestral selections included the "Tannhauser Overture" by Wagner, which was given a dramatic rendition, the March of Bacchus (from the Sylvia Ballet,) by Delibes, MacDowell's wistful "To a Wild Rose," and an orchestral arrangement of Cadman's lovely vocal composition, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water."

Mme. Sprotte contributed the aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from the Saint-Saens opera "Samson and Delilah," and followed with an interpretation of Cadman's "At Dawning." In which she produced tones of appealing sweetness. In the Saint-Saens number, however, her time was uneven, and her pitch not always true.

A string quartet selection, the Andante Cantabile from the String Quartet, Opus 11, by Tschaikowsky, was also included on the program, and was well received.

MUSICAL

SCRIABIN'S "PROMETHEUS" AT RUSSIAN CONCERT

By Edwin Schallert

Imagination had a chance to exercise itself in a new way in absorbing the impression of a combining of music and color, with the presentation of Scriabin's "Prometheus" under the auspices of the Russian Art Club last Saturday evening. The noted Russian composer's work for the orchestra, described as a "poem of fire" was played under the direction of Modest Altschuler, by a complete instrumental ensemble, with the piano added. In the performance of the composition the Tastiera per Luce, or colored light keyboard, was also introduced.

By means of this device various hues, shades and tints were thrown upon a silken screen at the back of the stage at Philharmonic Auditorium, while the orchestra offered the Scriabin music.

The experiment proved interesting, rather than startling. It could not be said to have awakened any wild burst of enthusiasm. I rather think that the audience expected more of the colored light effects, and the "Prometheus" tone poem does not yield a great deal on a first hearing, especially when there is the added distraction of watching, as well as listening. At moments, however, there may have been the suggestion of certain new emotional reactions from the blending of color and music.

It is something, of course, to have heard this Scriabin composition presented in the manner in which the composer intended that it should be. I presume it may be said that the concert arrived at an approximation of this at least. Scriabin was ahead of his time, perhaps, with the idea and the means for producing colored light when he wrote "Prometheus" ten years ago were crude compared with today.

In any event, Mr. Altschuler and the Russian Art Club wrought very nobly in trying out the work, and they presented it as part of a program that was notably fine in that it included Rachmaninoff's "The Isle of Death" and other music never before heard here.

"The Isle of Death" is one of Rachmaninoff's most pretentious works for the orchestra, and very admirably depicts the spirit of the painting by that curious and symbolical artist, Boecklin, the mystical charm of whose canvases is widely known.

Rachmaninoff has caught an atmosphere strangely remote, shadowy and Charon-like particularly in the early and closing portions of the tone poem.

There is a climax that reaches a veritable apotheosis of tone—vividly fiery and haunting, yet in a way distant and mysterious as well—truly cryptic. While it possesses a somewhat similar character to Strauss's "Death and Transfiguration" I find the "Isle of Death" in some ways more truly inspired, and Mr. Altschuler's reading of the score struck me as splendid, especially after other unemotional ones I have heard elsewhere than here.

The other numbers were all lighter. A Gliere episode, a pastorale by Ippolitow-Ivanow from manuscript, and some short child themes portrayed in music by Kenyus were included. Three Russian poems were given by Massainoff, their author, with accompaniments written by Mr. Altschuler, and were very well received by the Russian members of the audience. Mr. Altschuler's music had a very pleasing quality.

Dr. Alexis Kall not only played—I presume one should say played—the Tastiera per Luce, but also expounded Scriabin theories and the "Prometheus." He brought quite an uproar when he inadvertently said after this seemingly very ample explanation: "You won't understand it." Frances Mae Martin was the pianist for the "Prometheus."

SUNDAY ORCHESTRA CONCERT INTERESTS

Henri De Busscher Displays Rare Artistry; Rothwell Stirs Audience

The afternoon concert given by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra yesterday was not an unqualified success. However, the high lights of the orchestra program were so exceedingly high that the points of low visibility were cast in deep shadow and almost negligible.

Walter Henry Rothwell conducted the Mendelssohn "Wedding March," the "Overture 1812," by Tschaikowsky and two numbers in the old form with a finish that redeemed much, and Henri De Busscher became the hero of the afternoon by some exquisite work in Godard's "Serenade a Mabel."

The march was done in a pointed, spirited way at a very smart tempo. Every familiar phrase stood out in clear beauty.

The "Overture Solonelle, The Year 1812, was a triumph. I wish every conductor and player in Los Angeles motion-picture theaters could have heard it and profited thereby. There were moments so fresh and splendid that I wondered if it could be the same piece we hear hacked to bits by every orchestra in town and illumined by bombs and flaring lights out in the Hollywood Bowl. There were no fireworks needed yesterday afternoon. The music of an inspired interpretation was enough. Seldom does an orchestra reach such a magnificent climax as the Philharmonic did. It was a perfect replica of the demoniacal frenzy of an armistice day.

The audience felt the magnetism of the moment and went quite wild, too—calling out "bravos!" and insisting upon Mr. Rothwell's return again and again.

Mme. Stella De Mette was the soloist. She chose to sing two arias—"Elizabeth's Prayer" from "Tannhauser," and "Nobil Signore" from "Les Huguenots," both unfortunate selections for her. She lacked the necessary flexibility of voice to attempt such numbers. Her phrasing was careless and badly schooled and her ideas of German and French pronunciation made understanding impossible. Although the orchestra played a well-tempered accompaniment, Mme. De Mette thought it necessary to shoot at unexpected moments, startling her audience unpleasantly.

CONSTITUTION'S INCEPTION TOLD

Events Leading to Adoption of Charter Recited

Articles of Confederation Inadequate to Needs

States, Lacking Tie of Union, Warring Provinces

The demoralization of the country after the Revolution is described in the second article on "This Constitution of Ours," written by Jessamine DeHaven Lewis to assist the entrants in the National Oratorical Contest in the territory of the the Pittsburgh Sun and reprinted by permission of that paper in The Times for the benefit of Southern California contestants.

The Articles of Confederation were a "League of Friendship" — an alliance. They provided for States, not for a nation. Under the confederation the government was vested in a Congress of one House composed of representatives from the thirteen States. In this Congress each State had one vote, regardless of size, and there was great jealousy between the large and the small States. Congress was elected every year and the members were paid by their respective States. There was no provision for an executive department of government or for a judiciary—for a President or governmental department, by whom laws might be administered, or for a Supreme Court where disputes might be decided.

The strong feature of the Articles of Confederation was the guarantee of interstate citizenship. Citizens of one State were granted all the privileges and immunities of citizens of every other State. This made for a spirit of common citizenship.

On the other hand, there were important weaknesses inherent in this incomplete government.

CONGRESS POWERLESS

Though Congress was given the power to make treaties it had no power to enforce the treaties it made. This made America weak in foreign eyes and our young and inexperienced government became lightly regarded abroad. European nations avoided negotiations with us.

Though Congress could declare war it had no power to raise money to carry on war, to pay the debts of the Revolution, or of other governmental expenses. Congress could not tax individuals. Its only source of revenue was from requisitions on the States. The States willingly enough promised to make contributions, but tardiness on the part of some was an excuse for delay by others, and little of the money promised ever found its way to the Federal treasury.

A third great weakness in the Articles of Confederation lay in the failure to give Congress the power to regulate commerce. Pennsylvania imposed heavy tariff duties. New York retaliated. So exchange of goods between the States became much more difficult than trade with England. Then, the various ports vied in the imposition of import dates. Statehood became magnified and nationally diminished.

Again the weakness of the confederacy was apparent in its monetary system. The only specie in circulation was foreign coins, Spanish, French, British and such State coins as the Massachusetts pine tree shilling. Congress, in an effort to get money, issued paper currency, called the "Continental currency." How this depreciated is well illustrated in the saying that persists to this day, "Not worth a Continental."

DEFENDERS FORGOTTEN

And what was the result of an inefficient, weak government?

The soldiers, who had fought through the long, hard, weary, bitter years of the Revolution, were hungry, ragged and penniless. But they could not be paid. They still had their muskets with which they had fought, many of them seven years, to secure independence for themselves and their fellow-countrymen. They were eager to go to their homes but were waiting, ever waiting, for the long-promised accumulated back pay, upon which they had depended for a new start upon the rebuilding of their shattered fortunes. Now it seemed their country was forgetting them all because no common central government existed that could do the thing that ought to be done. Rebellion in the army for a time seemed to be imminent, and was averted only by the great Washington, who personally appealed to the men and persuaded them to go home, put down their arms, and trust to the country.

The insecurity of commercial affairs caused great economic distress. People were hungry. There was no work. Debtors' prisons were crowded, for in those days it was still the custom to imprison a man for debt. Small wonder, then, that a disgruntled patriot, Shay, was able to incite a mob to march on the prisons in Massachusetts, to open the doors and forcibly seize control. It was with great difficulty that the government put down the insurrection. Examples of discontent, agitation, were numerous.

DISASTER PROPHESIED

Philosophers abroad prophesied that it would to but a short time until the several States, divided and helpless, would fall prey to a European power. George III looked with jealous eyes and became confident that his once-rebellious subjects would again soon be seeking the favor of his grace and protection.

Statesmen at home saw the danger. They realized that conditions could not long be permitted to continue if the country were to survive. But instead of turning to foreign lands for aid, they turned to seek the solution of their difficulties within their own counsels. A new hope presented itself to them, a new and stronger government, a new and greater Constitution.

And so the call went forth for a constitutional convention to revise the Articles of Confederation.

Because that call went forth we live to enjoy the stability, the security, the honor, the power, the glory of all that citizenship in the United States of America means to us today.

(The next article of the series will appear in The Times tomorrow.)

NINE THOUSAND AT WISTARIA FESTIVAL

Pilgrims to Sierra Madre View Largest Vine in World

NINE THOUSAND persons journeyed to Sierra Madre yesterday to view the Wistaria Vine, the largest in the world, on the estate of Mrs. Estelle Fennel.

The dull lavender that shrouds "Old Baldy" and Mt. Wilson in the background are brought into an essence of concentrated color in the blooms of the Wistaria Vine.

Nine nations and thirty-four States were represented in the signatures on the register of the Wistaria Vine Fete.

The vine is the largest that has been grown in the history of horticulture. It covers more than an acre of land in the Fennel estate, north of Sierra Madre.

The vine was planted in 1893 by Mrs. A. G. Brugman, a resident of Pasadena. In 1913, the late Henry T. Fennel purchased the estate on which the vine grows and took up the care of the vine as a hobby.

Within three years he had produced a vine that was not only larger than any other cultivated in America, but the largest in the world.

In 1918 a Wistaria festival was held on the Fennel estate under the auspices of the Red Cross. Since then an annual festival has been held under the auspices of the Women's Club of Sierra Madre. Proceeds of the affair are spent in the erection of a new clubhouse for the Women's Club.

TAGLESS TOWN OF SANTA CRUZ SEEKS VISITORS

The family car, so prone to breaches of traffic etiquette—particularly when visiting strange cities—is hereafter going to be treated like a human being, with a sympathetic understanding, in Santa Cruz. Immediately upon the arrival of a tourist automobile in that city it will not be subjected to the humility of a police tag if the left front wheel fails to run true to form.

If the announced plans of U. M. Thompson, Commissioner of Public Health and Safety, are carried out, a newcomer will not visit the police station first, and his hotel later. Quite the opposite of such a dismal reception is the wish of Commissioner Thompson.

Members of the police department assure courteous treatment of visiting motorists, it being the policy to be helpful rather than aggressive. The practice of "tagging" first offenders for minor violations of the traffic code will be discontinued, it is said. Each visitor is somewhat needlessly urged to carry upon his car a banner or other indication of his native city.

Sentence Fifth of Mail-Truck Robbers Today

Sam Shapiro, last of the bandit gang that on October 8, last, robbed a mail truck of $523,000 in front of the Santa Fe Railroad station, will be sentenced this morning by U. S. Judge James.

Having pleaded guilty to the first count of his indictment, Shapiro is liable to at least twenty-five years in a Federal penal institution. Three others who elected to stand their punishment without trial received similar terms. They were George A. Davidson, driver of the bandit car, Robert E. Cargo and Charles "Chuck" Wagner. Frank Teschiona offered a bitter contest but was found guilty by a jury on four of the nine counts and later was sentenced by Judge James to thirty-one years in prison.

Another member of the gang, Harry Burke, is a fugitive from justice, while Mrs. Dorothy Lee Teschiona, charged as an accomplice and a participant in the spoils, was freed by the jury.

FILM CONTEST RICH IN IDEAS

Few Uneducated People Submit Letters

Many Excellent Themes Brought Forth

Winner Will be Chosen in Few Weeks

An unusual feature of The Times-De Mille Photoplay Letter Contest, which closed February 27, was the surprisingly small number of unlettered persons contributing their ideas.

In this respect the contest was vastly different from the one Mr. De Mille sponsored in 1922, when fully 20 per cent of the letters were from unschooled men and women.

With less than 100 exceptions, the entries were from persons who were well educated and well informed on historical, biblical, geographical, political and sociological subjects. So expansive was the field of thought that it was estimated by the readers of the letters that more than 1000 broadly classified subjects were noted.

Mr. De Mille, in commenting on the high intelligence shown by the contestants, said:

"I was never so surprised as by the diversity of ideas brought out by this contest. Reading the thousands and thousands of letters contributed for the contest prizes totaling $2100 has taught me one thing that I shall never forget—and that is that the average man and woman has secreted in his or her mind some definite understanding or knowledge that escaped even the professionally educated.

HISTORICAL EVENTS

"Interesting historical episodes that our college books failed to elaborate have poured into the contest by the hundreds. The same applied to the Bible and even to the remotest fields of abstract learning."

The work of sorting out and classifying the tremendous response to Mr. De Mille's request for an idea suitable for his next big production goes on unabated. Letters by the hundreds are still coming in from European countries and these are all eligible since they bear postmarks earlier than February 27, when the contest closed.

Mr. De Mille is staggering under a load of good ideas and it is not expected that he will be able to select the winners for some weeks to come.

Many contestants are asking whether their letters were fully read.

The opinion seems to hold among some that only a few of the thousands of letters received were opened and marked for consideration of Mr. De Mille.

The opposite is true. Every piece of mail matter for the contest was opened and every one was read carefully. Sometimes as many as three readers collaborated on one entry in order that the full meaning and significance of the suggestions might be determined.

Letters were all marked with the readers' initials and classified according to the character of the ideas expressed in them. At the end of each day the letters were forwarded on to Mr. De Mille for his personal reading.

As Mr. De Mille sees excellent qualities in an entry he writes either an "A," "A-," "B" or "C," according to his opinion of its worth, and then files them under these new classifications until the time when he is ready to select his winner.

YO HO, THE BOLD SAILOR BOY!

His Fling Delayed Almost Century

A Runaway Nonogenarian

PARENTS customarily believe that when their offspring have safely passed the age of 15 or 20 years, they are relieved of the worry that they may run away to sea. Such, however, seems not to be an infallible rule.

F. W. Zimmerman of Santa Ana, who is 90 years of age, has just returned after such an escapade. Up to the time he completed his ninth decade of life he had never been on a boat. With the approach of his ninetieth year, however, the call of the sea became too much for him and he yielded to its temptation.

Early in life Zimmerman met and became acquainted with Abraham Lincoln. Last year he conceived the idea of making a trip to Washington to meet President Coolidge and paying a visit to the scenes with which he was familiar many years ago. Accordingly, he shipped aboard the Panama-Pacific liner Mongolia and made the trip to New York and thence to Washington, where he was received by the President.

So delighted was Zimmerman with his experience on the ocean that when the Mongolia left New York on her return trip he was safely aboard several hours before sailing time. Arriving here this week, his only regret over his experience at "running away to sea" was that it was not possible to take a boat from Los Angeles Harbor to his home in Santa Ana. He now is planning another voyage.

The winner will be selected within several weeks, and the public can rest assured that every contestant was given an absolutely equal chance for the $1000 first prize and the other awards totaling $1100.

If Mr. De Mille makes his selection from an historical theme, for example, every letter with a theme founded on the same historic episode must be carefully reread so that there can be no chance for unfairness.

All of these letters of a similar character will then be compared and the one best presenting the theme will win the capital award.

The De Mille Pictures Corporation has gone to great expense to make an intelligent reading of the thousands of entries possible. As many as eight expert readers were engaged during the latter part of the contest.

California-bound tourists from Chicago this season exceeded that of last year by more than 25 per cent, according to Frank E. Scott, manager of the Union Hotel ticket office in that city, who is in Southern California on a vacation and is registered at the Biltmore.

"Not only has the tourist business during the last winter been heavier than ever before in any season, but today is the banner day of reservations for the spring and summer vacations. Indications are that we will have an unprecedented number of tourists here this year," he said.

"Southern California is better known in the East as a desirable winter resort than as an offering summer attractions equal to those of its winter season."

The Chicagoan said there has been a noticeable falling off in the number of people going to Florida this winter.

"This refers not only to those attracted by the cool weather, but to winter residents.

"The principal reason for this has been the exorbitant rates and accommodations caused by the influx of northerners. Hotel and hotel rates have skyrocketed without all reason and the tourist who goes on vacation has come to realize that they were not getting their money's worth. One of the things in favor here in California is the possibility of your rates being reasonable accommodations."

Gustave Meyer, 47 years of age, owner of a second-hand store at 122 East First street, was knocked out yesterday by Charles Lane, Cherokee Indian, in an attempted robbery, according to police records. He was captured by officers a short distance from the store and said, they declare, he had intended to sell a suit of clothes but became frightened after knocking Meyer down and did not take it. LENTEN SEASON RESPITE FOR WORLD-WEARY SOUL

Season of Meditation Real Source of Power and Experience, KHJ Audience Told

Power, health, the gold of wisdom and the jewels of joy are to be found by those devotees who set aside certain seasons in which to enter into the silence and meditate on God, according to Dr. H. C. Culbertson, pastor of Mesa Congregational Church, who addressed the KHJ audience yesterday from The Times broadcasting station. Preaching on "Silences of the Soul," Dr Culbertson spoke in part as follows:

"One of the wonderful qualities of human nature is the way in which we direct our attention, concentrate our thoughts, first upon one interest, then upon another, in order to make up a balanced life. During the day we center our thoughts first upon breakfast, later upon work, later upon pleasure, and at some time, if we be wise, upon worship. During the year we emphasize patriotism on July 4, football about November, stock-taking and casting up accounts at the first of the year, and then, toward Easter, we have what is called the Lenten season, when we lay our emphasis upon the deeper things of the spiritual life.

"The word Lent comes from the same root as the word 'lengthen,' and it originally referred to the lengthening days of spring. The custom of a fast and religious emphasis at this time commenced about the fourth century, and in the Middle Ages the obligation to abstain from meat was so strenuously enforced that sometimes armies were almost reduced to starvation, even with an ample supply of ordinary food on hand, when the proper Lenten food was not available. During the siege of Orleans, in 1429, the Battle of the Herrings was fought to protect a convoy of Lenten food for the army of England.

"During the Reformation the Puritans set themselves so vehemently against all Catholic ceremonials that they refused to keep Christmas and Lent and similar festivals altogether, and rejoiced in flouting the customs of the Lenten season by gormandizing on meat defiantly. Now, as the old bitternesses and antagonisms of that era are passing away, we are glad to recover some of those ancient religious customs, not as having authority, but as representing a spiritual emphasis which is abundantly worthwhile in our modern time. We are not concerned so much with the physical aspects of Lent as with the spiritual. Sacrifice, self-denial, is observed, not as a ritual, but as a reminder to ourselves of spiritual realities amid the hurly-burly and materialism that suround us.

"Too many of us in our religious life are like the small boys at Halloween, who rang door bells and run. We rush a hasty prayer aleft, just as the child pulls the door bell, and then we run before we give the infinite God a chance to answer us and to breathe His messages into our souls.

GOLDEN SILENCES

"The greatest experiences of life come to us in the silences. It was not in his crowded years, when Moses was prince, priest and warrior of Egypt, that he perceived the vision which made him great, but after long years of waiting, amid the mighty mountain peaks of Sinai, along with God, in the silence of the soul, that he heard the voice saying 'Put off thy shoes: the place where thou standest is holy.' The forest fire that burned the bush suddenly sang a message of spiritual meaning, and Moses went forth from that vision of God and God's truth to live a career of poise and splendid power.

"Elijah, crude, glorious prophet of the wilderness, dared to challenge King Ahab in his capital, dared to challenge the priests of Baal upon Mount Carmel, summoning fire from heaven, but the loftiest hour in all his life was that lonely moment upon Sinai, when, after the earthquake, the tornado and the fire had passed, he heard the still, small voice of God in the silence of his soul.

'Amid the intense pressure of His mighty ministry, Jesus often drew away from the crowds and the villages, to go out into the hills alone, for silent communion with the Father. We can pray to God at any time and be sure that He who marks the sparrow will hear our lightest whisper, but the lives of real spiritual glory and power are those that go apart for prayer. 'Enter into thine inner chamber. Shut thy door.' Seek the silence of the soul in the presence of the Holy Spirit of the Living God.

"There are two phases of religion: devotion and action, prayer and service. The noblest action and service grows out of the hours of meditation, the silent worship when we close the doors of life on all the noise and strife, the hatreds the tumults without, and look for the inner meanings, the spiritual values of life, listen for the heartthrobs of God. At Chamounx, in the Swiss Alps, an iceman estimated in dollars and cents the value of all that ice if it were in New York City on July 4, while, standing at the same place, Coleridge wrote about hearing the 'silent cataracts of frozen splendor singing the eternal praise of God.'

BEAUTY INDESCRIBABLE

"A blind boy, relieved of his blindness by an operation, exclaimed, 'Mother, why did you not tel me the world is so beautiful?' The mother answered: 'I tried to, but you could not understand.' Even so, there are spiritual values we cannot see nor appreciate unless we seek the spiritual silences in which the blindness can be lifted from our souls. In a mining district a traveler asked a boy who was driving some mules about on Sunday what he was doing, and the boy answered, 'The mules work all week down in the mines, but we bring them up on Sunday to keep them from going blind.' If even the mules need to come into the sunshine, how much more do we need to come up out of the toil and rush of our daily turmoil into the divine sunshine.

"The significance of Lent is beautifully illustrated by the story of the tourist who, passing through an art gallery in Copenhagen, remarked slightly about a statue that represented Jesus Christ. A little girl with the party said to him: 'Oh, but you must go close, kneel down and look up into His face.' Lent is the time to go close to the Infinite God, kneel down and look up into His face, and let Him come as a Christlike spirit into our souls.

"Out of the holy prayer-silences comes strength, comes practical efficiency for real accomplishments in the material world. Compare, for example, Paul with Nero, Napoleon or Bismarck. Paul was a mystic. His life was 'hid with Christ in God,' 'He was 'caught up to the seventh heaven.' But what a man of world-shaking action that mystic was! Though scourged, stoned, imprisoned, shipwrecked, crippled by what he called his thorn in the flesh, he nevertheless went forward indomitably until, as the great historian Froude expresses it, 'modern civilization came to Europe in a little boat with a man named Paul.'

"Paul stood before Nero, that deformed genius, imperial mountebank, the heartless, soulless musician who could fiddle over burning Rome, and who died at last, a cowardly suicide, hated and despised, a fugitive from vengeance. Compare that little Jew mystic with the emperor. Which was the man of real power? Surely the man who sought the silences of the soul, and from them drew power for every ordeal and developed the poise of those who live, not for the superficial things which pass away, but for the eternal realities. Compare Paul with Napoleon. Both were men of small physical stature, and both of intellectual genius, but how different in spiritual resources! Napoleon, after shaking the world, died peevish, fretful and inglorious under exactly the same conditions of imprisonment as those under which Paul rose with deathless song and praise to write those matchless epistles that have come singing down the ages to inspire our lives today.

BUILDERS OF EMPIRES

"Compare Paul with Bismarck, that statesman of 'blood and iron,' who builded a military empire, sowing sentiments and ideals which were to result in a disastrous war, while Paul's chapter on love spreads over all the world, making life beautiful and heavenly for multitudes.

"All our real spiritual growth is in the quiet hours. When did David conquer Goliath? Not in the fight by the brookside, so much as in the days of preparation out among the hills when he learned to fight against lions and bears for the protection of his sheep, learned coolness in danger, skill with his weapon and trust in Almighty God. Then the struggle by the brookside simply revealed the victory that was already won in his own soul. So in meeting our temptations, if we wait till the moment of temptation we shall fall a surely as David would have fallen if he had been unprepared for the conflict. But if we have spent silent hours with God, gaining heaven's point of view, there are temptations that can never even reach us, and as for the others, the victory will be already won in our hearts before the conflict commences.

"Just as the power of electricity which we now use to light our homes and drive our cars was always in the air about us, long before man ever discovered it, so there are spiritual forces in God's universe all about us that we have never discovered, and cannot discover until we learn to seek the silent hours with our Father. There are memories deep hidden in our hearts that will arise and make life beautiful if we seek the silent hours that give them opportunity, memories of mothers and fathers and friends who dreamed great dreams for us and whose hopes for our future are all unrealized. There are sins growing in our lives that have power to wreck our careers if we do not take the silent hours to seek them out and ask God to destroy them. Just as a tiny seed once falling into a crack near the keystone of a splendid stone bridge grew from an unnoticed sapling to a tree whose roots so weakened the bridge that it fell, so there is many a slight, selfish habit, an unworthy thought, a lustful glance, a covetuous look, a spiteful tongue, an unkind judgment, whose destructive power is developing as the tiny seed develops into the tree, and then some day there comes disaster, and the life is wrecked and useless, unless by the grace of God the evil growth is uprooted and killed before it is too late.

"Take thought in the silent hours for the opportunities that are flying past you, even as the landscape flies past when you are on a moving train. When I was a little boy my mother died, and my father urged me to write down my memories of her before they could fade from my mind. But I was so busy with other things that the time slipped away, and the task was never done, and now I would willingly make any sacrifice to regain what is lost, but the opportunity has passed. By all the regret that I have suffered, I adjure you, in the hours of communion with God, to take thought about these days that are going by, these days when you can still make up after some quarrel with a friend; these days when you can help some great cause you are not helping; these days when you can still choose right and not wrong in some personal crisis; days when you may commence to grow into leadership for God instead of into a career of waste and selfishness; these days when you can still write that important letter or speak that vital word to win some comrade to Christ. It was said, 'If Murat could have led the Old Guard at Waterloo, perhaps the victory might have been won.' God needs you at some Waterloo, more than Napoleon needed Murat, but you will not be on hand unless in the hours of quiet devotion you have listened in, tuned in on eternity, to hear His message from above.

"There is a wonderful healing power in the silences of God. Everywhere there are stricken, weary and discouraged souls that need the healing word and touch of the Father. In the Book of Job, after much passionate discussion about the tragic mystery of evil and suffering, there comes no answer to the problem, no solution to the perplexity of the ages, but Job comes into personal relationship with the infinite God, saying, 'I had heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth Thee.' In seeing God, feeling the personal nearness and love of God, he found peace, although his intellect still remained unsatisfied and his questions unanswered. No woe can be so deep, no pain so terrible, but in the silent hours of prayer the Spirit of God will breathe into your innermost being a healing peace, a quiet, eternal poise and strength which the world can neither give nor take away. Keep Lent in this spirit of devotion, and the joyous Easter will find you a risen soul, living the eternal heavenly life here among men."

POOR LO NOW OIL PLUTOCRAT

Osages, Enriched, Seek Los Angeles

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wyrick

WILD warwhoops from feather-becrowned Indian chieftains startled Inglewood residents yesterday afternoon. The red men to the number of more than a score assembled on a vacant lot and staged a primitive powwow with all the savage fervor that marked tribal rituals of the days before the white men came.

But the weird beating of the tomtom, the rhythmic chants of the medicine men and the monotonous swaying of the dancers were only a colorful program arranged in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wyrick, millionaire Osage Indians, who recently have arrived from Tulsa, Okla., to reside in Los Angeles.

The Wyricks, made immensely wealthy by the discovery of oil on lands of the tribe, expressed a longing for the diversions of the days when they lived on an Oklahoma reservation. Chief Red Wing, who resides on Olive street, Inglewood, offered to assemble the leading chiefs now residing in Los Angeles and to present a program of tribal entertainment in honor of the wealthy Osage visitors. All afternoon the festivities continued, and last night there was an enormous council fire with the chiefs seated around it smoking the pipe of peace.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyrick are said to be among the wealthiest of the younger Osage Indians, drawing royalties of more than $20,000 a year. Participating in the entertainment which honored them yesterday afternoon were Chief Red Wing, a Cherokee; John Rainbow, a Mojave; Chief Little Bear, a Mohawk; Chief Second, an Apache, and Chief Standing Bear, a Sioux.

Although delighting in the Indian diversions, Mr. and Mrs. Wyrick said they are finding life in Los Angeles far more enjoyable than it was on the reservation of the Osages, now turned into one of the country's best-known oil fields.

TENOR GREETS WIFE WITH SONG

Singer to Sail Soon With Family for Oriental Ports

Mr. and Mrs. John McCormack and Daughter

IT GENERALLY costs real money to hear John McCormack sing, but dock workers and others at the Dollar dock heard the tenor for nothing yesterday. There was inspiration in his warbling of "I Hear You Calling" too—for Mrs. McCormack and daughter Gwendolyn were coming down the gangplang off the President Van Buren.

Although the famous singer, now filling engagements in Los Angeles, had been away from his family only six weeks, the reunion at the dock was something to cheer advocates of happy family life.

The McCormacks will be reunited a long time now. After a few more engagements here, the tenor will go to Fresno, and then sail with his family for Shanghai and other oriental orts which will hear him for the first time. Leisurely they then will trip it on around the world.

Thirty other travelers of the 102 aboard disembarked here, while an equal number will take passage when the liner sails at noon today on her seventh continuous globe circuit, having traveled 195,000 miles in this service.

WOMEN'S GENEROSITY SALVATION OF WORLD

Rev. William C. Isett, pastor of Amanda Chapel, preached yesterday on "Perfume." He said in part:

"According to the financier and treasurer of the company headed by Jesus Christ, Judas Iscariot. Mary of Bethany wasted a pound of precious perfume on Jesus when she poured it over His feet. It might have been sold for a good price and the money given to the poor, with, presumably, much advertisement for the disciples of our Lord. The ointment served two purposes: It gave pleasure to the Son of God, and it was the price of a memorial for a woman, which has stood for 2000 years. When it comes to the cost of devotion, of worship and religion, women are the greatest spenders in the world. For 2000 years the money given by women, together with their devoted service, cannot be estimated in figures. The cool calculation of the cost by men would kill religion in two generations. The whole world is pictured in Mary of Bethany and Judas. Of the two, Mary proved the better financier. Without this reckless spending in religious devotion Christianity would never have reached the stage it has in the world. We would still be where the countries of other religions are today. It was the mother of Moses who saved Israel from Egypt by defying the king. It was Esther who dared death for the sake of religion. It was Mary, the mother of our Lord, who faced eternal disgrace when she said to the angel, 'Be it unto me according to thy word.' It was Monica, the mother of Augustine, who was used of God to bring Christianity to Italy and then to England. It has been the mothers of men who have given both their children and sacrificial money for the spread of the gospel. They did not stop to count the cost. They did it because they loved the Lord. All too little credit has been given to the women of the world who have poured out the precious perfume of their lives on the feet of Christ."

CONSTITUTION'S FOES DEFIED BY PREACHER

Dr. Bruce Brown, pastor of South Park Christian Church, preached yesterday on "Choose Ye This Day." He said in part:

"Down through the ages there comes a ringing call 'Choose ye this day whom ye will serve.' Lack of decision is a fatal weakness and is certain to bring disaster in the end. The Civil War would have been over in three months if Buchanan had not hesitated until the seceding States had obtained control of practically all the nation's military equipment and army supplies. The line is clearly drawn betwen the things of religion and the things of the world, and one of the most pathetic sights is that of a preacher lost in No Man's Land and heading straight for the enemy's lines. It is certain that when the church does not know where it is going is not going in the right direction. There can never be any compromise or a drawn battle while there remains in the world an organization that hears the call of Moses. 'Who is on the Lord's side?' The enemies of the Constitution and the friends of sedition and rebellion have been saying, 'The church put over prohibition.' We can be proud to let the statement stand and we shall add another to it: 'Prohibition is going to be kept in the Constitution and this nation is going to enforce its laws if it takes the same toll of lives and tears and money that it took to make the Emancipation Proclamation effectual.' There were some weak-kneed preachers, who, to their eternal shame, apologized for slavery while Lincoln was calling for volunteers. There are men who would carry the banner of Christianity across the line."

Sim Crabill Says—

"If you're short of ideas for your Direct Advertising, call upon our Service Department—it will help you out with some good ones."

THE best of paper, type, ink and press work—essential though these be to the production of advertising literature—are not all that's needed for literature that will produce the best results. That's why we maintain for the benefit of our customers a Service Department. In this special department are men with ideas and the ability to express them by word and picture—advertising writers and artists with wide experience and records of achievement. You can count upon us, therefore, for service that begins with the vitally important preparation of your Direct Advertising. We should like to show you what we have done for others, and prove what we can do for you.
